GOP Chairmen Get Orders For Marching

THE DEFENSE DEPARTMENT released these artist's sketches Saturday in Washington after President Johnson announced the department has approved a program for the development of a plane designed specifically for air support of counter-insurgency. LBJ Unveils Plane Plans For Bush War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced Saturday the Defense Department has approved a program for the development of an aircraft designed specifically for air support of war against guerrillas.

Johnson said the Navy Department will contract for the building of seven prototype aircraft at a cost of about $18 million.

JEEP EQUIVALENT

"This counter-insurgency (Coin) aircraft will be an airborne equivalent of the 'Jeep'," Johnson said. "It will be able to perform peacetime emergency functions such as disaster relief, medical missions or riot control, as well as military missions to include light armed reconnaissance, helicopter escort and attack, and support of ground troops.

"The aircraft will have the capability to operate from rough clearings, primitive roads, and waterways, in addition to prepared airfields and aircraft carriers."

The contract will be with the Columbus, Ohio, division of North American Aviation Corp.

Johnson said the aircraft has been extensively studied by the military services. The Marine Corps initially stated the formal requirement for a light armed reconnaissance aircraft and the Air Force confirmed the need for it, Johnson said.

He added that the Marine Corps supplied the specifications and that the Navy was designated as the developing agency.

He said the first flight of the new aircraft will be in about a year.

Anti-U.S. Mob Of Indonesians 'Seize' Library

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A stick-banging mob of youthful demonstrators "seized" a U.S. information service library in Jogjakarta as anti-American feeling spiraled in Indonesia.

The "Americans go home" sentiment shouted Friday by the mob of about 3,000 has spread through this island nation in the wake of President Johnson's pledge of support to Malaysia, and a U.S. Senate move to halt American aid to Indonesia.

President Sukarno has pledged to crush the British-backed Malaysian Federation of Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman.

Although Sukarno last March said "to hell with aid," American congressional action to halt the stream which has poured $700 million into Indonesia since 1950 added fuel to anti-Yankee flames.

Actual status of the American library in Jogjakarta, a central Java town, 275 miles southeast of here, appeared uncertain.

Paul Neilson, USIS director in Indonesia, said a 35-man delegation from the mob gave the library director, James Anderson of Washington, D.C., a declaration saying the premises were taken over.

Anderson signed the declaration "under duress," said Neilson, who said he told the delegation, "We don't consider this as an official document."

AGAINST FOREIGN INVASION

Russia May Come To Cyprus' Aid

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union declared Saturday night it is prepared to come to the aid of Cyprus if the island is invaded by a foreign power.

This pledge came in a reply from the Kremlin to the request by the Cyprus government for Soviet military help in the face of earlier Turkish air attacks.

An official government statement issued Saturday night said:

REPLY TO APPEAL

"In reply to the appeal of the government of Cyprus and President Makarios personally the Soviet government declares that if a foreign armed invasion of the territory of the republic takes place, the Soviet Union will help the Republic of Cyprus to defend her freedom and independence from foreign invasion and is prepared to begin negotiations on this matter right now."

The offer to begin negotiations right now was a clear bid for an alliance with the Republic of Cyprus. Such a deal, bringing the Soviet Union into the Mediternean, could change the entire power setup in the region.

The bitter quarrel between Turkey and Greece over the island has already had severe repercussions on the eastern anchor of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Both Turkey and Greece are members, but Cyprus is not.

The offer of military aid also served to build up Makarios' bargaining power to gain a solution of the explosive crisis agreeable to himself.

The Soviet statement, issued here by Tass and broadcast in Greek to the Mediterranean, said:

"Due to the immediate danger of invasion by foreign armed forces in the territory of Cyprus, President Makarios appealed to the Soviet government and asked for military aid for the defense of the national sovereignty and independence of the Cyprus Republic," the broadcast said.

"Having in mind the interests of the consolidation of peace, the Soviet government has always supported the just cause of the Cyprus Republic."

CUDE CHILDREN

Vaccination Clears Way For Schooling

MENA, Ark. (AP) — The father of three Arkansas children who were forcibly vaccinated against smallpox said Saturday that he will send his children to school when it opens Aug. 31.

A son and two daughters of farmer Archie Cude were vaccinated Friday on orders of the Arkansas Supreme Court, climaxing a long court battle on the issue of state vs. religion.

Vaccinations are required by school boards before children can enter school. Cude refused to allow his children to be vaccinated on religious grounds.

He said he believed as a result of reading the Bible that medical practice is against the will of God.

But Chancery Judge John Wesley Howard ruled Cude could not deny the children an education on religious grounds. The Supreme Court upheld Howard's decision last spring but no action was taken immediately to give Cude time to appeal.

The deadline for appealing was Monday, and Howard ordered Sheriff Bruce Scoggin to bring the three children, Wayne, 13; Delia, 11, and Linda, 9, here for vaccinations.

The children put up a screaming, kicking, biting battle and had to be held by deputies while they were vaccinated. Then they were returned to their farm home in the rugged Ozark foothills 20 miles north of here.

Friday, Cude would not say whether he would send the children to school.

Saturday morning he said he would not refuse to send them.

"I never have objected to a public education for my children," Cude said. "For the last five years on opening day of school we have been taking them to the school to enter them. But they were refused because they had not been vaccinated."

Just what grade the children will enter is questionable. Wayne was in the second grade when the vaccination issue started six years ago and the two girls have never been to school.

The Cudes have five other children and Mrs. Cude is pregnant.

Goldwater Hit By LBJ On Arms Use

Counterattack Comes During Press Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson blasted Sen. Barry Goldwater by name Saturday on the question of nuclear weapons in Viet Nam, accusing him of loose charges and doing "a disservice to our national security, a disservice to peace, and for that matter, a disservice to the entire free world."

This unusual, perhaps unprecedented, counterattack by a President on a rival by name took place at a news conference in the White House Rose Garden.

While he was at it, Johnson brought Goldwater's running mate, Rep. William E. Miller of New York, into his line of fire. He lumped both men together as having made loose charges.

LENSES

And in a jab at the Arizona senator alone, the President said it seemed to him the Republican presidential nominee "ought to keep his lenses in his glasses, at least on the subject of nuclear warfare."

This was an apparent thrust at the senator's action in posing for pictures, minus lenses in his glasses in order to avoid reflecting photographers' lights, as well as at the senator's reading ability. Goldwater was photographed Friday sticking his finger through his lenseless glasses.

Johnson said that because all matters relating to nuclear weapons are of great gravity, "I think it is necessary to have the record absolutely straight."

And he said he gave no admonition to the U.S. 7th Fleet to use any weapons necessary to hit North Vietnamese PT boats and bases after attacks on U.S. destroyers.

Goldwater had implied that Johnson had freed the 7th Fleet to retaliate with nuclear power if necessary.

Johnson said that there was no justification whatever for Goldwater's position.

He said that at what he called a governor's peace conference at Hershey, Pa., Wednesday, Goldwater had said that the President had given an "admonition" to "use any weapon" against the North Vietnamese but Goldwater admitted that he had not seen, read, or known what was in the orders issued by the administration. Instead, Johnson said, the senator reported he had read the admonition in some newspaper.

"I gave no such admonition in public or private," Johnson said as a starter.

Second, he said, orders to the commander specificially for "conventional weapons only."

Congo Army Stems Invasion Around Bukavu

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Rebels pushed into the outskirts of Bukavu, capital of Kivu Province, but were finally pushed back by the Congolese army, messages from Bukavu said Saturday.

Col. Frank Williams, head of the U.S. Military Mission to the Congo, and his Belgian counterpart, Col. Guy Logeist, flew to Bukavu during the day for a first-hand look at the situation.

Messages said the Communist-backed rebels struck Friday from the northwest but successful defense by Congolese forces helped restore calm to the city. Panic had been reported and most Europeans still in the city fled to neighboring Rwanda Republic.

There were no fresh reports from Kikwit, in the western province of Kwilu, where Peking-trained Pierre Mulele's rebel warriors last were reported within 20 miles of the city. Reports said Mulele, who fostered the recent uprisings in the eastern Congo, had about 2,000 men in the Kwilu area.

A YOUNG WOMAN is taken in tow by New York City policeman Saturday as group of demonstrators marched from Times Square to Hammarskjold Plaza, opposite the U.N. A group of about 250 young people defied a ban on demonstrations in the Times Square area as they tried for the second weekend to stage a rally protesting U.S. activities in Viet Nam. Police broke up the rally in Times Square but permitted them to stage it at Hammarskjold Plaza, seven blocks away. Several disturbances occurred enroute and police made several arrests. REAPPORTIONMENT SQUABBLE

Liberal Filibuster To Tie Up Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A band of liberals tied up the Senate again Saturday with their budding filibuster against legislation designed to thwart the Supreme Court's ruling on Senate legislative apportionment.

They not only kept the Senate from doing any serious business, they succeeded in a tactic that warms the hearts of all filibusters. They drew their opponents into the debate.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, the prime mover in the drive to delay the effects of the high court's ruling that districts for both houses of state legislatures must be "substantially equal" in population, declined Friday when Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., tried to get him talking.

BREATHING SPACE

But Saturday, Sens. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., and John Stennis, D-Miss., gave the liberals breathing space by taking the floor to criticize the Supreme Court and lower federal courts for their directions that state legislatures be reapportioned on a "one-person, one-vote" pattern.

Then after the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., broke in with a lengthy attack on the Republican presidential candidate, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the leadership called it quits for the day.

Forecast Back In Same Rut

The weather forecast is back in its rut again today with more partly cloudy and warm skies predicted for Monroe and surrounding area. Some shower activity is expected mostly in the afternoon and evening.

SHOWERS

The Twin Cities got a little "wet stuff" Saturday. FAA at Selman Field recorded .53 inches of rain in the short period of activity.

Saturday's low was recorded at 74 cool degrees with a mild 90 as the high. The weatherman says that the high today will reach 88 to 94 with a low temperature of 72 to 77 predicted for tonight.

Winds today will be southwest and south 8 to 16 miles per hour.

Weather Warms In North's Cities Following Chill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Temperatures climbed into the moderate 70s Saturday after early morning chills that set new records across the eastern half of the country.

Earlier temperatures dipped to the freezing mark in parts of western Maryland and many areas reported frost. Summer snow fell on a few high mountain slopes in the Adirondacks in New York State and in Vermont. Chicago, Pittsburgh, Rochester, Boston and New York all reported record low temperatures.

The mass of cool air over the eastern portion of the country collided with warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico and set off severe rainstorms in Texas, Oklahoma and the southern Appalachian Mountains.

'Eagle Changing,' Goldwater Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican chairmen from across the nation got their campaign marching orders Saturday, and heard presidential nominee Barry Goldwater charge that under the Democrats "the national symbol is slowly changing from the eagle into an ostrich."

Behind closed doors at a day-long strategy session, GOP state chairmen and finance leaders were given financial quotas to help raise a campaign budget National Chairman Dean Burch said will total about $13 million.

They also got the first stage of a nationwide vote-quota system. Burch said the Goldwater forces are setting a vote quota for each of the nation's 185,000 precincts.

GOLDWATER SPEAKS

Goldwater spoke at a closed session, but it was learned he told the party leaders the American people are "frightened" about dishonesty in high places. He mentioned the Bobby Baker and Billie Sol Estes cases.

"They're anxious to have leadership that stresses morality and that stresses honesty," Goldwater said.

"I am convinced the people of this country are sick and tired of what they sense, not what you see but what you sort of smell," Goldwater said.

He said the voters are troubled, not only about international affairs but about the domestic situation.

"I am not referring to civil rights at all, I will not use this during the campaign," Goldwater said.

The Arizona senator said the Republicans may put out a book "of Bobby Baker nursery rhymes."

"We're thinking of calling it 'The Butcher, the Baker and the Stereo-taker,' " he said.

Goldwater renewed his criticism of administration defense policy in these terms: "This present administration has not produced a single new strategic weapons system and about the only bomb it's produced has been (Secretary of Defense Robert S.) McNamara."

Goldwater said in the campaign ahead he will "go hunting where the ducks are."

The senator said he will not try to hit every state. "We will rely on television more than we ever relied on it before," he said. "We just can't physically see the number of people that we have to see between now and the election."

"I think we are a united party, I think we have achieved that," Goldwater said. "If we keep this drive we can't help but win in November."

Rep. William E. Miller of New York, Goldwater's vice-presidential running mate, told the state party leaders the national ticket will "give all the help we can" to every GOP candidate who seeks it.

And he said state congressional candidates who want to serve effectively can do it best by helping elect "a Republican president who knows how to lead a national effort."

Miller said "Republicans all over the country who want to defeat Gentleman Bird in November" have united for the task. That was a taunting reference to two lady members of the Johnson Family: Lady Bird and daughter Lynda Bird.

Aides tried to hush a band of fez-wearing Shriners, holding a convention in the same hotel, who paraded noisily through the corridors.

Police Battle N.Y. Leftists; 38 Arrested

Youths Protest Viet Nam Action At Times Square

NEW YORK (AP) — Policemen fought pitched battles across mid-Manhattan on Saturday with a leftist group of young people trying to rally in Times Square against U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Several demonstrators were knocked to the ground — to the cheers and taunts of spectators trailing the group of about 250.

Police arrested 38 persons, including four just back from a government-flaunting trip to Cuba.

Officers carried or dragged several demonstrators to police vans — including one young woman dragged away by the hair. Some were bleeding.

CUBA TRAVELERS

Backers of the organization include at least three young men indicted for, or admittedly responsible for, arranging the so-called "student" tours of Cuba by young Americans defying a State Department travel ban.

The latest such tour, involving 84 young Americans, returned here only Friday night with several of its members openly proclaiming themselves believers in communism. Some of them joined the protest Saturday.

The organization, calling itself "The May 2 Movement" for the date it was formed, tried vainly to demonstrate in Times Square last Saturday and 17 persons were arrested.

Rallies have been banned in Times Square since the spring of 1962 when 42 persons were arrested while protesting the late President John F. Kennedy's decision to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

Leaders of the May 2 Movement announced plans to rally there again Saturday, despite the ban and last weekend's experience.

Chief Inspector Lawrence McKearney, the city's top uniformed policeman, met them at 47th Street and Seventh Avenue with 100 of his men.

Police told the group that no demonstration would be permitted at the square but that it could rally at Hammarskjold Plaza, across from the United Nations, seven blocks east.

Levi Laub, one of the Americans who went to Cuba last summer, agreed to move, saying: "We're here to demonstrate against the war in South Viet Nam. We're not here to fight cops."

JET AGE STOWAWAY

Daring Deed Brings 'Shame' To Traveler

HONOLULU (AP) — A 30-year-old baggage handler at Tokyo's Haneda Airport was discovered here Saturday apparently after stowing himself into a Hawaii-bound jet aircraft along with the luggage.

Shigeru Sasaki, looking embarrassed and remorseful, indicated that he decided to climb aboard the Pan American World Airways flight on the spur of the moment.

He was found accidentally by a startled Pan American attendant at Honolulu International Airport, with only an identification card pinned to his white coveralls, a package of cigarettes and about 450 yen — less than $1.25.

John F. O'Shea, district director of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in Hawaii, said Sasaki was the first air stowaway here in his memory.

Officials who converged at the airport to talk to the bewildered man expressed amazement that he survived the journey in an unheated compartment.

They said the temperature must have been from 39 to 40 degrees below zero at the altitude, 30,000 to 40,000 feet, at which the aircraft was flying.

Sasaki said, however, through an interpreter, that he did not get too cold except for his feet.

He said he did not know why he made "such a foolish move" and wanted to return home.

Although he had long thought about coming to Hawaii, he said he had not planned to hide aboard the airplane and did it on impulse.

Three Areas Elevated To Departments

The academic areas of art, music and speech at Northeast Louisiana State College have been elevated to department status ,it was announced today by Dr. Clint Hanna, dean of instruction.

Dean Hanna said the departmentalization of these areas, formerly grouped as the Division of Fine Arts, will be effective September 1. Each new department will have its own departmental chairman.

Heading the Department of Music will be Joe Barry Mullins, a member of the music faculty at Northeast State since 1951. Dr. Edward J. Kramer, director of communications seminars for Michigan State University and the U.S. State Department, is the new chairman of the Department of Speech. Dr. Mack D. Vaughan Jr., member of the art faculty at the University of Southwestern Louisiana for the past 11 years, will be chairman of the Department of Art. The Department of Music will be in the School of Education. The Departments of Art and Speech will be in the School of Liberal Arts.

"This departmentalization comes as the result of growth in enrollment and stature of the three disciplines," Dean Hanna stated. "The appointment of chairmen will provide the opportunity and incentive to focus all resources of the departmental staffs to the best advantage of the disciplines involved and the College as a whole."

RABALAIS DIES

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Earl Fred Rabalais, 42, owner of the Rabalais Truck and Tractor Co. of Bunkie, died Friday in an Alexandria hospital.

Funeral services will be held at Bunkie Sunday. Survivors include his widow, two sons and two daughters.

Rabalais was a past president of the Deep South Farm Equipment Association. He was a member of the State Democratic Central Committee.

Explosion Rips Natchez Negro Meeting Place

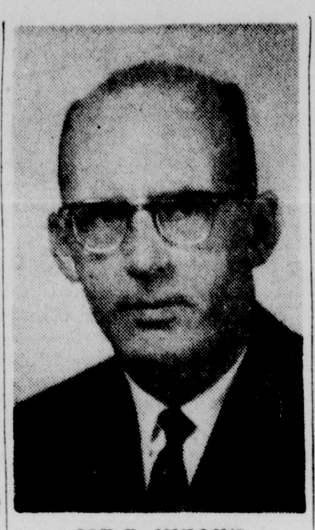

NATCHEZ (Special) — A Negro night club here where members of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee have been reportedly meeting was ripped by an explosion Friday night.

No injuries were reported after the incident.

Cause of the explosion, according to Fire Chief Vincent Guido, was "undetermined," but local Negroes said it was a "fire bomb."

The Mississippi National Guard won't let anyone in or around the area and the FBI is investigating.

No arrests have been made.

JOE B. MULLINS

Mullins New NLSC Acting Music Head

MONROE, La. — Joe Barry Mullins, associate professor of music and director of bands, has been appointed acting chairman of the Department of Music at Northeast Louisiana State College, announced Dr. T. Eugene Holtzclaw, dean of the School of Education.

The appointment was announced simultaneously with the announcement that music is being given departmental status within the organizational framework of the School of Education. Approximately 75 per cent of the students in music are preparing to become teachers, it was noted.

Mullins, a member of the Northeast State music faculty since 1951, has attained national prominence as band director and conductor. In addition to his outstanding work with NLSC's marching and concert bands, he has been in demand as judge, clinician and conductor throughout the South and in other regions. He has been guest conductor of all-state high school bands in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas, and Tennessee in recent years. He was guest conductor, judge and clinician at the All-Eastern Band Clinic at Washington, D. C., in 1955.

Earlier this summer, he served as conductor of the USA High School Band and Chorus, which performed at the World's Fair in New York City and on tour in Canada.

Last spring Mullins conducted the Northeast State Concert Band in the recording of a long-playing album of original band music for a new music appreciation series to be released by a New York publishing firm within the coming year. The series is for use in elementary schools.

A native of Magnolia, Ark., Mullins holds the Bachelor of Music degree from Southwestern at Memphis and the Master of Music degree from George Peabody College for Teachers. He expects to complete requirements for the doctor's degree at the University of Illinois during the coming year.

After 10 years of high school band directing experience at Pine Bluff, Ark., Itta Bena, Miss., DeFuniak Springs, Fla., and Shreveport, Mullins joined the music faculty at Louisiana Tech, Ruston, as assistant professor in 1949. He came to Northeast State two years later.

Mullins served as a member of the summer faculty at Peabody, 1950-52.

He is state chairman of the wind instruments section of the Louisiana Music Teachers Association and a member of the College Band Directors National Association, Louisiana Teachers Association, Louisiana Music Teachers Association, American Symphony Orchestra League and Phi Delta Kappa.

Married to the former Miss Virginia Lou Williams of Itta Bena, Miss., he is the father of two daughters and two sons. Two of them, Joyce and Barry, are students at Northeast State. The youngest, Thad, is a senior at Neville High School.

GOP Chairman Releases Figures For Campaigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Dean Burch estimated Saturday President Johnson will spend $20 million seeking reelection, and said Sen. Barry Goldwater's presidential campaign will cost about two-thirds of that amount.

Burch said Republicans are setting a vote-getting quota for each of the nation's 185,000 precincts.

He said Goldwater will count heavily on television, and will travel the nation in a chartered jet seeking votes.

Burch sketched campaign plans in a news conference midway through a gathering of Republican state chairmen and finance leaders to discuss Goldwater's race for the White House.

He said the campaign budget is not yet completed, but he figures Johnson will spend $20 million, and devote $4 million to spot television appearances alone.

Burch said $4 million is as much as the Goldwater forces will spend on all their television programming.

The GOP chairman said his estimates of Johnson's spending were based on figures compiled by advertising agencies retained by the Republicans.

Burch said as yet there is no figure on the number of states Goldwater will hit during his campaign.

"We're not going to make a commitment to go into all 50 states," he said.

Burch also told newsmen:

— Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has agreed to spend five weeks campaigning close to election day.

— Both Goldwater and vice presidential nominee William E. Miller will spend considerable time in the South.

—Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton has promised to do everything he can for the ticket. "To me that means he will be stumping the entire United States."

— The precinct vote quotas are based on past election turnouts and outcome, and provide a blueprint for a Goldwater victory. Burch said he did not have the total quota.

Police Book Monroe Man On 4 Counts

Monroe police arrested a 22-year-old man shortly after midnight Saturday morning and booked him on four counts before he was finally freed on three bonds. Three of the counts stemmed from a minor accident.

Police said they answered a call that there had been an accident at Peach and Jackson Streets. Upon investigation, they found that a car driven by John Wiley White of 204 Adam St., Monroe, had collided with a pickup truck.

No injuries were reported but White was charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, reckless driving and possession of a concealed weapon.

Bond on the traffic charges was set at $435 and on the weapon charge at $360.

At 2:15 p.m. Saturday, White was arrested on a warrant involving a bad check count with bond set at $160.

Police booked Azell Fisher, 38, Negro, of Farmerville, at 3:55 a.m. Saturday on charges of DWI, reckless driving, speeding and carrying a concealed weapon. He was arrested in the 2600 block of Renwick Street. Bond was set at $500.

Wayne E. Fontenot, 19, of 513 N. 16th St., Monroe, was picked up in West Monroe Friday night and turned over to Monroe police who booked him on a theft charge about 10 p.m. Friday. He was arrested on a warrant.

Officers in Monroe also booked Dewey Ray Hinton, 32, of Rt. 3, Box 251, West Monroe, at 1:15 a.m. Saturday for DWI and reckless driving. He was arrested at Jackson and Lidell Streets.

West Monroe police booked one person late Friday for DWI and several others Saturday on the same charge.

Charged Friday was Jakie D. Saxon, 24, of 708 S. 3rd St., West Monroe, after his arrest about 11 p.m. at Trenton and Wood Streets. He also was booked for reckless driving and causing a wreck. Police said the accident was minor and involved no injuries.

Mase Johnson, 29, Negro, of 1808 Texas Ave., Monroe, and Robert E. Jones, 36, of Bossier City, were booked for DWI Saturday. Smith was arrested at 2:15 a.m. at Trenton and Crosley Streets and Jones was charged at 5 a.m. after his arrest on Cypress Street.

A 39-year-old Negro, Norman Smith of Teacher St., West Monroe, was charged at 3 a.m. Saturday for DWI and not having a valid driver's license after his arrest on Benson Street.

Ammie Louise Bates, 27, Negro, of the Crane Hotel, Monroe, was booked shortly after 4 p.m. in connection with the theft of $19 at the hotel.

Police said Joseph Williams of 1317½ Breard St., said someone took his wallet containing the money while he was in the hotel's dining room.

Upon investigation, officers said, Williams told them there was only the woman and another Negro man in the room with him when the money was taken. The Bates woman left the hotel while police were there, officers said. Her bond was set at $350.

Charlie Reed, a 42-year-old Negro of 101 S. 11th St., Monroe, was arrested at 4:50 p.m. in the 100 block of S. 11th for disturbing the peace and carrying a concealed weapon. Officers said he had a .22 caliber pistol.

New Location

The Monroe Baptist Temple will hold its first services today in a new location at the Minnie Ruffin School, it was announced by the pastor, the Rev. R. W. Woodard. Temple meetings previously were held in homes.

The schedule includes Sunday school at 10 a.m., worship at 11 a.m., young people's meeting, 6:30 p.m., and evening worship at 7:30.

Cut Down

The Travel Lodge's old magnolia was put in the hands of sawyers Saturday who had the task of cutting it after numerous surgical operations failed to preserve it.

C. E. Charrier of Asplundh Tree Co., led the team assigned to the job. Four tree surgeons tried to save the magnolia but concrete and construction were too much for it.

Meeting Set

Rodney J. Hobbs Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post 1809 will hold its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett at 401 Grayling Lane at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 18.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Many Fiction Books Available

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

New additions to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week include a number of fascinating new books of fiction. Probably the one which will be most in demand is James Gould Cozzens's new book "Children and Others". It is a collection of short stories in which children play a part. Mr. Cozzens is one of the outstanding modern authors and a new book by him is always eagerly received. Another book which will be in great demand is "The Rector of Justin" by Louis Auchincloss. It is also extremely well-written. Mary Stewart is a master of the art of writing stories of suspense. Her newest book is "This Rough Magic." The setting is the island of Corfu, but the main characters are English. In addition to being a story of high adventure, it also includes an interesting romance.

"The Princess in England" by Michael Campbell is a slight story with an English setting which is useful for occupying a summer afternoon. "The Pond" by Robert Murphy is a very fine book, concerned with the growth of a boy to manhood. It will be very interesting to men and boys. "Widows and Admirals" by Louise Field Cooper is a charming story about pleasant people in a New England resort. It portrays a way of life which is gone, but which is pleasant to read about. "A Flag Full of Stars" by Don Robertson is a long book devoted to the events of one day, the day when Truman beat Dewey for the Presidency in the upset of the century. Mr. Robertson writes well and there will be many readers who will enjoy this book.

An outstanding historical novel is "Queen's Play" written by Dorothy Dunnett. It is set at the French court, when Mary the future Queen of Scotland was living there as a small child. It is extremely well done and will be in demand by the many readers who enjoy this period of history. Another historical novel, this time with an American setting is "Never no More" by Shirley Seifert. This book is based on the life of Daniel Boone and traces his career from Virginia to Kentucky. It is most interesting and will be enjoyed by many readers.

Readers of mystery stories will find four titles to interest them. "Meet in Darkness" by Stephen Ransome, "Affair at Quala" by Thomas Helmore, "The Incongruous Spy" by John Lecarre and "My Name is Death" by Elizabeth Linington.

Crosses Burn In Twin Cities, Around Area

A rash of cross burnings were reported in the Twin Cities and over the area Saturday night, apparently the work of the Ku Klux Klan.

Both police stations were besieged by calls right after 10 p.m. with callers reporting crosses burning in front of schools, at street intersections and various other locations.

An unidentified caller told the Morning World that 10,000 crosses were burning in Louisiana. This, however, could not be confirmed.

The state police also reported burnings over the area.

Among the places crosses were lighted in the Twin Cities were: Linder and S. 8th Streets, Kiroli Elementary School, Ben Ellen School, Ford's Cafe, Richardson (Negro) High School, and Cypress Street, all in West Monroe, and 18th and Louisville, Pecan Street, Riser Street and numerous other sites in Monroe.

THIS IS Archbishop Makarios, bearded churchman president of Cyprus. He is the controversial center of the tinderbox which is Cyprus today. In the eyes of the average Greek he is a much maligned man. In the eyes of certain foreign circles he is an unpopular figure. A misunderstood one, say the Greek adherents. (AP Wirephoto)

Cypriots Claim Makraios Villified

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — In the eyes of the average Greek Cypriot, Archbishop Makarios, bearded president of Cyprus, is the most maligned and misunderstood public figure in the world today.

Glafcos Clerides, president of the Cyprus House of Representatives, said, "Though Makarios may be unpopular among certain foreign circles, he never has been closer to the hearts of his people than during these critical days."

MUST GO

Some London newspapers this past week, especially the Daily Sketch and Daily Express, have expressed strong hostility to Makarios. They have demanded that he go as a necessary step towards a Cyprus solution.

The Cyprus government has protested these stories.

Turkish Cypriot leader Dr. Fazil Kuchuk has sent a letter to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant reiterating a long-standing charge that Makarios is attempting to present the United Nations with a solution by "the massacre in cold blood of one-fifth of the population of his own country (the Turkish Cypriots)."

Even before the recent Turkish air raids on the island, Cyprus was gripped by a war psychosis. This knitted the Greek Cypriot people closer around their revolutionary leader than at any time since they elected him archbishop in 1950, accepting him at the same time as the "ethnarch" or political leader of the people in a surviving Byzantine tradition.

Fourteen years ago when Cyprus was a British colony, the people and the new ethnarch demanded self-determination as a road to "enosis" — union with Greece. Their demand is the same now.

Makarios has popular support because for the past eight months he has resisted the imposition of any other solution to the Cyprus problem, despite great pressure he claims has been exerted upon him by the leaders of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to accept a compromise that would satisfy the Turkish partner.

Makarios has an immense capacity for work. During the first days of Turkish air attacks he stayed up five days and nights in a row attending a marathon Cabinet session to watch developments as a Turkish invasion appeared imminent.

He emerged from the Cabinet meeting twice, looking more tired and thoughtful and considerably older than his 51 years, to pay special visits to air raid casualties in two hospitals. After comforting the dying and wounded, he broke down and cried in public.

He was given touching expressions of popular affection by scores of relatives of the dead and wounded casualties.

A reflection of the mood of the Greek Cypriot people came when relatives shouted at Makarios that he should seek help from the Soviet Union, and then broke out into cheers and applause when the archbishop replied he had already done so and was expecting a favorable reply.

Makarios' popularity sank low in 1959 at the end of the four year anti-British liberation struggle when he accepted the compromise Zurich and London agreements. Under these, Cyprus gained its conditional type of independence ruling out union with Greece.

Though he was elected the first president of Cyprus by a 70 per cent vote, he was called a traitor by a staunch pro-enosis group led by Gen. George Grivas, who was military leader of the Cypriot revolution.

Grivas recently returned to the island still demanding enosis.

Even so, Makarios still defies Grivas, maintaining that the solution to be pursued through the United Nations should be for implementation of the principle of self-determination. This way, he argues, present restrictions on the island's sovereignty will be shed. The people will then be free to decide for enosis without anyone being in a position to object or demand restrictive conditions to calm Turkey.

Grivas' supporters, admittedly a small group, interpret this as a move by the archbishop to avoid enosis again and so remain the president of an independent state.

Makarios is reported genuinely pained by these accusations. Recently he was said to be greatly disillusioned by the British-American stand and was convinced the biggest obstacle to enosis was put up by these two governments in their efforts to get concessions for Turkey.

The archbishop also is known to oppose negotiations under which Cyprus would find itself host to a Turkish military base and a number of separate Turkish Cypriot Cautors on its soil. A plan submitted by Dean Acheson in Geneva is understood to contain such provisions. Makarios is adamant in his insistence the solution should be first the achievement of fully unfettered independence.

Observers believe most Greek Cypriots back Makarios' approach.

In their present mood, Greek Cypriots are violently anti-West. This was stressed during a recent meeting of the House of Representatives when speakers vied with each other in the strength of their condemnation of Britain and America.

It was apparently as a result of this strongly held belief that the Makarios government, which had been following a right-wing but nonaligned policy, finally decided to take the drastic step of applying to the Soviet Union for military aid.

The opinion of the man in the street seems to be, "If there is going to be a war then it is not our fault and why should we be expected to give in?"

WHAT IF YOU HAVE TO START ALL OVER AT AGE 42?

When machinery replaces men—when new methods work more efficiently—that's progress. But opportunity for you is part of progress, too. There will be new jobs—new chances to earn a living. And a better one at that.

Suppose you have many years of experience on a job you like. But—next month or next year—the plant closes down. Or a new machine takes your place. What happens to you?

You won't get tomorrow's jobs with yesterday's skills

These new opportunities will demand something different. New skills. You'll want to re-train—learn these new skills and abilities in order to fill one of the better-paying jobs that progress brings.

It takes a little time and effort to re-train. Mostly, it takes the will to make a better future for yourself. Start by talking to the local office of your state employment service.

Train now for tomorrow's jobs

PHARES CORDER

Corder New Band Leader At Jr. High

Phares Corder, 26-year-old Monroe musician and 1963 graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College, is the new band director for the Ouachita Junior High School.

A. L. Lewis, principal, said Corder is succeeding Jack White, who moved to a similiar position with the Ouachita Parish High School.

Corder, 4015 Spurgeon Drive, is a graduate of Neville High School and received his Bachelor of Music Education degree from Northeast last year. In 1963 he was a member of the Northeast State College Jazz Ensemble on its tour of Germany and France. Later he joined the Jan Garber orchestra, prior to returning to Monroe. He presently has his own dance orchestra, which in July played for the Miss Louisiana Beauty Pageant. He has played first trumpet with the South Arkansas Symphony, the Twin City Symphony and a number of dance bands in the area.

He is married to the former Jeanette McDonald and is father of one child, a two-and-one-half year old girl.

Commenting on Corder, Lewis said "we are happy and fortunate to secure the services of a musician of Mr. Corder's ability and are looking forward to a successful band year."

Torrid In Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — This Japanese capital city of 10 million entered today the second longest heat wave on the 86 years of local weather bureau records. The mercury hit 94.1 — the 25th straight day it has exceeded 88 degrees — longest Tokyo heat wave on record was 31 days in 1881.

SEPT. 1

Alcohol Council Will Open Center

The next step in an effort to help "victims of a disease calling for medical, psychiatric, social and spiritual aid" will be taken Sept. 1 when the nonprofit Twin Cities Council on Alcoholism opens its new information center in Monroe.

Under the guidance of council executive secretary Nina Maxwell, the center, in suite 115 of the Louisville Business Center, will offer "hope, help and health for those who suffer the illness and results of alcoholism through guidance, counsel, education and information."

The staff, according to Mrs. Maxwell, will be "competent and understanding and available for confidential and open constructive assistance on personal and community problems of alcoholism."

Formally incorporated in October, 1963, the founders of TCCA met first in July of the same year, believing, by their own statement, that alcoholics are sick, that they can be helped, are worth helping and that the help is a community responsibility.

Official aims were listed at that time as an intensive campaign of education on alcoholism, arrangements for hospitalization for the acutely ill alcoholic, establishment of an information center to disseminate factual knowledge of the problem and to offer counseling services for alcoholics and their families.

"Because, uniquely, alcoholism still bears a moral stigma that does not exist in other illnesses, it is to be only through the continued, enlightened efforts and a better understanding of a growing number of people — both lay and professional — that the complex problems of alcoholics may be reduced and hopefully solved," Mrs. Maxwell states.

The council is neither "wet" nor "dry", she explains. "Alcoholism — not social drinking — is our problem. Since alcoholism is one of the most pressing social problems in America, it is a public responsibility that deserves community action."

The information center will work with community, state and national health services, including the Ouachita Parish Medical Society, the State Department of Hospitals, the Louisiana Commission on Alcoholism and the National on Alcoholism.

It will serve as a coordinating body, striving to avoid duplicating the services of other groups and attempting to achiexe maximum utilization of available treatment facilities, officials explain.

Council releases indicate the center will serve:

The problem drinker through a service designed to help him accept the fact that he has a drinking problem; to develop with him a better understanding of his drinking behavior; to guide him toward acceptance of treatment of his drinking behavior; to guide him toward acceptance of treatment on a realistic and sustained basis to the end that he will become able to live a happy and productive life without alcohol.

The family of the alcoholic by assisting its members toward a better understanding of the patient and his problems and of its role in the recovery process; by helping the family to secure from other appropriate agencies aid until the patient can again assume family responsibilities.

The employer by helping him to understand the alcoholic employee; by counsulting with him on job placement problems; by helping him to understand and accept his role in the recovery attempts of the alcoholic employee.

The community and its agencies by making available educational literature, institutes, speakers and television and radio programs on the nature of alcoholism and treatment facilities; by helping teachers and school administrators to secure for classroom presentation factual, objective and up - to - date materials on alcoholism.

The council, last May 6-8, was one of the cooperating groups which presented in Monroe an institute of alcoholic studies.

Council officers are George Phillips, president, Tom Scott, vice president, and Travis Howard, secretary-treasurer.

Assisting them are directors Ralph Caldwell, Dr. F. E. Heilman, Mrs. Mel Cook, Dr. Doyle Hamilton, Claude Harrison, Olen Manhart, Bailey Grant and the Revs. Ben Oliphint, W. Alan King, Dave Da Bria and Clifton Tennison.

Lionettes Slate March Practice

The Ouachita Parish High School Lionettes, the pep squad, will begin practing marching Monday at 7 a.m. in front of the school stadium.

The pep group will practice Monday through Friday at 7 a.m. for two weeks. This applies to both old and new members.

Members of the organization are reminded to work on their advertising sales for the football programs as these have to be turned in by Aug. 20.

All members should make sure their uniforms are in order because pictures will be made of the group Aug. 20 at the school.

Ten Beauties Enter State Soybean Meet

JONESVILLE (Special) — Ten Louisiana beauties have entered the Louisiana Soybean Festival queen's contest to be held at 8 p.m. on Saturday, August 29, it was announced by Mrs. Bob Cotton, chairman of the entries committee.

The contestants will compete in the contest for Miss Louisiana Soybean queen at the beauty pageant which will climax the two-day festivities being held in Jonesville August 28-29.

Those entered are Linda Wurster, Jonesville; Dianne Scott, Jonesville; Marilyn Sue Harper, DeRidder; Nina Gwen Stapleton, Jean; Carolyn Womack, Winnsboro; Sherry Dial, Monroe; Barbara Borgkdist, Monroe; Linda Gallender, Monroe; Ginny Claire Carrol, Monroe, and Elaine Butler, Monroe.

Six visiting queens are also scheduled to attend the festival. They are Lynn Baughman, Peach Queen; Donna Jean Rogers, Dogwood Queen; Alice Butler, Miss Northeast State Queen; Beverly Burrill, Miss Stock Show Queen; Renda Daigly, International Rice Queen, and Martha Worley, Miss Louisiana Tech Queen.

The festival will get underway officially on Friday, August 28, with the registration of the contestants at 10 a.m. at the headquarters in the American Legion Auxiliary building. There will be a tour of soybean fields at 2 p.m. with open house at the headquarters at 2:30 p.m.

A swimming contest, sponsored by the Jonesville Lions Club, with H. G. Taliaferro as chairman, will begin at 6 p.m. at the Jonesville Swimming Pool.

A street dance sponsored by the Jonesville Jaycees under the chairmanship of J. Dale Ross, will begin at 8 p.m.

Saturday's activities will begin with rehearsals from 9 to 11 a.m. and contestants luncheon at 1 p.m.

A parade, with Bob Parker as chairman, will begin at 3 p.m. Parker will be assisted by Cicero Smith in lining up the parade. The parade will be made up of marching units, high school bands, the American Legion color guard, floats, contestants in convertibles.

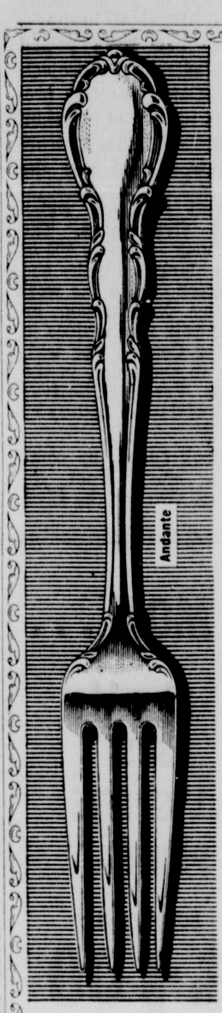

At 8 p.m. the beauty pageant will be held in the school auditorium with Stanley Watt of Monroe as master of ceremonies.

STATUS SYMBOL

There are two kinds of status symbols. One type has to do solely with financial status: certain makes of cars, mink coats, diamond tiaras and ocean-going yachts.

The other kind — the kind we respect — deals with achievement; things like a degree from a good school, the work of men like the Wright Brothers, Edison and Salk, the heroic acts of our men in uniform.

To become and to remain a member of the Order of the Golden Rule is a status symbol of the second kind. That's why we are truly and pardonably proud to announce that we remain the member of the Order in this community.

Picturesque Panorama Of Old Lancaster

OLD LANCASTER. By Frederic S. Klein. Early America Series, Lancaster, Pa. $14.75.

This is a handsome volume, unique in concept and construction. It is not history in the accepted terms of a sequence narrative; it is a collection of illustrated sketches concerning places and people, the manners and modes of life of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, but so integrated and organized as to present a fascinating and distinct panorama of the early days of a community rich in historical heritage.

Three men have pooled their talents in the project. H.M.J. Klein, emertius professor of history at Franklin and Marshall College, wrote the foreword and was the guiding hand of the explorations and research which spanned five years. The illustrations — nearly 200 of them in black and white and water color — are the work of Charles X. Carlson, an artist of note who resides in Lancaster County. The text, sharply to the point, is the work of Frederic Shriver Klein, professor of history at F. and M.

The book spans the community's story from its beginnings through the Civil War.

BOOKS

THIRD GENERATION

Benchley Shows Writing Promise

TIME AND A TICKET. By Peter Benchley. Houghton, Mifflin. $3.95.

College boys sees world. Not just an average college boy, but a better than average young observer and recorder.

The author came out of college in '61 and was fortunate to have a family stipend (yes, these are the writing Benchleys, and Peter is the third generation) for a wander-yearm

Peter had some advantages in the way of personal contacts, because of his father, all the way across the globe; and his companion Charlie had some contacts too.

The first part of the narrative, especially in France, is utterly hedonistic, full of parties, leisure and fun, but the social awareness begins to grow in Berlin.

Then there is a quick view of Egypt's anti-European atmosphere, followed by a touch of the Middle East, a dip into Iran. There is an episode in which the author seeks out a station of the Peace Corps in India, and is frankly impressed by the dedication of the Peace Corps volunteers. And at the end, some minor adventures in the Far East.

Peter may have made no great discoveries. Predictably, he runs into anti-American needlers in many countries, and brings to the surface his own reactions as a young American.

Such is the substance of the book — an interesting record of an American youth, learning many things about his own land as he runs through a quick journey toward the other side of the earth. Young Benchley's account has the valid freshness of youth. And the precocious skill of a promising writer.

Canada Enjoys Produce Grown In Louisiana

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Canadian produce firms which bought Louisiana watermelons and tomatoes this year are enthusiastic about the quality and are trying to contact additional acreages for next year's crops according to Dave L. Pearce, commissioner of agriculture.

Pearce said the buyer, which distributes produce to several large chain groups in the Winnipeg area, commended the Louisiana growers on packaging as well as quality.

Of Louisiana melons, the company manager wrote, "The flavor and quality were some of the best we had ever received." The melons were shipped from Sugartown in Beauregard parish and Farmerville in Union parish.

He said, "We also purchased two loads of your Louisiana Creole Tomatoes (vine ripes) from the New Orleans Plaquemine Parish area. The quality of this fruit was outstanding, both in appearance and flavor. The package itself enhanced the product."

Emotional Crackup, Rediscovery

THE THRID DAY. By Joseph Hayes. McGraw-Hill. $4.95.

Hayes has written a novel with as much sustained suspense as a spy thriller, but it has nothing to do with spies. It is about a man who cracks up under emotional shock and finds that he has lost 11 years of his life.

Charles Bancroft doesn't know his own name when he realizes one rainy autumn day that he is in New York — but why? With the help of such things as a diver's license, he deduces that he belongs in a Connectict town, when he apparently has married into a family named Parsons, which runs a factory there.

He returns home, gradually picking up clues as to his own background. It is pretty unnerving. He has been responsible, apparently, for the death of a young woman. The Parsons family is engaged in a fight over sale of the factory, which has gone into a decline. His wife Alexandria and his small son Gene, whom he does not recognize have good reasons for distrusting him.

Trying to conceal his amnesia, Bancroft enters a fight to save the factory, falls in love with his own wife, and is slowly terrified by the unfolding reasons for that emotional shock which shut off his memory.

The theme is tricky, but Hayes makes it reasonably plausible. He has added zest to the narrative by having Bancroft look back with detachment on his other self, finding a dismaying portrait. Though it may seem contrived, the plot is well-knit.

The hero's fight to redeem himself, to win his wife for the second time, to make friends with his son, to solve the family muddle, to clear himself of a possible criminal charge, builds into a melodramatic climax. It all makes a tense story.

Another New Novel About A Big 'Nut'

A MOTHER'S KISSES. By Bruce Jay Friedman. Simon & Schuster. $4.95

Nowadays there seems to be a fad for novels about kooky people.

Sometimes they are boobs or slobs, sometimes they are dopey dupes, or otherwise afflicted with magnetic misfortune. Almost inevitably, they live in an environment of freakish events and sub-human eccentricity. Somehow it is a literary mark of comedy that these goofy antiheroes are purported to be funny, in a grotesque way.

Often these characters are from the Yiddish areas of New York City — as in the case of Friedman's novel — living in a welter (three-room) of non sequiturs and irrationally gabby talk.

The author's nonhero is Joseph, a mother-dominated caricature of a boy just out of high school, who (1) worries about getting into any college, (2) suffers misadventures in a ludicrous summer camp, and (3) lands in a cornbelt pseudo-college, still tied to his mother's girdle.

The momma is about as lurid a blabbermouth, and as bumbling, as anyone you're likely to imagine. She is the sort who would make a lifelong friend of a garbage collector in order to get her son a ticket to the Garbage Collectors' Ball — which would turn out to be counterfeit, naturally.

So this is comedy, or at least the man says it is. Friedman has a special — and perhaps narrow? — talent for dealing with these rancid situations, and more power to him. He is a sharp figure in the smoked herring circuit, and if this is your dish, don't say we didn't tip you off to the current brand of yock-yock. It's the fad these days.

Safe Driving Awards Made

Safe driving awards were presented to Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company employees by Captain M. E. Kidd of the Louisiana State Police Friday at the telephone company work center at 2012 Tower Drive.

These certificates represented 1222 years of driving by 78 employees without a stop accident. J. H. Snead, district plant manager, announced the following employees are responsible for a large portion of the above number of years: E. O. Vaughn, 37 years; P. C. Landers, 33 years; O. L. Hoskins, 35 years; R. H. Elliott, 31 years; and T. E. Chaney, 31 years.

First Novel Is Clever, Fast Paced

POWDERED EGGS. By Charles Simmons. Dutton. $3.95.

There is a fresh, imaginative humor in this bawdy, idea-splattering story.

It is written in the form of a series of letters sent to an unidentified friend by a recent fugitive from college, age 21.

Mostly this young hero is interested in girl-chasing, his sports car, his own denial of Catholicism, girl-chasing, the writing of a bizarre (but challenging) novel, his adventures in his absurd jobs, a trip to Italy and girlchasing.

He is fortunate in not having to worry about money, for his widowed mother sees to that. He gets a foolish job writing copy for a crummy little encyclopedia — which is produced by rewriting other encyclopedias — and later is transferred to the same company's sales racket. And later yet is fired.

Between romantic attachments he pounds away at a novel about an invisible man, makes friends with a crazy Spaniard (and picks up the knack of writing very modern fairy tales), thinks he has heart trouble, falls in love with the city of Rome, and resists assorted aspects of fate.

This is an odd sort of humor, irreverent and often dirty-wordsy, but doubly valid because under the surface is the clown's own anguish.

Simmons, a 40-year-old editor and magazine contributor, has produced here his first novel. He is devilishly clever. He tickles both the libido and the intellect with his hot-paced word magic.

ORPHANS IN PEKING

TOKYO (AP) — A group of 75 Algerian war orphans — aged 9 to 17 — arrived in Peking on a vacation trip, the New China News Agency reported. They were invited by various Red Chinese government groups.

Great War: Russian Collapse As Communist Take Over

(EDITOR'S NOTE — In one brilliant stroke Von Hindenburg smashed the massed Russian armies at Tannenberg just 50 years ago in a fateful battle. Before the war ended, the Bolsheviks had seized Russian and Lenin had loosed Communism on the world. Another in the anniversary series on World War—.)

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russian armies of Tsar Nicholas, massive and badly armed, marched against Germany to help the Allies as World War I opened 50 years ago this month.

By the end of August the Russians had been routed with staggering losses. In the chaos that followed in the next few years, the Bolsheviks seized control in Russia and Lenin came to power, the most significant development of World War I.

This country, then weak and divided but now strong and disciplined, has troubled the West ever since and has caused a complete realignment of forces in the world. It is a peculiar irony that Germany, whose defeat of Russia made Communism possible, now finds her old enemies, France, Britain and the United States, aligned on her side against the new Soviet power.

One of the most sinister figures of that war was Vladimir Ilyich Lenin.

In the spring of 1913, little more than a year before the war broke out, Lenin wrote to the Russian novelist Maxim Gorky:

"A war between Austria and Russia would be a very useful thing for the revolution — in all of Eastern Europe — but it is not likely that Franz Josef and Nikolasha will give us that pleasure."

The Austrian and Russian emperors did exactly that. And Lenin knew what to do when it came. He had written far back in 1902: "Give us an organization of revolutionaries and we shall overturn the whole of Russia."

THE GERMANS had better arms and better transportation than the Russians in World War I. Their machine guns devastated the masses of Russians rushing at them in attack. By the end of the first winter one Russian in four went into the field without a gun. Here German infantrymen aim their machine guns at the Russians from a trench at the Vintula River in Russia, in 1916. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

DISASTER

For Russia, the war was just one valiant disaster after another.

With French defenses crumbling under the first German thrust in the west, the Russians launched an attack to take off the pressure. One Russian army under Gen. Paul Rennenkampf plunged into East Prussia on Aug. 17, 1914. Another, under General Alexander Samsonov, struck across the southern frontier of Russia well to the rear of the German army.

A panicked German general ordered retreat, but before he could put it into effect he was withdrawn and the great team of Von Hindenburg and Ludendorff came into command. On the spot they found one of the most brilliant officers of the war, Colonel Max Hoffmann, ready with a plan. Ludendorff and Hindenburg put it quickly into operation. They left their own flanks lightly protected and drove straight between the two Russian armies. German shock troops looped around Samsonov's army in the south and one of the great battles of history was decided. It was Tannenberg. By the end of August, with the war hardly begun, Samsonov's army had been destroyed.

The two German generals, fortified by two corps drawn from the west front, then turned on the northern Russian army and smashed it in another noted battle, the battle of the Masurian Lakes. This area now is a favorite Polish hunting ground of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The battles cost the Russians 250,000 soldiers killed or taken prisoner. Russia lost huge numbers of cannon, machine guns and rifles, irreplaceable from her limited arms factories.

Nevertheless, the Russians had forced the Germans to withdraw two corps of crack troops from the western front, slowing down the thrust of the Germans just at the hour of the first battle of the Marine in front of Paris.

One the Austrian front the story was different. The Austrian forces gained some territory but were hit by massed Russian forces, more skillfully handled. The Austrians retreated and again drew Germans from the western front.

GESTURES

Thus again the Russians, in costly gestures, gave relief to the retreating French armies.

The big Russian steam roller of massed troops soon was aligned again to move against the Germans, with Grand Duke Nicholas pushing seven armies to the attack.

Where they had numbers, they lacked transportation. The German armies, several times outnumbered by the Russians, had the advantage of railroads paralleling the front to let them switch their reserves into attack on weak Russian fronts. Another disaster to the Russians came in the early part of the first winter.

The Hindenburg-Ludendorff team again smashed through between two armies.

One Russian army was on the point of being surrounded when another came to its relief just west of Warsaw.

The Russian pressure caused four more German corps to be pulled from the west to the eastern front, again taking the heat off the French and English.

For the Russians, the fighting had drained away their reserve nations, and the factory system could not make up the loss.

Despite unrest, the outbreak of war had brought a national rally. But Nicholas II failed to gather it to the national cause.

After the first winter, Russian armies marched into the field with the troops badly armed, many without guns. The unarmed scrambled for guns dropped by the fallen. Cannon were limited in number and inferior to the German, as were the machine guns, which came into their own for the first time to play havoc with just the sort of attack the Russians were famous for — masses rushing at the enemy.

A great national disease was eating at the heart of Russia. Peasant soldiers, hungry for land, could see nothing to be gained out of the war. The regime was crumbling.

When he was most needed at home, the Tsar disregarded the advice of his closest counsellors and took command of the troops in the field. Behind him he left disordered government largely controlled by his mystically hysterical wife, Alexandra.

An evil star had hovered over the Tsar's head from the beginning. At his marriage ceremony, 3,000 people were trampled to death in a throng seeking presents. He was slashed by a fanatic Japanese in Kyodo, then blundered into an aimless war with Japan in 1904, which he lost.

VALUE OF SIN

By 1907, an evil 36-year-old priest, Rasputin, dirty and handsome, had gained a fanatic religious following and an entry into the Tsarina's court. He preached the value of sin, because it gave opportunity for repentance.

With pleasant shrewdness, Rasputin won his way into the graces of the empress by convincing her he was sent by God to cure her son, the young Tsarevich Alexis, of hemophilia.

A revolt in 1905, after the defeat by the Japanese, caught the Tsar by surprise and forced a limited parliament upon him. Then, barely a decade later, his war-wearied country thrust him out in the midst of a war with scarcely a gesture of struggle.

The pitiable family was led from palace to palace until they were shot to death on Bolshevik orders in 1918 in the basement of a sunny terraced building in Ekaterinenburg, now Sverdlovsk, in the Ural Mountains.

Neither the Tsar nor the western allies appeared to have known how impossible it was for the Russian armies to carry on the war after 1916. By then the people had lost confidence in the Tsarist government, and gained none in the provisional government that came to replace it in the "February revolution" of 1917.

The army had no confidence in its officers, whose authority had been challenged and undermined by the Bolshevik revolutionaries, even though they were not yet in power.

Losses had been staggering. During the war, 1,650,000 men were killed, 3,850,000 wounded and 2,410,000 taken prisoner.

Then the Bolshevik revolution struck, it came so fast even the revolutionaries were unprepared. Late in February, by the old calendar, March 8 to 11 by the present one, bread and coal riots broke out in Petrograd, now Leningrad. Troops were sent in to restore order. Instead they joined the rioters.

On March 12, the Duma, or Russian parliament, brushed aside an imperial decree dissolving it and set up a provisional government. On March 15 Nicholas abdicated in favor of his brother, Duke Michael. The duke resigned next day. The royal family tried to escape to England, but didn't make it.

Vice Presidential Nominee Will Be Choice Of Johnson

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Perhaps never in history has a President seeking re-election given as serious thought to his running mate as has President Johnson. He has already eliminated some front-runners, and others may follow. One thing seems certain — whoever gets the nod will have to be qualified for the boss' job. And be a vote-getter too!

By ART EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eleven days from now, in cavernous Convention Hall in Atlantic City, the Democrats pick their vice presidential nominee.

And for one of the few times in history, the final choice may hinge on this: What kind of job would this man do if he were suddenly and fatefully called upon to be president?

This is quite understandable. Four times in this century the presidency has fallen vacant by death — natural or violent.

No man who ascended to the presidency under the circumstances which elevated Lyndon B. Johnson could be expected to view the question of succession lightly. Johnson himself was felled by a serious heart attack in 1955, and he was in Dallas last November on the day when John F. Kennedy was shot to death. No present-day politician could be more conscious of mortality than Johnson. Few men are more conscious of another thing — the ballot-box — so the nominee will have to have voter appeal

LBJ'S CHOICE

Technically, the convention will pick the vice presidential nominee. Realistically, the nominee will be the man that Johnson wants. It is Johnson & Co. who have to run, and they know whom they have to beat — the Republican team of Sen. Barry Goldwater and Rep. William E. Miller.

The President has not made known his choice, but he has given thought to the matter and he has drawn a portrait of the type of running-mate he wants

He did this on July 30, when he swept away a whole list of people whose names had been prominently mentioned. On that day he said, without further elaboration, that "I have reached the conclusion that it would be inadvisable for me to recommend to the convention any member of my Cabinet or any of those who meet regularly with the Cabinet."

With that statement the President eliminated six men who had been considered in the pack heading down the home stretch for Atlantic City. One of the strongest, perhaps the front runner, thus disqualified was Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, brother of the assassinated president. The others ruled off the track, all of whom had some degree of backing, were Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver and U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson.

By consensus of political puntis, the strongest men left in the field were Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, and the junior senator from that state, Eugene J. McCarthy. There were others, however, who had not been cut down — Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, and three more senators, Edmund Muskie of Maine, Mike Mansfield of Montana and Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut.

The President was not tipping his hand, but he said that he would continue to give the matter "my most thoughtful consideration" and would make a decision "in due course."

At a news conference earlier on the same day, President Johnson had set forth his own criteria for a vice president.

In response to questions he said: "I think that we want the person that is equipped to handle the duties of the vice presidency, and of the presidency, if that awesome responsibility should ever fall upon him.

"I think that he should be a man that is well received in all of the states of the union among all of our people. I would like to see a man that is experienced in foreign relations and domestic affairs. I would like for him to be a man of the people who felt a compassionate concern for their welfare and who enjoyed public service and was dedicated to it.

"I would like for him to be attractive, prudent and progressive. I would like him to be one who would work cooperatively with the Congress and with the Cabinet and with the President. I would expect him to be one that would meet with overwhelming approval of the delegates who have the responsibility for passing on him."

If that sounded a little like a paragon, no one who knew President Johnson believed that he would rule out someone who lacked some of those qualifications but still possessed that magic quality of bringing "political balance" to the ticket. That "balance" might take the form of regional strength, religion, or just plain, old-fashioned voter appeal. The President is an astute politician. No one would have to tell him that the convention delegates would not be unhappy with a strong vote-getter.

But the President was plainly concerned with picking someone who could step into his job on an instant's notice. It had not always been thus. The nation's folklore is built on the faceless vice president, the lonely man whose name nobody knows, whose advice no one asks, and in fact the man who can hardly get a hotel room in Washington because nobody will believe he is vice president. George Gershwin's Broadway musical called him Alexander Throttlebottom, whose name is probably more widely known than that of Woodrow Wilson's vice president, or Chester Arthur's or practically anyone's.

Those light-hearted days are gone, and with this in mind, let's look at the arguments being advanced for and against some of the leading Democrats:

Hubert Horatio Humphrey: 53, gay, hard-working, fast-talking, the senatorial version of perpetual motion.

For: He is widely experienced in foreign affairs, including that famous eight-hour interview with Nikita Khrushchev. And he increased his stature by quarterbacking the team that pushed the civil rights bill through a balky Senate.

Humphrey's office helpers are so entranced that they have prepared a handy little brocher on v.p. possibilities that adds up to: Who but Hubert?

Their thinking: Goldwater's main strength will be in the Midwest, so why not combat this with a Democratic running-mate, who speaks the Midwest's language with a Midwest accent?

There's also the belief that Johnson, eager to shed his carefully-built reputation as the big Senate wheeler-dealer, will stride majestically along the high road in this campaign.

His vice presidential candidate will therefore have to dash from side to side, maybe even into the gutter occasionally.

So? Well, let's let Humphrey answer in his own words. Once hecklers took over while he was addressing an "African freedom rally." Humphrey was unperturbed.

"I'm not a striped pants diplomat," he shouted happily at his would-be tormentors. "I'm a rough and tough politician ready to take on all comers."

UNPOPULAR

Against: Humphrey has been unpopular in the South ever since he brought up civil rights at the 1948 Democratic convention and split the party. Much of this feeling has been eroded by time, but with many a Southerner looking approvingly at Goldwater, it might not be wise to nominate such a staunch promoter of civil rights laws.

Humphrey's astonishing capacity to speak fluently and well on many subjects probably will be held against him. Some Americans have an instinctive distrust of the ready talker.

Knowing this, Humphrey has tried to keep his mouth shut. But, alas, glib is still the word for Humphrey.

Eugene McCarthy, 48, longtime professor (economics, sociology, witty, eloquent.

For: McCarthy would be satisfactory to those who want Humphrey or wanted Kennedy, and he wouldn't arouse the same animosities. If Johnson wants religious balance to the ticket — he hasn't said, one way or the other — well, McCarthy is a Catholic.

Against: He's not well-known nationally, and if Johnson were to take the junior senator from Minnesota it would be considered a slap at Humphrey, the senior senator.

Brown: 59, quip-loving, breezy but down inside a chronic worrier.

For: California is next to the largest state — avoiding the argument that it has actually slipped past New York — and it may provide the decisive battle of the year.

How better solve this than by putting Brown on the ticket? For a Democrat, his credentials are excellent. In winning the 1962 governor's race, Brown eliminated Richard M. Nixon and Nixon's chances to repeat as the 1964 GOP presidential candidate.

Asked about the vice presidential election, Brown said jovially: "I don't think President Johnson could find a better man than Governor Brown." Characteristically, he later told reporters he hoped Johnson understood he was really kidding. But was he?

Against: The ticket would be overbalanced toward the West.

Yet in the end, when Johnson totes up his final evaluation scores, he may pass all these by and produce arguments, convincing to him, why someone else should have the nomination. That's where the others come in. It may be Wagner or Mansfield, Ribicoff or Muskie. Or it may be none of these. Whoever it is, Johnson's choice will not have been lightly taken.

It may seem odd that one persons should have the power to name the man who could be the next president of the United States. But that's the way it was with Goldwater in San Francisco, and that's the way it will be in Atlantic City.

The Democratic vice presidential story can be told in five words:

What Lyndon wants, Lyndon gets.

Youth Returns To Find Family Fatally Beaten

CHULA VISTA, Calif. (AP) — A man, his wife, their young son and teen-age daughter were bludgeoned to death early Saturday in their home, police reported.

The deaths were reported by another son, Raymond Goedecke, 18, who said he returned home from a church camp and found everyone in the house dead.

The bodies of Henry Goedecke, 42, and his wife, Joan, 39, were found in the master bedroom, sprawled in and near the bed. Goedecke's watch was broken at 4:20. Police said that was apparently the time of the slayings.

The body of Ellen, 14, was found in her room, and Mark, 7, was found dead in the room he shared with Raymond.

Raymond said he came home at 7:30 a.m. and found the bodies. Police Lt. Roy Borchers said the Goedeckes were beaten to death — possibly as they slept — with a length of reinforcing steel taken from the family garage.

WILLIAM J. DODD, State Superintendent of Public Education, presents the "State Superintendent's Award for Outstanding Youth Safety Activities" to Faye Fulton, Immediate Past President of the Davidson High School Chapter. Miss Fulton accepts the award on behalf of the Davidson High School Chapter of the Council of St. Joseph. Presentation was made at the Annual Banquet of the four-day convention of the safety council, held in August at the Department of Education's Youth Center in Avoyelles Parish.

New Pupils To Pre-register At Neville High

Neville High School is continuing its pre-registration of new students each day this week, according to Sidney A. Seegers, Principal.

All students who plan to enroll in Neville should contact Seegers and to plan to register as soon as possible. Students from other schools in the parish who are transferring to Neville must complete their registration by August 28.

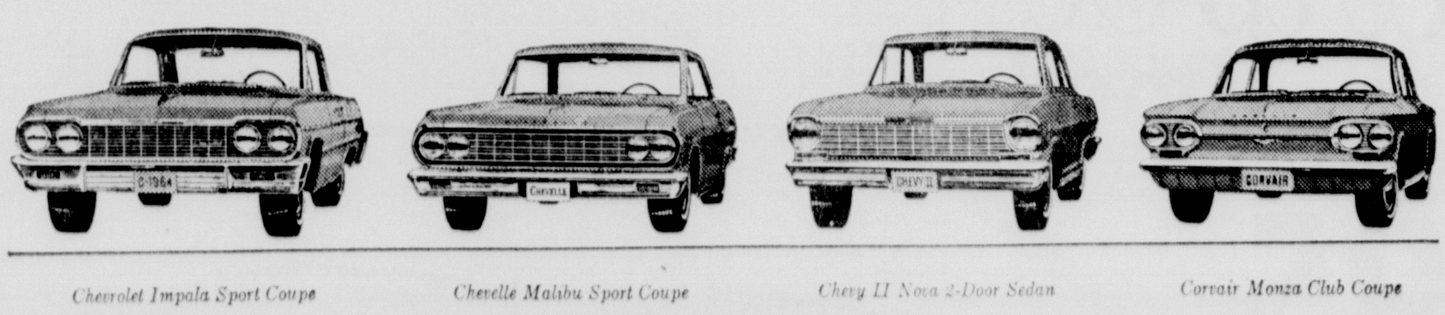

Students transferring from schools without the state should bring their birth certificate at the time they register.

Students who have been enrolled at Neville in the past and desire to change their schedules or parents who have questions about the schedules of their children should contact school officials at this time rather than waiting for the opening of school.

The Neville office is open from 8:00 A.M. to noon and from 1:00 P.M. to 3:00 P.M. daily Monday through Friday according to Mr. Seegers.

LeBlanc Wants Reshuffle

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Chairman Dudley J. LeBlanc of the legislature's Senate Redistricting Committee said Saturday Louisiana has a job to do regardless what Washington says or does.

Sen. LeBlanc, Abbeville, said his committee will return at 2 p.m. Monday to continue its study of Senate redistricting, and won't change course despite developments in Congress and opposition in the state to apportionment by population.

A somewhat similar view was taken by Sen. Michael O'Keefe, New Orleans, one of Gov. John McKeithen's Senate leaders and long a proponent of Senate redistricting.

In Washington, a showdown loomed before congressional adjournment on legislation to block or delay the U.S. Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling for both chambers of state legislatures.

State senates, often apportioned more by area than by population, particularly are affected by the decision.

LeBlanc said the committee was set up by the legislature, and "we plan to go ahead and re-apportion the Senate as soon as it is possible to do so."

There are two constitutional reasons, he said, for continuing the effort.

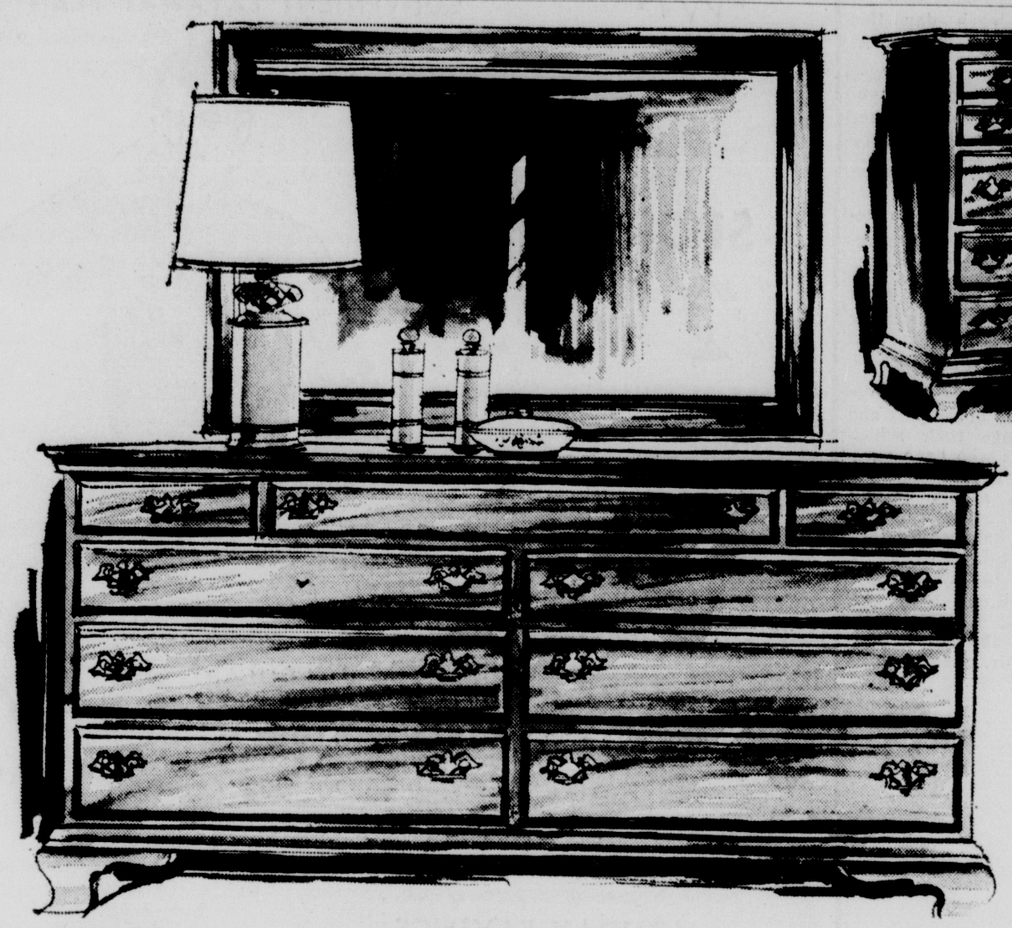

The constitution of Louisiana, he said, provides that the legislature should be re-apportioned every 10 years, and it provides that the Senate must be re-apportioned within a year of House re-apportionment.

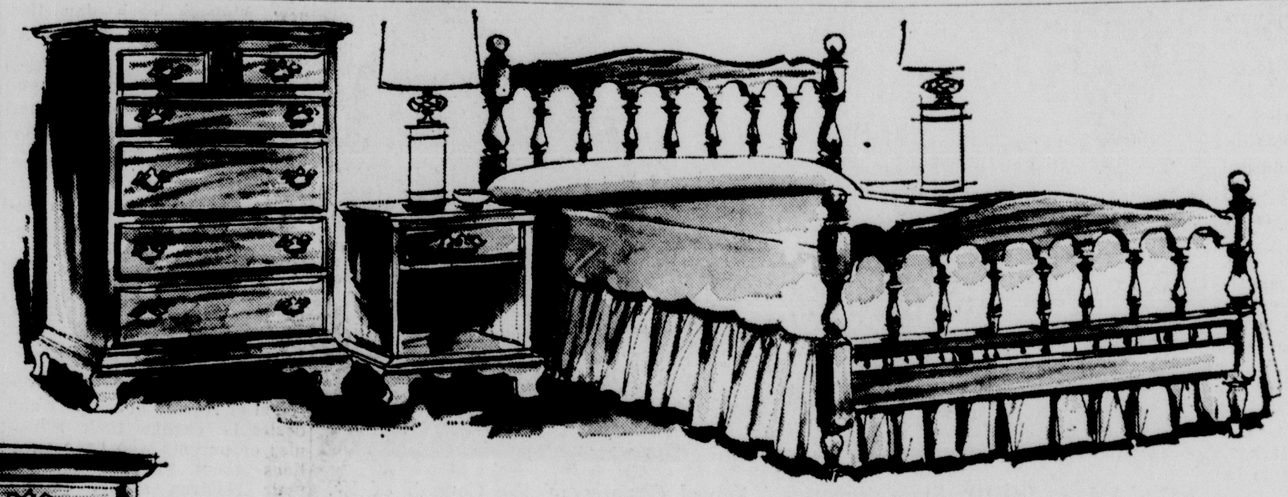

The legislature re-apportioned the House last year.

On a Louisiana Farm Bureau meeting in Alexandria, LeBlanc said he was very much in sympathy with the farm bureau, and his committee would take into consideration geography and population as well in drafting a redistricting plan.

The Supreme Court, he said, has rendered a decision and the state ought to re-apportion unless or until the law is changed.

"We are obligated," he said, "to a certain extent, to do that."

WILDLIFE SCENES RECORDED IN WOOD

Monroe Morning World
SUNDAY FEATURES
Monroe, La., August 16, 1964 1-B
Editorials Spotlight Sports

An angler struggling to land a large bass, wild fowl in flight, hunters and dogs afield, are among the scenes of the great out of doors which find a sort of permanance in the wood carvings of a West Monroyan.

AN ELECTRICALLY powered etching tool is used in one phase of the process of producing a wood carving, by Joe Walter Bradford of West Monroe. (Staff Photos by Ben Bradford)

Odd sized pieces of wood from many sources are turned into attractive works of art under the carving skills of a West Monroyan.

He is Joe Walter Bradford, 31, of 3019 North 12th St., a field representative for a local bank, and 1956 business administration graduate of Louisiana Tech.

Wood carving is a hobby to which he has devoted a considerable amount of his spare time since his freshman days in high school at Lake Providence.

He deals mainly with wildlife subjects, and materials come from many places.

REDWOOD CARVING

A bas-relief carving of a deer jumping near a log is of redwood taken from an old water tank. The thick end board of an apple crate provided the material for a carving of a buck and two young deer.

When the urge to depict a duck in flight came to Bradford, the only suitable material immediately available was a board which his wife used in the kitchen as a base on which to cut foods. The cause of art prevailed, and Mrs. Bradford had to buy another carving board.

Bradford, a native of Meridian, Miss., moved to Lake Providence with his parents when he was three years of age. His urge to turn wood into things of beauty, had an early beginning, he recalled.

"Daddy bought me a pocket knife a long time ago and I guess I just started with that," he said.

FIRST PROJECTS

The first projects were carvings of axes, knives, and other familiar objects.

Bradford emphasized that he is not a professional, but carves wood "strictly for my enjoyment."

Art is long and time is fleeting, according to the words of a poet, and Bradford agrees.

"I can't set a time on how long it takes to turn out a carving," he observed, "because I work on it a little while at a time."

HERE ARE A FEW of the wood carvings on a variety of wildlife subjects made by Joe Bradford in the workshop of his home in West Monroe. He uses a variety of cured woods for his carving art.

Pointing to the representation of some ducks in flight, he said, "It took my spare time for two months."

Bradford is familiar with the subjects he depicts, since he is an avid hunter and angler.

His subjects are taken from photos and paintings, but many of the small details are eliminated in adapting them to the wood medium, since he strives for simplification.

IN BAS-RELIEF

Most of the carving is in bas-relief, some is in the form of lines etched into wood and given further emphasis by staining, which leaves the lines darker than the rest of the area. Some of the carvings are painted in bright colors.

In most cases a clear varnish is applied to allow the natural grain of the wood to stand out, said Bradford. This has worked especially well where woodland scenes are being depicted, with natural grain plus additional lines to indicate bark.

Some carvings in bas-relief have frames built around them which lend shadow emphasis.

An experiment by Bradford in giving added depth to a wildlife scene, is carved in five plys of wood, with a deer in foreground and landscape in background. There are details carved in each of the five plys. Glue used in fixing the plys of wood together has been left intact in some areas to give a darker tone.

Hand and machine tools are used in the carving process. A large electric powered machine is used for routing wood in the initial roughing out process. A small electric powered etcher with an assortment of different types of bits is used in the next phase of work, and hand carving tools are reserved for finishing work and fine details.

Subjects carved by Bradford cover a broad range of wildlife scenes and finished works vary from about three by eight inches to eight by 10 inches.

Carvings include, among other things, a hunter in a duck blind and in background two ducks in flight, a dog jumping over a fence, quail in flight, two fishermen in a boat and a bass on a line in foreground, a hunter shooting at pheasant flying up from side of fence, flushed by his two dogs, a rabbit bounding over a log, study of two geese, and a duck on a pond.

Bradford does his carving in a storeroom converted into a workshop.

The wood carver said of the materials for his art, "I use any kind of cured wood. I use mostly scrap pieces of wood, redwood, some oak. Mahogany is excellent to carve on, but it is too expensive. I've got a couple of good pieces of Philippine mahogany, but I haven't found anything I want to put on them yet."

Bradford also does some wildlife scenes on gun stocks for friends and relatives.

Bradford, a veteran of five years Navy service, was discharged in 1961. The Bradfords have an eight-month-old son, Joe Jr.

. Educator Cleans Up Police Force

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH

When criminals rode high and scandal riddled the police force, Chicago chose a mild-mannered college professor, Orlando W. Wilson, to handle the cleanup task. Now the force has been revitalized and crime is on the run.

CHICAGO (AP) — Four years ago residents of Chicago watched as a citizens' committee struggled to find a man capable of cleaning up the city's scandal-ridden police department. Heading the committee was Orlando W. Wilson, dean of the School of Criminology at the University of California.

The committee screened candidates for months and then picked the man it decided was tough enough to handle the job: Orlando W. Wilson.

After getting a "hands off" promise from Mayor Richard J. Daley, Wilson, then 59, reluctantly took over what many considered to be the most demanding police job in the country.

THINGS NOT SAME

And things haven't been the same for the Chicago underworld since.

Last year, while crime soared 10 per cent across the country, Chicago reported a 3 per cent dropoff. It was the only major city to do so.

Wilson took over at a time when police fortunes and morale were at an ebb. Eight officers had been indicted for their part in a wave of burglaries on the north side. Three more were to be indicted.

Public indignation had forced the resignation of Police Commissioner Timothy J. O'Connor.

Tough jobs were nothing new for the mild-manned Wilson, who had directed public safety and de-Nazification programs in the U. S. zone in Germany after World War II.

His first day in office, Wilson pledged he would not tolerate political influence in the 13,000-man police force. He promised to fire any policemen engaged in illegal activities.

He immediately set up a bureau of intelligence services charged with "finding out if the department is as clean as the driven snow . . . or of making it as clean as the driven snow if it isn't." The bureau still is in action.

CHICAGO POLICE superintendent O. W. Wilson, was dean of the University of California School of Criminology before assuming his present job four years ago.

MASSIVE SHAKEUP

Wilson launched into a massive shakeup of the department, and the key was centralization.

The number of police districts was slashed from 38 to 21. The detective division was consolidated into six area commands. Most importantly, the bulk of the department's manpower was thrown into the patrol division, considered by Wilson to be the city's "first line of defense against crime."

As a former patrolman — he began his career in 1921 by walking a beat in Berkeley, Calif. — Wilson was critical of O'Connor's deployment of beat men.

"Every time somebody was robbed, assaulted, raped or whatever, that meant a policeman was assigned there," Wilson said. "And he was left there forever and usually around the clock. We were guarding coal yards, private businesses, banks and what have you in much the same way."

Wilson called in the beat men and put them into patrol cars. Within two years, the number of police vehicles on the streets was doubled.

The next step was to lift police morale. Wilson saw to it that examinations for promotions were held on a regular biennial basis, breaking up a legal logjam that had prevented any promotions through examinations for 13 years.

Within three years, more than 1,200 promotions were made. They included 873 sergeants, 266 lieutenants and 94 captains.

Wilson also fought for pay raises that put Chicago's police right behind New York and Los Angeles in scale.

In full swing, and with his men squarely behind him, Wilson revamped communications, spending $2 million on a modern center capable of handling daily thousands of calls for help. "We can get men to the scene of a crime at a speed that amazes the citizens and, frankly, me too," he says.

REORGANIZATION OVER

In January 1962, Wilson announced that the job of reorganizing the department was over. "Now I will have more time to direct the department into the area of preventing crime," he said.

An organized crime division and a commando - like undercover force were created to infiltrate mobster activities. The quick strike task force — a leftover from the O'Connor days — was beefed up to its present complement of 600 men and 150 vehicles.

Results came quickly. In 1962 more than 20,000 arrests were made for gambling, prostitution, narcotics and liquor law violations — twice as many as the year before. In 1962, Chicago was to reduce its traffic deaths.

The battle against organized crime continued when Wilson added computers.

Reasoning that crime patterns in any area in almost any city were relatively constant month after month, Wilson decided that he could determine "where crime is going to be committed and when it's going to be commited. Not only the hours of the day, but the days of the week."

"With this knowledge," he explains, "you could place policemen where the criminal is most likely to be."

BEATS ANALYZED

Guided by the electronic brains, each patrol beat is analyzed on a biweekly basis and added manpower thrown into certain areas at critical times.

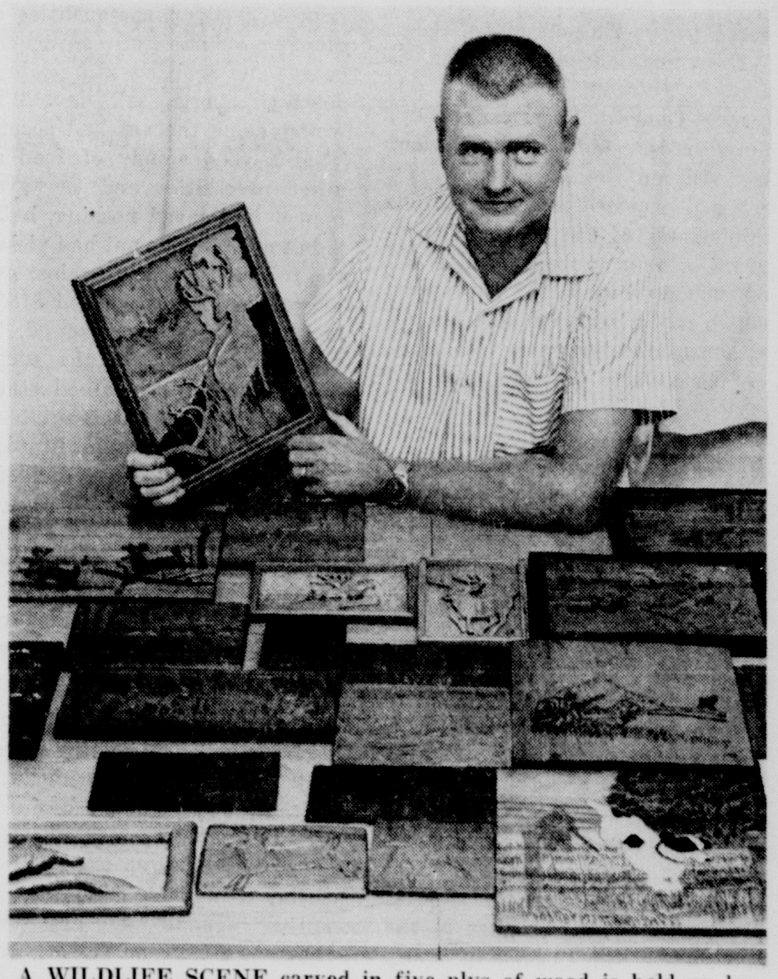

The key to preventive police work, Wilson says, is creating the "impression the police are everywhere. This means making the police conspicuous and having them appear unexpectedly."

Beyond this, Wilson has an added goal: "I'm looking forward to the day when police are completely professionalized."

"But," he says, "the professionalism must be based on a foundation of liberal arts. It's necessary to get a complete man who has an understanding of his society and its people — a sense of perspective that can only come from a knowledge of history and philosophy."

Toward that line, Wilson has encouraged his men to return to college for added training. Some 8,000 have done so at one time or another since 1960.

The superintendent's pet project is a newly formed Police Cadet Corps, which gives bright high school graduates a chance to work part time for the department while attending college. Besides building a nucleus for the future, the cadets free many patrolmen from desk work.

A WILDLIFE SCENE carved in five plys of wood is held up by Joe Bradford, who pursues this type of art as a hobby.

The emphasis on the intellectual side of police work is characteristic of Wilson, who once taught in the traffic research bureau at Harvard University. He wrote a text book on police records in 1950 that has since been published in Arabic and Chinese.

WILSON'S GOAL

Wilson's goal is to "wipe out organized crime around for a long time and there are a lot of hoodlums around yet. We haven't got it whipped but we're working on it."

Wilson harbors a pet theory.

"Organized vice," he says, "is the seedbed of organized crime. If we can wipe out our organized vice, we can eventually defeat organized crime."

He defines organized vice as gambling, prosititution, and the illegal sale of narcotics and liquors. "They stand as an open invitation to the gangster to organize the criminal activity in order to assure continuing and greater profits."

After three years of battling against vice, Wilson believes his police "have succeeded in substantially reducing vice activities. At the lowest level, I would say the lid is pretty well on.

"Take prostitution, for example. There are street walkers galore in Chicago — but they're not organized for the most part. Organized profits from prostitution are down to the irreducible minimum."

BEST NEEDED

To wage the fight against vice, Wilson wants the best. "We need bright competen young men," he says, "and must get rid of the others not enthusiastically fighting crime."

Wilson ignores his critics, both in and out of the department. There are many.

"Let's face it," says a 26-year veteran, deputy detective chief Walter Karlblom. "Before Wilson, this used to be an easy job for a lot of cops. Now they have to work and they don't like it.

As far as Wilson is concerned, "it's all been easier than I thought. I'm willing to stay on as long as Mayor Daley wants me."

And Mayor Daley has made it abundantly clear that as long as he is in office, Orlando W. Wilson has himself a job.

'Poverty' For Everybody

Perhaps never in the history of the United States, nor in any other country, for that matter, has such a large proportion of the population been looking forward with so much anticipation to the upcoming "period of poverty." We used to think poverty was something to be avoided by those who could but now President Johnson has given it a new and more attractive and lucrative meaning.

If you've got "poverty," it seems to mean Uncle Sam is ready and willing to give you a nice hunk of money for nothing — something you haven't been looking for, never expected to get, haven't earned and don't deserve. But, if you can show you are as bad off as the tobacco farmer who supported a family of eight in fine style and then had $1,500 above all family expenses and operating costs to tuck away in the bank as savings at the end of the year, you might call on the government for a handout, since President Johnson cited the farmer as being "poverty-stricken."

Nobody, even in the Democratic party, and surely not in the Republican party, has nerve enough to say that the "anti-poverty" bill is not a vote - getting scheme, pure and simple. It was dreamed up by President Johnson in the hope that enough people would exchange their votes for handouts so that he could defeat the Republican presidential nominee, Senator Barry Goldwater, when the chips are down in November.

Although the bill, as passed by the Senate, was not particularly pleasing to some of its sponsors, they were afraid to send it back to the House for revision, for fear it would be defeated, and therefore accepted the House version.

Even so, Sargent Shriver, a Johnson rejectee, along with Attorney General Robert Kennedy, for vice - presidential nomination, but still on the government pay roll and expected to be named administrator of the "poverty" program, said it probably will reach 600,000 persons in the first year, which is the year the Johnson administration is primarily interested in, particularly between now and election day.

Senator Hubert Humphrey, of Minnesota, President Johnson's probable choice for the vice-presidential nomination, and Senator Pat McNamara, D.-Mich., said in separate interviews that they were convinced they couldn't get the bill changed from the House version. McNamara was quoted as saying: "We've got to take the House bill. It's the only way we can get one."

Many believe the United States is now at the cross - roads and must choose between returning to democracy or becoming a total welfare state. In the race for President, Goldwater says he chooses a democracy because that is the only way in which people have any kind of freedom of choice. Johnson is moving toward the total welfare state in the hope of garnering enough votes to win election to the presidency.

Some 200 years ago, Professor Alexander Fraser Tytler, able historian of the University of Edenburgh, wrote the following graphic description of a transition from democracy to a welfare state:

"A democracy cannot exist as a permanent form of government (although it is the best form of government that has ever been devised). It can only exist until the voters discover they can vote themselves largess (we call it relief, subsistence, subsidies, doles or 'poverty' easement) out of the public treasury. From that moment on, the majority always votes for the candidate promising the most benefits from the public treasury (supported by the people's taxes), with the result that democracy always collapses from a loose fiscal policy, always to be followed by a dictatorship."

Professor Tytler was writing about the fall of the Athenian Republic, but the principle still holds good, as it always has done down through history and as it always will.

A new version of the story of "The Ant and the Grasshopper" shows how the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, following the socialist policy laid down by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, have treated the thrifty ant and the indolent grasshopper.

Credit for using this new story first is given to the Globe in Corsica, S.D. Here is the story:

"Once upon a time there was an ant who worked hard all day in the fields. It was summer and the ant was busy finding food, dragging it home and putting it away for the winter. The ant had a grasshopper as a neighbor. The grasshopper lived on commodities and other products of government boards and agencies and sat in his doorway singing all day. When winter came the ant had accumulated a good supply of food and other necessities and the grasshopper had saved nothing, but he didn't need it. The ant had violated the federal farm law against overharvesting. He was fined $162.50 and the surplus was seized. The grasshopper received the surplus in exchange for his food stamps and had more than the ant."

Shades of Benjamin Franklin! When all the ants have decided to become grasshoppers, because it is easier and they get more, as in the present contemplated "anti-poverty" program, what will happen? When a hive is filled with drones and no bees, who makes the honey?

Are we being misled by this age-old socialistic fallacy in government? Shall our government, as did that of Athenia, collapse under the weight of printing - press money and through the continued stifling of individual initiative, incentive, ingenuity and ambition?

A choice between democracy on the one hand and the grasshopper philosophy on the other hand is about what the race between Senator Goldwater and President Johnson amounts to.

Insane, U.S. Red Tape

In all probability, in no field of medical advancement in the last two decades has there been greater progress and greater accomplishment than in that related to mental health.

Mental institutions in most states have been transformed from "snake pits" or "graveyards for the living" into high - class, up-to-date sanitariums to which most people in need of care go for out-patient treatment or are released in a comparatively short time.

Opposing a proposal that the federal government take a hand in the treatment of the mentally ill, the Tribune in Albert Lea, Minn., commented:

"A year or so ago President Kennedy proposed to the nation a federal system of mental health aids . . . At that time the Tribune cautioned against federal intervention in this sensitive field. Our opposition was based on the observation that whatever the federal government does it either does badly or does extravagantly or both . . . We think insane people deserve better at the hands of their saner fellows than to be chucked into a federal pigeonhole and forgotten. There is evidence aplenty to support such a prediction if the care of our legally insane passes from local and state hands to the federals."

We know that anything the federal government does it does cumbersomely and expensively. If the federal government were to take over the treatment of the mentally ill now, we could expect hundreds of books and millions of words on the idiosyncracies of temporarily or permanently unbalanced people and we could also expect those people to be permanently bound in their confusion by the masses of red tape that would be tied around their treatment.

The Stable Boys Are Getting Everything Ready

Views Of Our Readers

Involved

Jennings, La.

To the Editor:

Today every American is involved in the struggle for survival, whether he chooses to be or not. He no longer has a choice. Those who are saying, "I am not going to get involved," are unwittingly declaring their aid to the enemy, because apathy and complacency of Americans is all the communists need to win — and they're winning!

Americans who are doing their home work perhaps do not understand all the subtle, deceitful workings of communism but they know that this diabolical conspiracy has as its avowed goal the total destruction of their freedom and all they hold dear, so they want to get involved!

The communists boast that Khrushchev plans to see the hammer and sickle flying over America in his lifetime! He says the American people are so stupid that they will hoist it themselves — with their votes!

This brazen affront should be answered at the polls with a ringing declaration for the return of constitutional government and the freedom it insures!

Gus Hall, impious head of the heinous monster — the Communist Party, U.S.A., has taken his stand. Listen to what he recently proclaimed: "Our (Communist) party will join all democratic forces to defeat the ultra - right Goldwater coalition."

How can any freedom-loving American stand idly by — "uninvolved?"

Thinks Writer Mistaken

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I believe that Waddy W. Moore has mistaken the "tone" and the "meddle" of recent letters to this paper and I think that his opinion as to the perception of the people is in error! It is obvious that determination is beginning to prevail over frustration and there are many indications that a much clearer comprehension of the issues is evident with each passing week!

The gentleman did not hesitate to suggest that our people are frightened, a fear brought about, according to his theory, by a failure on the part of the people to understand what they have seen. How different, our opinions! I contend that our people are beginning to manifest a great courage, a courage born by and of an examination and understanding of 30 to 35 years of Fabian propaganda and intellectual hodge-podge.

Anger, too, is beginning to show! Aristotle said, "An angerless people is a people without a soul." Taylor Caldwell put it correctly. "Say with St. Peter that he who does not work, neither shall he eat and you are accused of hating the 'underpriviliged'." If we oppose the doling out of tax money to lazy bums and uncouth louts we are accused of being against the "poor unfortunates." It is good that our people are becoming angry at the over-use of the words "bellyachers" and "alarmists."

The gentleman did build his letter around welfareism and yet one could not help but feel that something was amiss, that somehow the main thoughts still lie just beneath the surface. Anyone who makes even the slightest effort to keep up with current events is aware that only a small portion of the resentment against total and socialistic government stems from the welfare program, per se. Most agree that a realistic, sensibly administered welfare program (to supplement our local charities) is a necessity of our times.

It is, I think, the over-extension of the welfare state, on into the total of the Keynesian system of economics that leads many to agree with Hans Sennholz — "AFTER US THE DELUGE."

Traffic Discussed

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

An article on the last page of the Morning World, describing a smashup on South Second street, where the driver apparently lost control of the car, causing some injuries, reminds me of what we saw there in about the same spot one day last week. Driving north on South Second under the underpass, a black Volkswagon, man driving, passed us going North. A woman, driving a red General Motors car, (Pontiac or Olds) passed also. Then the two of them began a series of tricks — passing cars first on the one lane, then the other. It seemed that no one was going fast enough to suit them.

I have seen this time after time on South Second Street, going both ways, also on South Grand. This is no new thing—it has been going on for years! Several months ago I was coming down South Grand, two cars ahead of me, all at a speed of about 30 miles per hour. Suddenly, right where Plum enters South Grand, a black Chevrolet raged past all three cars, going out of sight before we got to the Borden plant.

Last week I was coming south on Catalpa, just north of the overhead bridge, on the right lane; a car on my left crossed over into my lane while we were rounding the curve just before coming under the bridge. Can it be that people don't know that crossing from one lane is a violation of all decency in driving, more especially doing so without giving any sign of change of course. I think most people do, but, as one writer puts it, "People can be fine, but, when they get behind the wheel of a car, they lose all sense of decency, others' rights and everything but that insane desire to pass the other fellow." This happens here in Monroe, while others blow horns at every urge, needed or not.

There is not much an individual can do about such as this, but it might be cheaper for those who get caught if they would use their heads a little before being caught.

Likes Outside Senators

St. Joseph, La.

To the Editor,

I have just finished reading the editorial, "Helter-Skelter Senators," in the Morning World.

I agree basically with you, however, I am sure you are an advocate of states' rights, are you not? Why, then doesn't New York have the right if they want it, to elect an outsider. I am wondering if it were someone else other than Mr. Kennedy you would have anything to say.

I have only one major criticism of your paper, sir; you are not objective. Certainly I do not mean that you are not to voice your opinion, but a wise paper for the people will be objective in that opinion. In my work as a minister, I certainly have opinions that are definite, well the word conviction is better. However, in my convictions I must be as unbiased and open-minded as possible. If I were not to try to have this attitude, I would not be an acceptable public servant. I would think that a newspaper should have the same outlook.

I do enjoy your paper, and wish you continued success.

Senator Soaper Says

Among the things almost guaranteed to make you feel old is reading that somebody about the age of your youngest brother is writing his autobiography.

Rising lumber and labor costs will make the inauguration of the next president more expensive, but both parties think they have a man who will be worth it.

It's confusion time, folks, with two crises on opposite sides of the world and professional football and baseball overlapping.

Some day we expect to hear a disk jockey introduce a familiar number this way, "and now John Philip Sousa and the band will ask the musical question, 'Oh, Say Can You See?' "

A bald friend says he is about to give up and have a head of hair tattooed on.

One of the saddest things about getting the old family home ready to sell is scrubbing the door jamb where the kids' heights have been recorded over the last 20 years.

The South Vietnamese have a nice rank, aspirant general, which rather neatly fits every second lieutenant in our army.

Social security payments would go up, under the new plan, but so would taxes. In other words, we will all live better in our old age if we can figure some way to stay solvent that long.

"For I will declare mine iniquity; I will be sorry for my sin." Psalms 38:18

God will only acquit acknowledged sin. All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." The man who refuses to admit that he is a sinner, must accept the fact that he can have no Saviour.

The words of the Lord are pure words: as silver tried in a furnace of earth, purified seven times." Psalms 12:6

The Word of God has been through every furnace and every time has emerged brighter than all its critics. "Thy word is truth."

"Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." John 3:3

Salvation is an experience not an enlistment or endorsement. "If any man be in Christ Jesus, he is a new creature, old things are passed away, behold all things are become new."

Can any hide himself in secret places that I shall not see him? saith the Lord. Do not I fill heaven and earth? saith the Lord." Jeremiah 23:24

There is no hiding from Heaven and no help without Him who knows us so well. "Behold the eyes of the Lord run to and fro over the whole earth."

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Plastic Surgery Can Help Nature

RECENTLY, I interviewed two excellent plastic surgeons who have reinforced the belief I have expressed here on occasion that mother nature doesn't resent help from us doctors. What I heard from them will interest Mrs. U. who wrote:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Except for my nose I'm a beautiful woman at 32. (That's not my description, but that of friends who tell me that if I got up enough nerve to have a nose-job done, I'd be an attractive gal.) But something inside me rebels, at the thought of tampering with nature. If God wanted me to have a beautiful nose He would have given me one. What do you think?—Mrs. U.

Comment: Now you may think the doctors I talked with might have selfish motives in suggesting that people like you have the operation. Knowing them, I know it isn't true. They are so busy that they might even have to refer you elsewhere.

WHAT THEY SAID, and what I have been saying to patients for years, is that nature welcomes help from the doctors. Nature is full of imperfections, and I'm not just speaking of the human being's physiognomy. There's no moral law says you can't straighten out disfigurations.

In our conversation we agreed that there's no question about operating on a patient's cleft palate to improve his function and appearance. Then what's wrong with straightening out an ugly nose?

I know a boy who was terribly introverted because he had ears that stuck out like sails. His schoolmates didn't make it any easier by calling him sailboat. After plastic surgery, he became a leader rather than a sheltered boy.

I KNOW A salesman who tripled his income within a year after a nose-straightening operation. I recall an actor who got his second chance only after he submitted to what is commonly known as a face-lift operation. All he needed was the confidence, not so much as the looks, to succeed again.

There was the middle-aged woman with pendulous breasts that were making her, in her own mind, an old woman before her time. Plastic surgery took care of that and transformed her into a vibrant personality. Many a younger woman has been given a new stimulus to live and enjoy life after an operation to "build up" her breasts.

Excessive wrinkles, bags under the eyes, unsightly moles and dozens of other anxiety-producing minor deformities can be overcome by the well-trained, capable plastic surgeon.

Based on my own experience, and not necessarily influenced by the beliefs of plastic surgeons, I believe strongly that people should get over the old-fashioned idea that nature resents being tampered with. It's human and natural to want to look well. If there is a way, don't hesitate to take it. And don't be deterred by well-meaning friends who may tell you, "It's silly."

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I suppose you agree that doctors can't do too much for the common cold. All you can tell us to do is get some rest, take aspirin and hope for the best. Everyone has heard the oldie: "An untreated cold lasts a week; but the treated cold lasts only seven days."

I think the most important part of your treatment is that you tell the patient to go home and rest. What is really rewarding is that you get the patient out of circulation. I'm home in bed now only because two people I work next to in our office came to work with bad colds and coughed and sneezed me into bed.—Mrs. L.

Comment: I agree all around. Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "Practical Information for Shingles Patients," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

Dr. Steincrohn is sorry he cannot answer all individual readers' letters. Nevertheless, most questions are answered in later columns.

SYLVIA PORTER

Inflation Danger Signals Flashing

FOUR DANGER signals of renewed inflation are flashing on the price-wage horizon of the U.S. today. They're still only signals on this Aug. 17, 1964, and they well may turn out to be false alarms but they are unmistakably clearer than three months ago.

(1) First is the threat of hikes in steel prices which would go beyond the willingness or ability of steel consumers to absorb them and which, therefore, would ripple out into a wave of price boosts in other industries.

Since the steel industry floated its trial balloon on higher prices a few weeks ago, steel leaders have been silent and have been obviously testing the reaction of the administration and consumers. Meanwhile President Johnson has issued just one statement that increases "would strongly conflict with our national interest in price stability" and now the administration, too, is following a policy of watchful waiting.

There's no doubt, though, that steel's top leaders feel they need price increases to finance their plant expansion and modernization programs, are carefully weighing the pros and cons.

STEEL EXECUTIVES are unmoved by hard statistics indicating that their production and sales will hit all-time records in 1964 and their earnings will be well above 1963. Their retort is that despite these production-sales peaks, their profits are still below 1955's highs and this is a mix they bitterly resent. Moreover, the logic is that if steel price hikes are to be made and to stick, they must be posted against a strong market background — and this steel has now.

There's also no doubt that objective economists in and out of the administration fear the impact of any but slight and most selective price hikes. Steel is a bellwether industry, its price actions are a symbol of stability or instability in our price structure.

(2) Second is the threat of a fat wage settlement in the auto industry which would set a pattern for union demands in other prosperous industries beyond the willingness or ability of the corporations to absorb them and which, therefore, also would ripple out into a wave of price boosts.

The auto negotiations are finally into the serious stage and there's no question that the bargaining will be rough as the Aug. 31 contract expiration date nears.

A breakthrough in the fringe benefit area as will as a hefty cash wage boost is a high possibility.

(3) THIRD IS THE threat of a consumer spending spree this fall — based on the fact that consumers have been putting huge chunks of their extra take-home pay into savings and repayment of debts. This is a pattern which could lead to a buying spurt at any time and put added pressure under prices.

So far, consumers have been handling their tax cuts in superbly restrained fashion. While our after-tax incomes soared $12 million in the second quarter, largest quarterly jump on record, our spending on goods and services rose only $6 billion. The balance went into savings and debt repayment. Savings are now running at more than 8 per cent of after-tax personal incomes, highest rate in a decade. The rise in installment buying in June was the smallest in nine months, reflecting the fact that many consumers are using their tax savings to pay off existing loans.

There is a tremendous and rising backlog of spending power in the hands of millions of families — and as the backlog increases, so does the threat of a spending spree.

(4) Fourth is the threat of a hefty steel wage settlement in early 1965 — spurred by this year's auto wage contract, by steel profits and by any steel price hikes.

To date, none of the four is more than a signal on the price-wage horizon. To date, our economy's expansion — moving through its 42nd month — remains strong, solid and free of speculative excesses.

To date, all of the talk in public is about how close to ideal our economy's performance is. But we're approaching the crucial weeks — and in private, responsible observers are worrying more and more about the threats.

THE WORLD IN FOCUS

By Jack Gates

The Next Crisis

The world moves from one crisis to another. Two weeks ago, it was in Southeast Asia with the attack on our ships and our retaliatory move against North Viet Nam. The past week it was in Cyprus again. Next week where?

The Cyprus crisis heated up to a fiery point when Turkey, apparently tired of the murderous campaign conducted by the Greek Cypriot President Makarios to brutally eliminate all Turkish Cypriots on the island, launched a series of air attacks on portions of the island and held an invasion force a short way off shores.

Makarios, who is almost as good as the Communists in "shooting off his mouth," asked for UN meetings and also sent an appeal to the Soviet Union for help, which the Russians had ignored through the past week.

Late in the week, at the request of the U. N. security council, both sides agreed to a cease-fire, although Turkey reserved the right to attack again if the Greek Cypriots made any move whatsoever toward Turkish Cypriots. It kept its invasion force in readiness.

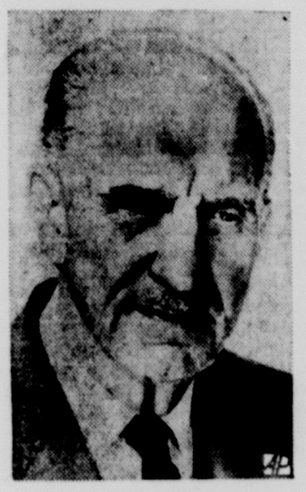

ISMET INONU

Most observers said chances for peace on Cyprus were so precariously balanced that U. N. officials feared an insult shouted across no-man's land could shatter the truce.

The Turkish attacks came after Greek Cypriots, who heavily outnumber the Turkish group, had driven them into a small northwest corner of the island with a series of vicious attacks — although the two were supposed to be at peace. The irony of the entire situation was the fact the U. S. peace-keeping force could do nothing. Under terms laid down by Makarios UN troops are not armed and also have to stop at all Greek Cypriot roadblocks and give an account of their activities.

The nation of Greece, which is backing the Greek Cypriots, pleaded for peace, but threatened to enter the war unless Turkey discontinued the attacks. Both Greece and Turkey are members of NATO.

On Thursday, Premier Ismet Inonu of Turkey defended the air raids on Cyprus in a message to Soviet Premier Khrushchev and asked the Soviet leader to use his influence to steer the Cyprus government into a course more "legal, humane and peaceful."

PAPANDREOU

Then on Friday, relations between Greece and Turkey reached a new danger point when Greece rejected Turkey's appeal for direct talks on the crisis and Turkey threatened a mass expulsion of Greeks living in Turkey. Inonu had appealed to Greek Premier George Papandreou for a direct meeting between the two nations. However, Papandreou rejected the proposal saying: "Direct negotiation would only produce false solutions which would worsen the situation and lead to disaster."

Southeast Asia

Despite efforts of the present Democratic administration to milk it for all it was worth politically, the dispute between North Viet Nam and the U. S. seemed to be cooling off. And chances at weekend were that a new outbreak on a larger scale at present was remote.

The Defense Department injected, or attempted to, alarm into the situation at mid-week with the announcement that Red China has moved a "number of old-type MIG jet fighters into North Viet Nam since the U. S. attack on patrol boats and port facilities in North Viet Nam as a retaliatory move for attacks on U. S. ships. However, most observers of Southeast Asia figure the Red Chinese have had the plane in North Viet Nam all along, in addition to thousands of Red Chinese "volunteers."

Meanwhile, a dispute of sorts boiled up in Washington as to whether Communist radar detected the U. S. air strike against North Viet Nam before President Johnson announced the action.

Rear Admiral Robert B. Moore, commander of the task force which led the U. S. raids, said he did not believe the Reds detected the attacks before Johnson spoke. The Pentagon claimed they did. The seeming discrepancy led Republican Rep. Ed Foreman of Texas to renew his complaint that Johnson announced the raids prematurely. It was finally showed that the U. S. planes did not reach their targets until about an hour and a half after the President spoke. It is therefore reasonable to assume that if this was the case, North Viet Nam knew about the attack long before any bombs fell. Defense Secretary Robert McNamara claimed by the time Johnson spoke the Reds had detected the planes on radar. Foreman said he was not satisfied with the statements, adding: "In events of war, you just don't tell the enemy when and where you are going to attack ahead of time. This is the height of military irresponsibility any way you look at it."

In the actual war itself, South Viet Nam government efforts to trap 2,000 or more Viet Cong guerrillas through one of the war's biggest airborne operations appeared to have fizzled. A regiment of Vietnamese troops — ferried by 96 helicopters into the jungle 30 miles northwest of Saigon against ground fire that killed a U. S. pilot — found the Red enemy had fled. The pilot killed was the 181st American to die in combat in Viet Nam.

Meanwhile, the Red Chinese, in a continuing verbal attack on the U. S., announced large-scale military maneuvers are being conducted in provinces that rim the South China seas from the Gulf of Tonkin through Formosa strait. The Russians, on the other hand, have taken very little notice of the situation and so far have paid only lip service to the attack on the U. S. A move to have both South and North Viet Nam come to the UN for a discussion fell through when the Viet Cong refused.

In Washington, Senator Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee, charged that President Johnson ordered the naval air strike on Communist North Viet Nam as a "tactical reaction — not a new, winning policy." Goldwater also implied that Johnson gave U. S. commanders involved in the Gulf of Tonkin affair the authority to use tactical nuclear weapons if they thought it necessary. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and McNamara denied it, saying Goldwater's interpretation of the event was "both unjustified and irresponsible," the two words the administration uses more than any other.

Despite the Southeast Asia incident, Russia and China continued their war of words also. The Red Chinese accused the Soviet Union of being too cautious in denouncing the U. S. for its recent reprisal attack on the patrol boat bases. Red China also said the Soviet Union's two leading newspapers were publishing American statements on Viet Nam without comment, even though the Communist regime in North Viet Nam had said the statements were "fabricated lies." In a final move of the week, the Communists resorted to psychological warfare by handing out leaflets saying Viet Cong guerrillas would fire only on government units accompanied by U. S. military advisers . . .

Meanwhile, U. N. Secretary - General U Thant requested more troops to reenforce the 6,200 members of the U.N. peace force on Cyprus in an effort to keep the truce in effect.

On the island itself, Greek Cypriots staged an Anti-American demonstration outside the U. S. embassy in Nicosia and refused to accept a shipment of blood claiming it "was too old."

Even after the cease-fire agreement, Turkey continued sending jet planes over Cyprus on reconnaissance and this almost touched off another flareup. On Wednesday, the Turks suspended the flights, but warned Turkey "will not hesitate" to come to the aid of Turkish Cypriots again if necessary.

Greek Cypriots claimed the air raids killed 500 to 700 persons. The Turks said in compairson to what the Cypriots had done in their brutal program of eliminating Turkish Cypriots, the number was small.

To top off the irony of the situation, the Greek government in Athens accused Makarios of breaking his agreement not to order military attacks without consulting Athens. The U. S., meanwhile, like a boy whistling when he walked by a graveyard at night, continued "to hope for peace between" the two nations.

On The Political Side

Launching his campaign into full gear the past week, GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater urged upon the nation a policy of "peace through preparedness" and said such a stance would have averted World War II, the Korean conflict and the current fighting in Viet Nam. Goldwater charged that under President Johnson "our guard is dropping in every sense." And he said that unless present plans are changed by the demand of an aroused public, the nuclear punch the U. S. can deliver may be cut by 90 per cent in the next 10 years. The Arizona Senator charged that the Americans have gone to war only when the enemy thought "us too weak to fight or when our will would not allow us to fight for our freedom."

Goldwater's statement came after he met in Hershey, Pa., with a number of Republican leaders, including some that fought bitterly at San Francisco. After the meeting, such Republicans as Dwight Eisenhower, Richard Nixon and William Scranton said they were satisfied with Goldwater's explanation of his statement on extremism which originally touched off the row. Eisenhower said he was on the Goldwater team and would do whatever the nominee asked him. Goldwater, in turn, said he would consult Eisenhower, if elected, on appointments to key cabinet posts.

Then he added that "I seek support of no extremists — of the left or the right."

Most agreed, including Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, that Goldwater had gone a long way toward healing party wounds with his actions at the Hershey meeting.

Around The Nation

In another move designed to pick up votes for Democrats this election year, President Johnson signed the federal pay-raise bill the past week. The measure gives a pay raise to members of Congress, judges, government officials and about 1.7 million other federal workers. The boost ranges from $100 a year for the lowest-ranking civil service or postal employe up to $10,000 a year for high officials. It is estimated to add $558 million to the yearly federal civilian payroll which now runs about $15.5 billion . . Also the past week, Congress, responding to an election year urging from Johnson, approved his so-called war on poverty bill — a $947.5-million program. Later the president signed the measure. The bill was disdainfully branded as "Madison Avenue" legislation by Republican Presidential nominee Barry Goldwater . . . Johnson didn't have it all his way, however, in Congress. Chairman Howard W. Smith of the House Rules Committee slipped one by Thursday when he cleared for House action a bill that would strip the federal courts of jurisdiction over reapportionment cases. The startling maneuver caught supporters of the Supreme Court's reapportionment ruling flat-footed and won a 10-4 majority in the committee. What happened, the committee took a bill away from a legislative committee — in this case the judiciary committee — which would take from federal district courts jurisdiction to hear a reapportionment case and from the Supreme Court the right to review the action of any federal district court or state supreme court dealing with state reapportionment. Meanwhile, in the Senate, a compromise has been reached on a legislative reapportionment amendment which it hoped by administration supporters to clear the way for passage of the foreign aid authorization bill. The compromise, introduced by GOP leader Everett Dirksen, would delay court-ordered reapportionment of state legislative seats until Jan. 1, 1966 in most cases. This was attached to the foreign aid bill and had bogged it down, threatening to kill any chance for congressional adjournment before the openinig of the Democratic Convention. At the same time, the Senate voted to trim $216.7 million from the foreign aid program. Then to top it off, the Senate, at the request of Republican Senator John Tower of Texas overrode administration objections and voted 62 to 28 to ban any aid to Indonesia and immediately halt further training of Indonesian military personnel in this country. Under the present law assistance is forbidden unless the president finds it in the U. S. national interest . . . Doctor Edward R. Annis, former president of the American Medical Association, meanwhile, told Senators Thursday that the administration's medicare program would have to be financed by a tax increase of major proportions. He testified before the Senate Finance Committee in opposition to the bill which has been bottled up ever since it was sent to Congress on Feb. 21, 1963 by the late President Kennedy. Medicare backers are seeking to attach the program as a rider to the House-passed bill now before the finance committee which would provide $1.5 billion in higher cash benefits for Social Security pensioners.

On the racial scene, Justice Hugo Black of the Supreme Court refused to block enforcement of the public accommodations section of the new Civil Rights Act. It came when he turned down a request by an Atlanta motel and restaurant for an order staying effectiveness of a decision that the section is constitutional. As a result, Lester Maddox, owner of the Pickrick restaurant, closed his establishment because he said he "would not serve Negroes." Up north, racial riots continued to dominate the scene. Both Paterson and Elizabeth, New Jersey were hit, with fire bombs and rank violence. At Paterson, Mayor Frank Graves banned all public gatherings and said he would not meet with any civil rights group. He also said the riots were resulting in a number of whites switching to Senator Barry Goldwater. President Johnson, trying desperately to get the riots under control because he realizes they are hurting his chances of election, warned that acts of white and Negro violence will be checked and punished "whether they occur in Mississippi or in New York." In Utah, Rep. Sherman P. Loyd blamed his vote for the civil rights bill for helping defeat his bid for the Republican nomination to the U. S. senate. Lloyd, 50, lost by 1659 votes in a record primary election .

Today's Aging Communism

EDITOR'S NOTE — Old men and old ideas still run the Communist movement, but the fires of revolution are dying. Trapped in rigid doctrines no longer valid in a changing world, the party leadership struggles to adjust and preserve its rule.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

World Communism's leadership today has hardening of the arteries.

The Communist wall dividing Berlin is symptomatic of one of the world movements' basic ailments. Leaders of Communism, often prisoners of 19th century conceptions, have constructed walls against 20th century political and social ideas.

The average age of the top leaders in the Chinese Communist hierarchy is 67, the oldest regime in terms of the age of any Red nation.

OLDER MEN

The West has its share of older men in top leadership. President Charles de Gaulle of France is 74; Chancellor Erhard of West Germany, 67; Prime Minister Douglas-Home of Britain, 61. But there is a big difference.

Western presidents and prime ministers are not frozen into the leadership of their nations. Their parties and their notions have not been continuously in control. They are subject to dynamic clashes of ideas and reflect popular opinion and the temper of the times.

Today, 14 countries in the world are ruled by Communist parties. The oldest ruler, Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam, is 74. The youngest at a brash 39 is Fidel Castro of Cuba—whose youth and unmanageability are a problem to his patrons abroad.

If one excludes Castro and 48-year-old Umzhagin Tsedenbal of Outer Mongolia—for all practical purposes part of the Soviet Union—the average age of the leaders in the other 12 Communist countries is 63.

Premier Khrushchev, 70, has been near the top of the hierarchy for more than a quarter century and rules by what is basically the same doctrine as his predecessors. His prospective successor, Leonid Brezhnev, is 57.

Chairman Mao Tze-Tung of the Chinese Communist party is 70. He has controlled the party since the mid-1930s and his application of doctrine is even more rigid than in the Soviet Union. His prospective successor, Lui Shao-Chih, a sort of high priest of Communist scriptures, is 66.

Ho Chi Minh was one of the Communist International's agents who founded the Chinese party in the early 1920s. From the way he runs North Viet Nam, there is no indication that his outlook is any less inflexible. His prospective successor, Pham Van Dong, is 58.

Wladyslaw Gomulka of Poland is 59; Tito of Yugoslavia, 72; the plodding, dogma-ridden Walter Ulbricht of East Germany, 71; Gheorghiu-Dej of Romania, 62. The youngest Communist boss in Eastern Europe is Janos Kadar of Hungary, 52.

Even in Cuba, much of the party is old. Blas Roca, who is Moscow's man in Havana, is 55, and has had innumerable headaches trying to keep his "old" Communists from being swept entirely out of the picture by Castro's impatient "new" Communists, eager to spread the revolution all over Latin America.

In the non-Communist world, the Communist party leadership is aging. Italy's Palmiro Togliatti is 71. Waldeck Rochet of France is 59. West Germany's Max Reimann is about 60. Luis Carlos Prestes, veteran of Red turbulence in Brazil, is 66. In Japan, the present party chairman, pro-Chinese Sanzo Nozaka, is 70.

Colorful figures of the Communist past are fading away. Maurice Thorez of France is dead. Dolores Ibarurri, once known in Spain as the fiery La Pasionara, is 69.

For the most part, top Communist bosses both in Red-ruled countries and elsewhere are products of Communism's first revolutionary wave 40 years ago, when they were young, impatient and spoiling for violence and power.

Once in control, they stayed there. They could be rooted out only by violence or the inexorability of nature. Dogma created by mid-19th century prophets ruled the parties. In the interests of revolutionary discipline, rigid doctrine may have served its purpose, but in the mid-20th century outdated notions became economic and social liabilities.

In the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia and other European Communist countries, long years of power diluted fervor for change. Comforts stemming from power made conservatism and protection of the status quo attractive to leaders.

In China, a group of men ranging in age from 60 to 78 rule by antiquated dogma mixed with old Chinese habits of collectivism.

China's present-day leaders, few of whom ever have been outside their homeland, are remnants of a once militant party hard core of 50,000 which was the target of Chiang Kai-shek's all-out war on the Communists launched in 1927. Only a handful of them—perhaps 200—remain today. These aging leaders make up the top Chinese party and government bodies, including the Communist Central Committee, and rule the nation of 650 million.

Young men are coming up behind them, but they, too, are reared in the rigid scriptures that erect walls against contamination by any social or political ideas from the outside.

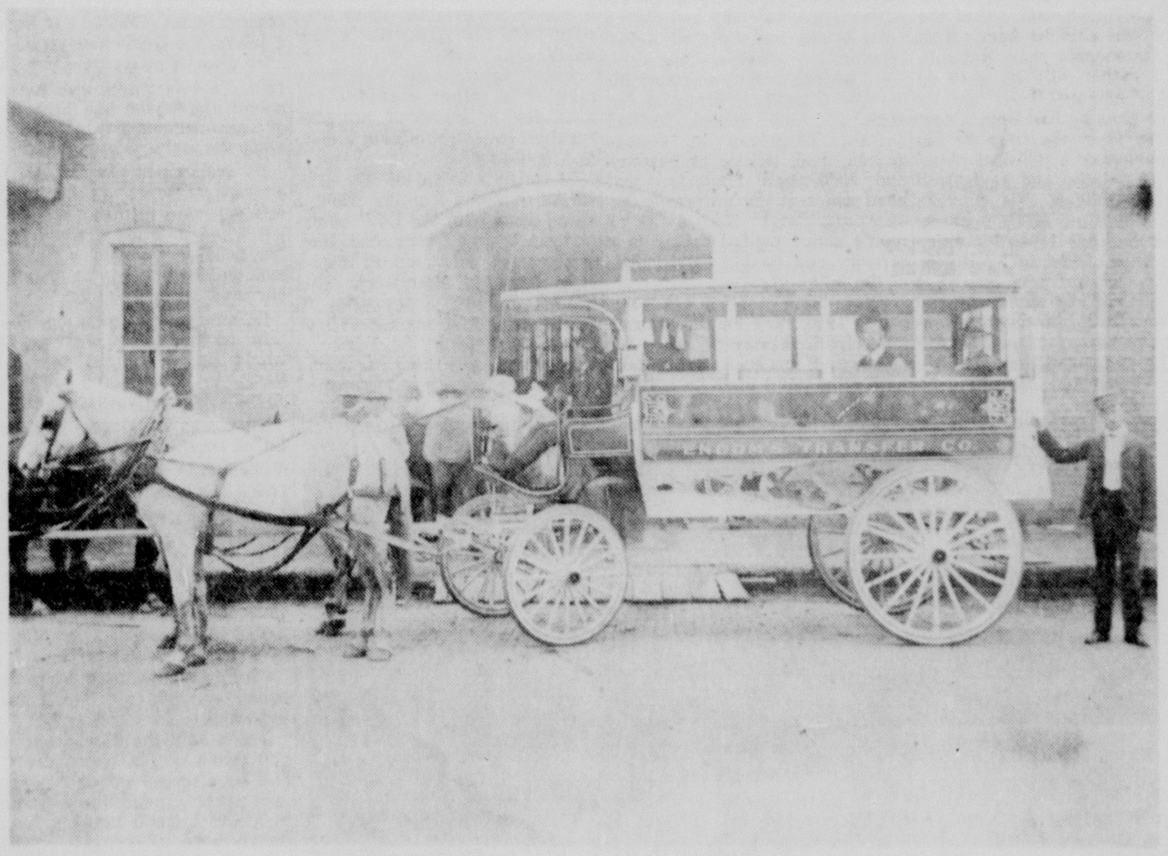

In the Soviet Union there has been an obvious and sharpening clash between the older and younger generations. A younger Soviet party is emerging, made up of ambitious people who bear little resemblance to the Bolsheviks of old. The party and the system are changing, and Communism as it was pictured under Lenin and Stalin already is dying out in the U.S.S.R.

The Communist of the old days in the Soviet Union necessarily rose from the ranks when there was a dearth of educated people. That is no longer so. Members of the party now include the specialists, the technicians, the professional people. There are able people both in the ranks and outside the party

SCENES of YESTERYEAR

. . . in the Twin Cities

THIS WAS A DAILY sight around the turn of the century and a few years after in Monroe. Here is the kind of bus used in those days—one drawn by two horses, and was the height of luxury back when this picture was made in front of the Livery Stable, located in the 100 block of DeSiard Street, and owned by Fred Endom, who, incidentally, was the first mayor of Monroe. He served two terms, first from 1874 to 1884 and from 1886 to 1888. The livery stable operated the city buses in those days, in addition to providing carriages for rent as well as riding horses. In fact, it provided all the necessary equipment for travel in those days. According to information received with the picture, several of these vehicles called a "glass bus" because of the glass windows, were used throughout the town carrying passengers. In fact, they were used on regular routes pretty much like today's city buses. The one shown in the above picture is said to be one of the first of this type to hit the city streets. The old livery stable was torn down in 1918. Note the steps at the back of the vehicle. This is the way the passengers entered. Note also the "conductor" who is standing at the rear of the bus to collect the fares. It was not known exactly when the picture was made, but possibly around 1890. It was sent in by Ronnie and Beverly Downing of Rt. 1, Box 308, West Monroe. If you have a picture of an old scene in the Twin Cities send or bring it to us at the News-Star—World, along with all the information about it.

Barry's Choice: New GOP National Chieftain

EDITOR'S NOTE — A 36-year-old Tucson lawyer, almost unknown in politics, is the new $30,000-a-year Republican national chairman. And what Roy Dean Burch lacks in experience is more than made up by his enthusiasm for Goldwater, who gave him his start.

By ROB WOOD

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Spanish-style home with its encircling red-brick wall, wrought-iron gate and shaded patios still had the smell of newness. A picture window framed the desert reaching to the Santa Catalina Mountains in the distance.

On a table was a magazine, dog-eared and soiled along the pages that told of the recent Republican national convention that nominated Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater for president.

Stretched across the combined length of an easy chair and foot stool was the new chairman of the Republican National Committee — Tucson attorney Roy Dean Burch.

His tie dangled like a scarf; his shoes had been discarded. He loosened his belt a notch as he sipped a cold beer.

"I was always the shortest and fattest kid in my grade school classes," he said, "so never was much at sports. I had a miserable high school record. Guess I was fortunate to graduate. Didn't have much interest in politics either until I ran for the University of Arizona Student council as a junior. I lost by seven votes.

"A week ago I wasn't even real sure how the national chairman was appointed."

But he was not at all hazy on what the chairman was supposed to do.

At his first news conference, Burch said "The Goldwater-Miller campaign will be coordinated through the Republican National Committee."

Pressed to say if there would be a purge of those who had not backed Goldwater, Burch declared:

"The purpose of the Republican National Committee is to elect a president and a vice president. The purpose of the Republican National Committee is neither to reward nor to purge. You don't elect Republicans by reading anyone out of the party. That's the feeling of the chairman and I assume that's the feeling of the committee."

GIVEN CREDIT

Burch, with his taste for informal dress and formal organization, was credited by many as being the brains behind Goldwater's winning drive for the nomination.

It was Burch who personally directed the senator's final two weeks in the victorious California primary. It was Burch who had a major voice in reshaping Goldwater's campaign procedures after the failure in New Hampshire, where Henry Cabot Lodge scored an impressive victory.

That reshaping included a sharp reduction in news conferences, which, Burch said, had a tendency to overshadow and often bury points Goldwater hoped to make in his speeches.

Also, the number of national and international issues to be discussed during a primary campaign were trimmed to three or four, rather than the 30 or 40 Goldwater attempted to handle in New Hampshire.

And the senator eliminated most of the handshaking tours of shopping centers. "We learned," Burch said, "that the senator was shaking hands with more Democrats than Republicans, a rather silly thing to do in a GOP primary."

Burch says he has been a conservative from the time he began developing a political philosophy in college and registered as a Republican. His parents were longtime Democrats. Burch's feelings toward politics are so closely tied to his desire to see a Goldwater victory that it is difficult to separate the two. He admits, however, to enjoying the contest of politics for the sake of competition.

The 36-year-old Burch, who outgrew his childhood fatness to become a lean, 170 pound, six-footer, seems untroubled by the responsibilities of the GOP national chairmanship.

His only regrets are leaving the new home in Tucson, "which we haven't even finished furnishing," and setting aside once again his desire to settle down, "I like to live with a closet full of clean shirts and an icebox full of milk, not out of a suitcase."

His new job, which pays $30,000 a year, means working out of party headquarters in Washington and spending much time on the road.

He's leaving his adopted Tucson for what Burch says is a new challenge and an intense loyalty to Goldwater.

LIKES CHALLENGE

"You can't realize the absolute goodness of Senator Goldwater in relationship to other people," he said. "He took me in as an employe several years ago without my having influential parents, any political drag, or any known ability to aid his senate career."

And Burch says he never has been able to reject a challenge. Once he decided the patio at his parents' home needed a brick terrace. He never had laid a brick, so he went to the library and studied all available books. A short time later he had placed 7,000 bricks and finished a terrace.

He needed money to finish his college education. He sold hot dogs at high school football games; programs at college games; took tickets at baseball and basketball contests; was head usher at the university auditorium; sold clothes at a men's shop; waited tables in a sorority and loaded cantaloupes in the summer.

"You think politics get hot," Burch said, "try loading cantaloupes with the temperature 120 degrees. Your socks get slushy with sweat and your hands stiff and bleeding. In the mornings I had to run hot water over my hands before I could move my fingers."

He was born in Enid, Okla., the only child of Bert and Leona Burch. His mother was a school teacher, his father an employe of the Federal Bureau of Prisons.

EARLY READER

"He was just a normal, happy little boy who had all the childhood diseases," his mother says. "He never was much of a problem. He talked early and started reading early and hasn't stopped yet."

By the time he was ready for the third grade, the family moved to Leavenworth, Kan. His father, who died six years ago, was a guard in the army disciplinary barracks at Ft. Leavenworth.

Five years later, the Burchs moved to San Francisco where the father was a guard at Alcatraz.

This island in San Francisco Bay became Burch's hometown from 1941 until he left for the service in early 1946.

"The war was on while I was in high school," Burch recalls, "and all I could think about was enlisting. I had no interest in school. My grades were only fair and my record miserable. I managed to graduate and then went into the Army as a private."

Burch, a ruggedly handsome man with rather unruly black hair, said an attack of influenza resulted in his promotion to second lieutenant.

"I finished seven of the eight weeks of basic training when I came down with the flu," he explained. "After I recovered they started me all over in basic, right from the first week. This time I jumped at the offer of taking examinations for Officer Candidate School."

Burch passed the tests along with 137 others. Only 27 finished the course. Only one other was as young as he — 18 years old.

He served with the 7th Cavalry Regiment in Japan and during his tour of duty Burch met a captain from Arizona. "He touted me on the sunshine, the desert and the University of Arizona. I decided to give it a whirl."

"At first," Burch said, "I considered making the army my career, but after watching the progress of the West Point graduates, I knew I couldn't compete without a college education."

By then Burch's father, seriously injured in a riot at Alcatraz late in 1946, had decided to retire to Arizona.

Immediately after obtaining his law degree in 1953, Burch became a special assistant attorney general, a job that lasted until his boss — Ross F. Jones — was defeated in a 1954 bid for re-election.

LEARNED BASICS

"During that campaign," Burch said, "I learned the nuts and bolts that hold a political effort together."

That same year he met Goldwater, then in his second year as a senator. "We met at a large luncheon," Burch recalled, "shook hands and chatted a few minutes."

Later Jones arranged a brief session in an effort to get Burch a job on the Goldwater staff.

"I wanted to go East," Burch said. "I was single and free to travel and never had been east of Leavenworth. I wanted to see what the country looked like."

"I waited two months without a word," Burch said, "and I was getting a bit desperate for a job when a letter arrived from the senator. It said simply, 'I look forward to having you join our staff in Washington.'

"There was no mention of salary, no mention of what my job would be. I caught the next flight to Washington and became a legislative assistant."

That was in March 1955 and Burch soon was advanced to administrative assistant.

REMEMBERS PRESENT

Of Goldwater, Burch remembers "a Christmas present he once gave me — 25 hours of flying instructions. I became a flyer.

"He gave me many other valuable presents — like knowledge and understanding."

Burch left the Goldwater organization in 1959 because "I had been on somebody's payroll ever since graduation. I wanted to see if I could make a living on my own."

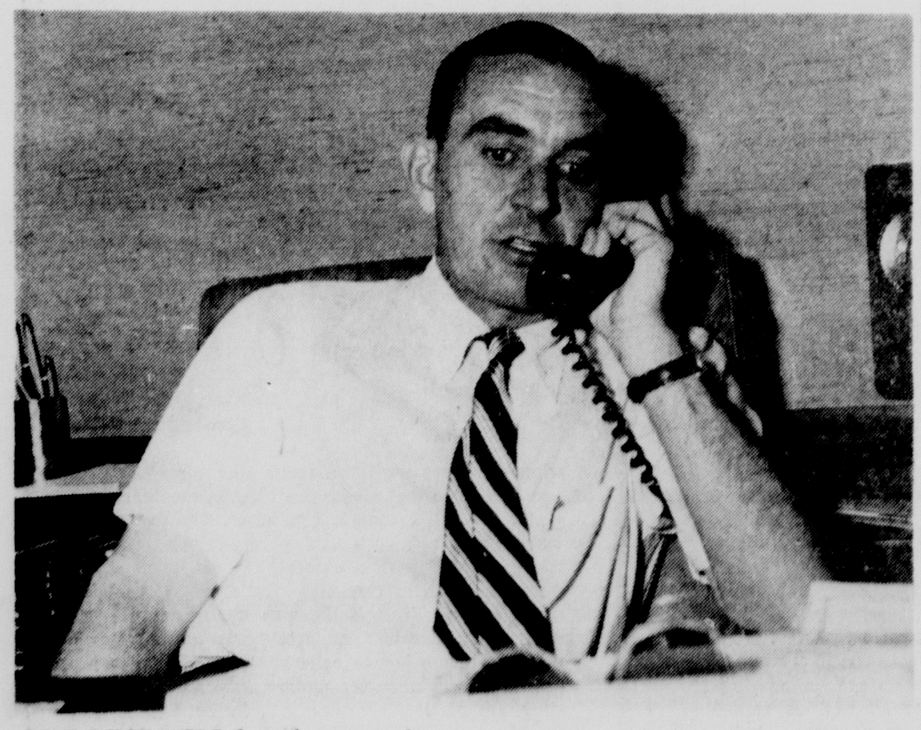

Burch became a successful Tucson attorney, only to leave again and join Goldwater for the presidential nomination bid.

"He called me to a meeting 18 months ago and I attended. That day my son, Dean, was born.

"Pat and I are expecting our third child in November. It probably will come on election night and I'll miss that one, too."

Burch and his wife, the former Pat Meeks of San Bernardino, Calif., have one other child, 6-year-old Shelly.

It was on a Wednesday night, shortly after Goldwater had won the GOP presidential nomination, that the senator suggested Burch be national chairman.

THE LINE WILL be a busy one from now on for Roy Dean Burch, seen in his law office in Tucson, Ariz. He is the new chairman of the Republican National Committee. He will have to move to Washington, party headquarters, and spend much time on the road. Burch, who learned his political philosophy from Barry Goldwater, calls himself a "mechanic" who "puts the philosophy to work." (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Republican Revolution: Its Meaning To Party

By ALLAN NEVINS
Written for The Associated Press

Not in more than 40 years, or since the Progressive revolt of 1912, has so sharp a break occurred in the ranks of a major party as that in San Francisco when the Republicans nominated Barry Goldwater.

Parties always make heroic efforts to avoid a schism. To maintain unity, they sometimes rally around the platform at the expense of the candidate, as Republicans did when the frigid and unpopular Benjamin Harrison got himself renominated in 1892. Conversely, they sometimes rally around the candidate and ignore the party doctrines. "We support McClellan and spit upon the platform," said Democrats in 1864.

But when the San Francisco gathering ended, the two nominees, the platform, and the campaign organization had been given absolute conformity. They spelled just one word, conservatism.

Some observers saw a sharp reversal of the old Republican position on many issues. The attention given to this reflects the popular belief that parties are governed largely by their traditions, and on certain basic subjects ought not to change their historic stands.

How valid is this belief? How often has the Republican party made a striking change in policy since its first convention in 1856? Just how do parties alter with new men and new circumstances, and that do they gain or lose? These are important questions, for they involve the integrity of the party and its chieftains. The general conclusion of history is plain. Change is necessary, it is incessant, and from time to time it is drastic. The question whether it is healthy depends upon its character.

The Republican party has, until now, never had its underlying philosophy of government heavily assailed or shaken. Some critics think it has been all too immobile.

THE REPUBLICAN Party has made drastic changes in policy at various times since 1880, says Allan Nevins, two-time Pulitzer Prize winning writer on history and politics. He is seen in his garden at Pasadena, Calif. If the conservative platform written at the convention which nominated Barry Goldwater for President is upheld in the campaign, it will mark an effort to effect basic changes in the GOP, as Nevins sees it. GREAT ISSUES

The great issues of presidential campaigns, it should be emphasized, are seldom made by party councils or platforms. They are usually generated by what Jefferson called the course of human events, and the groundswells of public sentiment to which these events give rise. It was the Spanish War that created the issues of annexation and imperialism in 1900; and anyone who looks at the platforms of 1896 can see that neither Republicans nor Democrats then had any real anticipation of the Spanish War.

It was the great depression that swept Franklin D. Roosevelt into power in 1932, and the platforms written four years earlier show that nobody expected the depression. The contest of 1940 was shaped by Hitler's conquest of Western Europe and the dire extremity of the British democracy; platforms had little to do with the considerations in the minds of voters that dark autumn.

Nevertheless, dynamic leaders have sometimes created new issues, as the history of all the strong presidents from Andrew Jackson shows. Theodore Roosevelt, in one of his first long messages to Congress, laid down a program of manysided reform that he followed throughout his two terms, and that shaped the issues of all the elections. And as events have created new issues in our history, part of the form they took has been dictated by party leaders.

The first drastic change made in the course of the Republican party was a direct response to events and public sentiment. For this change we must go back to Grant's second administration. It then became plain that the carpetbag governments in the South were full of corruption, waste, and incompetence, and that the use of troops to keep some of them in power was intolerable. In 1874 the Republicans lost the House. In 1876 they clung to the presidency by a bargain with Southern leaders. The result was that the Republican party totally abandoned the radical reconstruction policies it had supported since the war, and charted a new course based on acceptance of white supremacy in the South.

In 1876 the Republican platform had been unequivocal. It declared: "The permanent pacification of the southern section of the Union, and the complete protection of all its citizens in the free enjoyment of all their rights, is a duty to which the Republican party stands sacredly pledged."

How utterly this pledge was forgotten in 1880! That year the platform had some face-saving phrases about the Constitution and the faithful performance of all promises made to citizens.

A more nearly silent change of the Republican course, but equally decisive and important, took place in the 1940s. Ever since 1932 a considerable body of Republicans had been torn between their wish to conduct a Liberty League battle for complete repudiation of the New Deal, and their realization that voters scorned the Al Smith-Herbert Hoover Liberty League and wanted more New Deal measures. In 1936 Alfred M. Landon declared that another New Deal victory would endanger "the relief and welfare of American men and women, and the future of our youth." He denounced deficit spending, and wished the state governments to take over relief and welfare. The result was Roosevelt's victory in every state but Maine and Vermont.

In 1940 the platform and the speeches of Wendell Willkie followed much the line laid down by Landon. They admitted that New Deal objectives had merit, but condemned New Deal methods as outrageous. This time the Democrats took 449 electoral votes, and the Republicans 82. In 1944 the Republican party realized that denunciation of the New Deal was more perilous than ever. The war had brought back nearly full employment. The chief social welfare measures were highly popular. With a psychology of European victory enveloping the contest, the party tacitly but decisively gave up its main positions. And when later Republican president Eisenhower was elected, it declared flatly: "We shall not turn the clock back."

OTHER CHANGE

The acceptance of the welfare state was not the only tremendous change forced upon the Republican party by time and events. An equally important change took place with respect to foreign policy. This time a national convention witnessed the climax of the shift.

At the beginning of 1945 the Republican party still apparently clung to the isolationism of the 1920s and 1930s. It had turned away from Wendell Willkie's ideas of "one world." When the Republican national chairman appointed an advisory committee to draw up a peacetime program, he left Willkie off the list.

In this situation Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan made a speech on January 10, 1945, which swung the party toward a realistic new course. He boldly repudiated isolationism, summoned America to the tasks of world leadership, and declared that he stood for "maximum American cooperation . . . to make the basic idea of Dumbarton Oaks succeed. His endorsement of the principle of the United Nations made a tremendous sensation.

The next Republican convention, meeting in Philadelphia in 1948, ratifeid his stand.

With the support of Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Vandenberg wrote his own planks on foreign affairs and got them adopted. The Republican party marched into the campaign with just the "splendid platform" he wanted.

Thereafter Vandenberg continued laboring to throw the party behind the United Nations, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and a bipartisan approach to sensitive areas of foreign affairs. When Republican senators in July 1949 voted 32 to 11 for the NATO pact, the new party position was firmly assured. This historic change of Republican front strengthened the whole free world.

But not once in all these years did the basic philosophy of the Republican party change. In their new internationalism, Republicans simply harked back to the outlook of such leaders as James G. Blaine, John Hay, and Elihu Root.

After 1948, one additional effort to change the Republican position in a decisive way came near succeeding. Ever since the Civil War, the Republican party had been more conservative than the Democratic, though always with strong tinges of liberalism. Both great parties in this country are coalitions of many groups. They are made up of protestants, catholics and Jews, of farmers, mechanics and professional men, of the rich, the middle-class and the poor, of liberals, radicals and conservatives.

The balance of the groups constantly changes. But after the Civil War the Republicans befriended the veterans with pensions, the financial interests with "sound money" and opposition to inflation, the manufacturers with tariffs, and the railroad builders with land grants. They gained a reputation for friendliness to business which was strengthened under Taft, Coolidge, and Hoover. Despite such men as Robert M. LaFollette, Charles S. McNary, and George W. Norris, the chief strength of the party lay in conservatism.

As the party gradually embraced the welfare state program, and yet lost election after election, some leaders believed that the shifting balance of groups had gone too far in the liberal direction. Closer adherence to the Simon-pure conservatism of Hoover's day, they argued would fortify the organization. They condemned the Willkie-Dewey left-of-middle trend.

This movement came to a climax with Robert A. Taft's drive for the presidential nomination in 1952. He was by no means a reactionary. He had supported public housing and slum clearance, he believed in social security, and his Taft-Hartley act had merely tried to establish a proper balance between the power of labor and the power of capital.

But "Mr. Republican" stood for a re-establishment of Republican orthodoxy. By this he meant cautious financial measures, economy, a reduction of federal activity inside state spheres, and less generosity abroad.

The rock on which Taft's conservative movement split was Eisenhower's conviction that his policies would endanger the allied harmony that Eisenhower had done so much to create. In home affairs Eisenhower believed in a "dynamic conservatism"; in world affairs this head of NATO military forces thought that nothing but democratic unity could contain the Communist threat.

HEART WITH IKE

When the convention met in Chicago, it was evident that while Taft led in the number of delegates, the heart of the party was with Eisenhower. On the first ballot Eisenhower came so close to the nomination that an immediate change of Minnesota votes gave him the prize.

This Republican decision in 1952 was resented by the conservatives, including such Taft men as Joe Martin and Everett Dirksen.

Does Goldwater's conquest of the party in San Francisco represent more than a victorious revival of Taft's conservative movement of 1952? Does it mean more than a spasmodic revolt against all the frustrations of Republicans during the past thirty-odd years? Time alone will tell. Goldwater may retreat hastily from some of his positions. Until he does, the evidence is strong that his movement implies far more than superficial change. When Nebraska, Sen. Carl T. Curtis cried to the western delegates, "you are the salt of the earth!" he seemed hailing a shift in the basic philosophy of the party.

Alterations in the Republican platform are not only numerous, but drastic. In home affairs, the party in 1960 promised action against discrimination in federally aided housing; this year the resolutions committee defeated a reference to the subject. In 1960, the platform reaffirmed the constitutional right of peaceable assembly to protest discrimination by private businesses; this year it not only omits any such statement, but condemns the administration for "encouraging disorderly and lawless elements."

In 1960 the platform promised to continue protecting consumers against harmful food, drugs and cosmetics; this year it promised instead to stop the efforts of the Food and Drug Administration and Federal Trade Commission to interfere with consumer decisions.

In 1960, it asked for doubling the number of immigrants admitted, with the census of 1960 instead of 1920 as a basis, this year it promised only to help reunite families.

DECLARATION

In foreign affairs, instead of asking just settlements for the reduction of world tensions, as in 1960, the new platform declares: "We will never abandon insistence on advantages for the free world." Instead of a promise of defense against Communist aggression as in 1960, the new platform calls for "victory" over Communism.

The platform four years ago commended cultural exchanges with Russia, and the agreement for neutralizing antarctica. The new platform pronounces against negotiations with the Communists. The former platform expressed hope for progress in disarmament; the new one demands caution in disarmament.

If the platform is upheld as written, and if Goldwater stands by his utterances, it will be plain that an effort is being made to revise the whole character, the entire fundamental philosophy, of the Republican party. There will be in effect a new conservative party, basing its strength on the South, the Southwest, and the Far West. Its appeal at San Francisco was plainly directed to these sections. Its leaders clearly regarded the eastern states, in Bryan's words, as "the enemy's country."

No Questions On Shotguns For Russians

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—It may surprise a foreigner coming to this country widely renowned for its police supervision, but you can walk up to the counter in any gun store and buy a shotgun with no questions asked.

You can buy a license and go shoot a duck or a grouse, or fish through a hole in the ice.

There are a million and a half sportsmen in the country, and there are some of the most beautiful trout streams imaginable in the Ural Mountains, crystal clear, running through game, but most of the good hunting is to the east, in Siberia, which is beautiful country in many areas despite a bad reputation as an area of exile.

There are big flocks of ducks for the shooting around the Caspian Sea, where the Volga River pours in to create a lot of swamp. The limit on ducks is usually three a day.

A good many of the ducks which show up in France and in North Africa come from Siberian swamps where they nest.

Geese also find the Siberian swamps a delight for nesting, and they go even farther north. One of the big nesting grounds of white geese is on Wrangel Island, north of Bering Strait, which separates the Soviet Union from Alaska. Three years ago the Russians banded 3,000 of them to trace their migration. Sixty such bands were mailed back by hunters who had shot them in California.

There are bison, much like the American bison of the Western Plains, and tigers, yak, musk ox and polar bears, but all are protected. There are not many left.

This correspondent established a near "littlest" record by catching, on hook and line, a fish one and an eighth inches long. He was a regular sporting fish, caught in the Volga through a hole bored through four feet of ice.

Out on the Volga men will sit six and eight hours a day occasionally pulling in such fish, and occasionally bigger ones, up to 10 inches long.

CURTAIN CALL

The five plays selected for the 1964-65 Little Theatre season add up to one of the best programs ever offered our members. "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With," is a wildly funny comedy which starred Mary Healy and Peter Lind Hayes a few seasons ago. It also featured Ray Walston who currently appears as The Martian on television.

Try-outs for "Who Was That Lady" will be held on Monday, August 31, and Tuesday, September 1, at 7:30 p.m. at Strauss Playhouse. It calls for a cast of about 20 over a broad age range.

Also on the schedule is "Sunday In New York," a frothy and sophisticated farce. After a season's run on Broadway in 1961-62, it proved immensely popular in summer stock and community theatre.

SUSPENSE MATERIAL

Agatha Christie, "The Mousetrap," notwithstanding, has never written a more gripping murder mystery than "Ten Little Indians." This is guaranteed to keep you in suspense until the surprise ending.

The season's musical is to be "The Sound Of Music," which beguiled New York audiences for 1442 performances. The combination of Mary Martin and a Rodgers and Hammerstein score produced the longest run since "My Fair Lady" as far as musicals are concerned. If one Broadway columnist is correct, "The Sound Of Music" proved a bigger draw than "My Fair Lady" on the current summer circuit.

FINAL SELECTION

The final selection is "Mary, Mary" on its way to 1,500 performances in its fourth season on Broadway. New York audiences found the wry humor of Jean Kerr irresistible in this happy comedy and we have been looking forward to its presentation in Monroe.

Our members understand, of course, that all selections are subject to substitution in the event of unforeseen circumstances, but in this unlikely contingency we usually manage to offer an equally good replacement.

With such an exceptional program, memberships for the coming season should go fast. Right now membership vice president Barbara Easterling is concentrating on the renewal of patron subscriptions under the chairmanship of Ann Bell. These cost $30, the same as last year, and cover two admissions to each show. Patrons have their names printed in the program and enjoy a gala preview of the opening show.

HOPE

We hope last season's record number of patrons will all renew and that others will be moved to give this extra measure of support to such a worthwhile cultural activity. The added $15, a tax-deductible contribution, multiplied by our patron list, makes it possible for the Little Theatre of Monroe to maintain the near-professional quality of its productions.

In future columns we shall discuss the other types of membership available, including the new season membership for students at the bargain price of $5.

Before long a brochure describing the season and the classes of membership will be sent to those on our mailing list, so we urge last year's members to give us current addresses if they have not been receiving play announcements. A postcard to Box 868 will suffice or call Barbara Easterling at FAirfax 3-8482.

Ed Holloway has sent us a clipping from the Bradenton, Florida, newspaper concerning the local theatre group the Manatee Players. Their director for the coming season will be Thom Feuerstein who directed here for two seasons starting in 1953. Thom also took the part of Dracula in that production.

President Beryl Franklin and wife Nancy are taking a well-earned rest in Kentucky. They had been at the theatre almost every night since the beginning of rehearsals for "Take Her, She's Mine." Under the bylaws, vice president for administration Craig Morgan is the ranking officer during the president's absence.

MILLER WAIVES ROYALTIES

NEW YORK (AP) — A neighborhood group, Fair World Theater, is being allowed to perform "A View From the Bridge" without payment of usual royalties to author Arthur Miller.

The playwright said he waived any payment because "the concept of getting people in the area engaged in cultural activity is a good one."

MICHAEL CALLAN, one of "The New Interns," becomes an emergency room patient in a scene from the Columbia Pictures release which opens Wednesday at the Paramount. Dean Jones is the doctor and Barbara Eden the nurse. Others starring in the Robert Cohn production are Telly Savalas, Stefanie Powers, Kay Stevens, Inger Stevens as Nancy and newcomer George Segal.

CO-STARS HAYLEY MILLS and Peter McEnery add youth and talent to Walt Disney's first suspense-mystery, "The Moon-Spinners," which is now showing at the Jim Theatre. Eli Wallach and Pola Negri also star in the Technicolor feature, released by Buena Vista.

McKinley Says Election To Be Poll On Rights

BATON ROUGE — Chairman John McKinley o fthe Louisiana State Sovereignty Commission said Saturday he believed the coming presidential election would offer, in effect, a first "national poll" on the question of states.

For the first time in many years, he said, voters apparently will have a clear - cut choice on such issues as state sovereignty, including Gulf of Mexico tidelands, and rights of owners of property and businesses.

"The basic question," McKinley said, "gets down to whether states and individuals should have the rights provided in the U. S. Constitution, or if all power, over all things, should be concentrated in Washington."

McKinley did not endorse either major candidate for president, but said "there is little doubt in my mind that voters in the South, joined by many in the North, will vote against bureaucracy."

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Photography has become increasingly important in the activities of summer camps. Almost every camp of every size has a photography counselor who guides the youngsters in their picture-taking efforts and often teaches them the fundamentals of developing and printing.

For many years, camp directors have used photography, through movies and color slides, as a major selling point in convincing parents of prospective campers of the merits of a specific camp. The pictures of the camp's activities are shown to groups or individual families during the winter or early spring season when parents are making plans for the coming summer. Pictures have authenticity which carry more weight than the words of a printed brochure.

CANDID PHOTOGRAPHY

This year at Camp Pontiac, West Copake, N.Y., an intensified program of candid action photography has the enthusiastic support of its photo-minded directors. Using new 35mm equipment and electric eye exposure automation, Mel Horowitz, one of the camp officials, has taken several thousand black-and-white unposed pictures of the campers in the first few weeks of the season.

"By the time the youngsters head for home," Mel estimated, "I'll have taken 5,000 pictures. These will all be sent to their parents with our compliments. Most will be mailed home while the children are still in camp. The last 1,000 prints will be saved to send as reminders to parents when we announce our 1965 season.

"They bring us a great deal of good will and free advertising when shown to friends. They remain a constant visual reminder when the parents are ready to select a camp again."

BIG DIFFERENCE

The big difference this year was acquisition of a 300 mm f-4 Novoflex telephoto lens for use on a Heiland Pentax 35mm camera. The Novoflex has an instantly adjustable trigger focusing system which brings a distant subject into focus by variation of finger tension. The trick is to freeze the finger tension when sharp focus is achieved. Any change in finger tension changes the focus.

"It's a great system for rapid-fire candid action shooting," Mel said, "but it takes practice to perfect. Now I can shoot close-ups of faces from 18 feet away when the youngsters are absorbed in baseball, swimming or games of any kind. From 30 to 40 feet away I'll get a boy gripping a bat, a girl in tennis action or any of our outdoor activities. I shoot from the grandstand or sidelines without being unduly conspicuous."

Mel usually shoots at 1-500th of a second to avoid camera movement which is possible when using a hand-held long telephoto at slower speeds. By using fast Tri-X film (400 ASA), the lens opening is usually around f-8 or f-11 giving good depth of field.

For indoor nighttime activities, Mel usually switches to a slower, finer grain film, Plus-X Pan (125 ASA), a 135mm telephoto lens and an electronic flash to photograph action up to 15 feet away.

35MM FILM

Everything is shot on 36-exposure 35mm film, processed by a good commercial lab and the prints returned are the usual jumbo-size enlargements. Each roll of film gets a file number and each print, when identified, also has its film file number. A record is kept of all prints sent out to parents and of the unusually good pictures. Some are selected for enlargement on the camp bulletin board.

"I've been a camera fan for years," Mel Horowitz recalled, "and I've tried different types of cameras and shooting techniques. This trigger-focus telephoto is the best yet. I get candid expressions and good action pictures without making the subjects camera conscious. The pictures are great for camp morale and delight the parents, making it easier to get the children back again. Photography has proven its value at Camp Pontiac and we see, if anything, an increase in its use in the future."

The Animals Record Stars Join Ranks Of

CHICAGO (UPI)—"The Animals" joined the Beatles among top recording stars in the United Press International weekly survey of the top 20 tunes.

Like the Beatles, the Animals are British. Their tune, "House of the Rising Sun," rose from nowhere to position No. 5 in the top tunes.

Otherwise, the top tunes were arranged just like last week—1. "Everybody Loves Somebody," by Dean Martin, 2. "Where Did Our Love Go?" by Supreme, 3. "Hard Day's Night," by the Beatles, and 4. "Rag Doll," by the four Seasons.

Dusty Springfield's "Wishin' and Hopin'" was slippin' a little during the week, dropping from fifth to sixth place.

THE DRIFTERS

The Drifters' "Under The Boardwalk" stayed level in seventh place. "The Little Old Lady From Pasadena" by Jan and Dean fell from sixth to eighth place.

"Walk — Don't Run '64" by the Ventures crawled from 10th to ninth, and Ronny and the Daytonas' "GTO" went from 11th to 10th.

Nancy Wilson, who recorded "How Glad I Am," probably wasn't this week. Her song fell all the way from eighth out of the top 20.

The tunes, their listing, last week's, and number of weeks in the top 20:

1. (1-6) Everybody Loves Somebody, Dean Martin.
2. (2-5) Where Did Our Love Go? Supreme.
3. (3-6) Hard Day's Night. Beatles.
4. (4-10) Rag Doll, Four Seasons.
5. (0-1) House of the Rising Sun. Animals.
6. (5-4) Wishin' and Hopin.' Dusty Springfield.
7. (7-6) Under The Boardwalk. Drifters.

LITTLE OLD LADY

8. (6-7) Little Old Lady From Pasadena. Jan and Dean.
9. (10-3) Walk—Don't Run '64. Ventures.
10. (11-4) GTO. Ronny and the Daytonas.
11. (0-1) How Do You Do It? Gerry and the Pacemakers.
12. (9-12) I Get Around. Beachboys.
13. (0-1) We'll Sing in the Sunshine. Gale Garnett.
14. (15-6) C'mon and Swim. Bobby Freeman.
15. (0-1) In The Misty Moonlight. Garry Wallace.
16. (0-1) Sugar Lips. Al Hirt.
17. (0-1) James Bond Theme. Billy Strange.
18. (0-1) Handy Man. Del Shannon.
19. (0-1) Such A Night. Elvis Presley.
20. (0-1) Ain't She Sweet? Beatles.

Bandits Capture, Trade 3 Lawmen For Safe Escape

EMMETSBURG, Iowa (AP) — Three law enforcement officers were kidnapped for a brief time Saturday by two gunmen surprised in a robbery attempt.

The officers were released unharmed upon the promise of other officers to withdraw from an area where they had the gunmen surrounded in Emmetsburg.

Deputy Sheriff Don Hamilton of Pocahontas County, Night Marshal Bud Vanderpool of Laurens and Pocahontas Policeman Curtis Anderson surprised the gunmen in Laurens 28 miles southwest of here.

It was not immediately learned how the gunmen overpowered the officers.

The three officers were in the front seat of Hamilton's car when it sped out of Laurens with the gunmen in the rear seat.

The fugitives had reached Emmetsburg when one of them called on the radio of the sheriff's car and said the officers would be released if other patrol cars that had them surrounded would pull back.

The officers withdrew and the three hostages were freed. The gunmen took the officers' guns and ammunition.

The sheriff's car later was found here.

Observers Not Sure Of Pope's Goal

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Pope Paul VI is proving to be very hard to characterize.

Is he a progressive or a conservative?

Is he committed to reform and reunion, like Pope John XXIII? Or is he preoccupied with the problems of Italian politics and international diplomacy, like Pope Pius XII?

When Paul VI ascended the papal throne last June, he was regarded as the chosen heir of John XXIII. In fact, it was widely predicted that he would be even more progressive, and even more devoted to the cause of Christian unity, than his predecessor.

This prediction seemed to be amply justified by his record. As Cardinal Montini, he had been a leader of the progressive forces in the first session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

FIRST QUESTIONS

The first widespread questions about the new Pope's course arose during the council's second session last fall. Pope Paul declined to support the progressives in their attempt to get an immediate vote on a declaration in favor of religious liberty and a statement exculpating the Jewish people of the crucifixion of Christ.

Council progressives also were disappointed by what they regarded as the Pope's failure to throw his full weight behind a document spelling out the so-called "Doctrine of Collegiality," which holds that all bishops share with the Pope in the exercise of supreme authority in the church.

Reports sped through the council that conservative leaders of the Roman Curia had succeeded in persuading the Pope that Italy was on the brink of going Communist, and that he could avert this disaster only by de-emphasizing the idea that the Catholic Church needed reforming.

These reports have never been confirmed, and many Vatican observers have always felt that they were gross exaggerations, at best. But they are likely to be revived by Pope Paul's first encyclical, which was issued last week.

A large portion of the 12,000-word encyclical was devoted to a blistering denunciation of Communism. It was clearly intended to strengthen anti-Communist parties in Italy, and to close the "opening to the left" attributed to John XXIII.

EMPHASIS

The encyclical also laid heavy stress on papal supremacy as an essential concept which the Catholic Church can never compromise for the sake of Christian unity.

By adding fact to rumor, and mixing in a dash of speculation, it would be quite possible to arrive at the conclusion that Pope Paul has gone over to the conservative side and is no longer bent on carrying out the program of John XXIII.

But this conclusion would not necessarily be true. For there are other facts which need to be considered.

One is the agenda for the third session of the Vatican Council beginning Sept. 14. It is headed by the "collegiality" document—and those who have read it, in the form it will be voted upon, say that it is as forthright as any progressive could desire. Close behind it on the agenda are declarations on religious liberty and the Jews.

One set of facts seems to contradict the other. Perhaps the most judicious conclusion that can be reached at this point is that it is too early in his pontificate to pin any kind of label on the brilliant, complex man who is Paul VI.

TAKES PLANNING

Antique Auction Church Fund Aid

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A big country auction is one way to fatten a church treasury. It takes planning, volunteer workers and good furnishings to put it over, advises a church group now bustling with activity to top last year's profit, $7,000.

Each year, the Wilton, Conn., Congregational Church, one of the oldest in America — organized in 1726, built in 1790 — combines the furniture auction and a real Connecticut Yankee Fair complete with blueberry preserves, white elephant sale, church supper and art exhibition. And people from many states beat a path to the church lawn.

HIGH POINT

The auction has been the high point of the fair for 20 years, attracting buyers because of the quality of the objects. The planning goes on all year with teams of church workers, 150 strong. They divide into groups — refinishers, spit - and - polishers (they shine brass and other metals) and strong arm squad (they move objects from display areas to auction block). Workers are spearheaded by a husband and wife team Archibald and Justine Millikan who ferret out the antiques from the countryside of New England and other areas.

Originally, all pieces were donated, mainly from cleared attics, but the demand was so great for better items, that today they buy most of the antiques, and the profit is greater.

"We buy as many good things as we can find. Sometimes we buy the entire contents of houses and hit on real treasures," explains Mrs. Millikan, who has been a real estate operator for 30 years.

GOOD TASTE

They buy what is in good taste and salable, she says. When they buy in quantity, they often acquire some things that aren't old, and sell those in a special area.

The auction exhibit is set up in rooms in the Sunday school area, "so that people can visualize the way the objects fit into the home," she says. This year there are seven rooms for the auction. A dining room has an exceptional rare table — 70 inches long with two drop leaves, 22½ inches each. The entire table surface is made of three pieces of mahogany. In a bedroom there is a rare bachelor's chest and a 17th Century armoire. A young boy's room is fully equipped with Indian-red sumac stained pine, complete to bed and blanket chest, early 1700s. An exceptional pair of children's country Sheraton chairs of museum quality found by the Millikans in Massachusetts would be a credit to any auction gallery.

Among the 400 items to be auctioned are the usual things — porcelains, Chippendale mirrors, bedspreads, quilts, lamps, sconces, andirons, kettles, bed warmers.

15 REFINISHERS

The 15 refinishers work all year removing paint, sanding, waxing, shellacing and replacing hardware. Old brasses are brought in quantity, kept on tap for the purpose.

At the exhibit 80 hosts and hostesses station themselves in rooms equipped with documentation and any history available on pieces offered. All items are cataloged.

Some of the finest pieces offered in the past in Mrs. Millikan's opinion were a dower chest dated 1680 and shelves from Thomas Jefferson's home in Charlottesville. Two years ago a rare curly maple cardtable brought $500.

"People are more knowledgeable about antiques than they were years ago," explains Mrs. Millikan. "Good furniture is an investment and they are willing to buy things with large price tags."

Worshipers Go By Boat To Services

By BILL HUDSON

MONTICELLO, Ky. (AP) — The Rev. Delmar Rodgers sometimes finds his congregation in play clothes.

But, it's only natural because many of the worshipers come by boat.

Once a month, the young minister of the Monticello Christian church conducts a 30-minute Sunday evening service at nearby Lake Cumberland.

The Rev. Mr. Rodgers describes his waterside service as an effort to unite pleasure and Christianity. His pulpit generally is the deck of a boat.

"A lot of people in our congregation have boats. Rather than let the boats become a wedge between them and their faithfulness to the church, we have the service at the lake," the minister said.

GOOD USE

"Let's say its accommodating. Those with boats feel they're putting them to good use."

The service is sponsored by the young people of the church. It began last summer and attendance has averaged about 100 persons.

"We print up material and send it out to boat owners in the area. If it rains on the night of the service, they know to come out the next week," he said.

Dress is informal though the minister explains "We ask for some measure of dignity. The people definitely are on vacation. Some stay on their boats during the services."

There are boats of all descriptions, usually including five or six houseboats.

Rodgers has been in this south-central Kentucky town of 3,000 population for about one and one-half years. He came from Rockford, Ill. Previous pastorates were in large cities, including Chicago.

MUSIC, SERMON

His lakeside services are limited to 30 minutes of music and a brief sermon.

For music, "We use local talent and quartets such as we can find."

At one recent service, he dealt with precautions for boaters and the steps they must take to obey the law. Then the minister linked this message to obedience to the spiritual laws.

Rodgers said other congregations have been invited to attend the services. "We have a lot of community spirit, a different audience each time," he added.

The site of the service also is accessible by road and is near a popular spot called Conley Bottom.

"It's a good place for swimming and boating," Rodgers explained. "Folks have been congregating in that area for a long time. It's a natural place to go."

The playground-church site has acquired a nickname: Christian Point.

Rev. C. Ward Revival Speaker

The pastor of the First Baptist Church of Delhi, the Rev. Connie E. Ward, will be guest speaker at a revival starting Monday at the Grayson Baptist Church. The daily series of services will continue through Sunday, August 23.

Services will be held at 7 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. daily. The music director of the Grayson Church, Charles Pollard, will lead the singing and special music during the revival. A nursery will be open during services.

Annual Program Of Homecoming

The annual homecoming observance at Stone Avenue Methodist Church, 212 Stone Ave., will be held today.

Guest speaker at the 10:45 a.m. service will be the Rev. I. L. Yeager.

ANNUAL EVENT

Nazarenes Set District Meet

Pastors and members of the Church of the Nazarene in this area will take part in the annual Louisiana district assembly to be held at the Nazarene district center at Alexandria on Wednesday and Thursday, August 26-27.

Annual reports will be made by pastors of 56 churches in the district. These churches have a total of about 2,700 members and a Sunday school enrollment total of 4,500.

ANNUAL MESSAGE

The Rev. T. T. McCord, Pineville, will give his annual message as district superintendent, and will outline plans for the 1964-65 year. District officers will be elected.

The presiding general superintendent will be Dr. V. H. Lewis, of Kansas City, Mo., who was re-elected to a second 4-year term in June at the general assembly held in Portland, Ore.

The Church of the Nazarene stands for scriptural holiness in the Wesleyan tradition. It has a world membership of about 405,000 in more than 5,000 churches.

It maintains 525 missionaries in 44 countries. World offices are in Kansas City, Mo.

Churchman In Drive To Save Youth

ELISABETHVILLE, Congo (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest is waging a battle to save the youth of Elisabethville from delinquency.

Father Gerard Van Asperdt, 38, a former officer in the Dutch air force, also holds an architectural degree. He thought it worth an effort to try to save the thousands of youths who sleep in gutters and spend their waking hours in bars.

He started with only the blessing of the local father superior of the Salesian Order. He cleared some waste ground three miles out of town to build the home of his dreams — a City of Youth.

The local Lions Club donated $2,240 — and Father Van Asperdt has built a modest house for his own living quarters, a kitchen and a chapel.

The next phase of the project will cost $448,000 and Van Asperdt hopes to have it finished within two years. It will provide accommodation for 600 boarders and 900 day boys. Youths of from 15 to 25 are acceptable but, he added: "We shall take older boys if they are unable to find work."

Although he is a Catholic, Father Van Asperdt said "we shall help everybody who needs our help."

The project will comprise workshops, bakery and a technical school. Products will comprise workshops, a bakery and a technical school. Products will be sold in town to raise funds.

Van Asperdt's only assistant is a young Italian, Abbe Mario Marchioli, 20, from Abruzzi, who is studying for his theological degree at a Catholic college here.

Early every morning, a number of youths report to work on the project. Their only pay is a bowl of corn at lunchtime and a free ticket to the Sunday soccer match.

The priest has opened playing fields and is proud of his two pairs of boxing gloves. In his air force days he was a boxer and judo champion. This came in handy recently when bandits tried to steal his truck and car from the isolated house. Armed with a baseball bat he chased them off.

On another occasion a young tough came to incite other boys to boycott the mission. Father Van Asperdt challenged him to a few rounds. After three punches, the would-be delinquent put down his goves and became one of the father's pupils.

Father Van Asperdt dons his cassock — "I must look respectable" — to show visitors around his "recruting ground." These include flash-storm ditches, in which some of his boys had slept; a brothel, and finally an African bar, renowned for its rowdiness. "This is where my clients come from," he says laughingly.

The handsome priest with the graying hair speaks several languages. Coming from a Dutch family of builders, his first choice in life was architecture. He studied for two years under a Dutch architect, then decided to study for the priesthood.

"I learned English when I was a lieutenant in the Dutch air force attached to the RAF from 1944 to 1946," he said. At present, he finds Swahili more useful.

Revival Planned At Brownville

A revival starting Monday at Brownville Methodist Church, 1301 Alvin St., West Monroe, will continue through Friday, August 28, it was announced by the Rev. W. T. Hall Jr., pastor.

Services will be conducted daily at 7:30 p.m., with the Rev. A. M. Davenport, pastor from Honey Grove, Texas, as evangelist. A nursery will be open during all services.

OVERSEAS AID

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than $11 million worth of material aid provided by U. S. Protestant church people was shipped abroad between Jan. 1 and April 30 this year, Church World Service reports.

The shipments, consisting of food, medicines, clothing, blankets, agricultural and other self-help supplies, were distributed in three world areas — Europe and the Near East, Asia, and Latin America-the Caribbean. Church World Service is the relief and rehabilitation agency of the National Council of Churches.

ASSEMBLIES MISSION

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)— The three millionth dollar donated by Assemblies of God youth for missionary transportation was used to provide a car for the denomination's evangelistic thrust in Lebanon.

The Rev. and Mrs. David Matweyiw, who arrived in Lebanon recently, were given an automobile through Speed-the-Light, youth missionary project. The missionaries will survey the needs of Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon before establishing an evangelistic center in Beirut, Lebanon.

VISITORS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ten veteran African pastors have arrived in the United States for study at the Hartford Seminary Foundation, Hartford, Conn., under a program arranged jointly by the National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches.

"It is hoped that the African pastors will gain spiritual renewal, intellectual stimulus, and be trained in new methods of work," said Leonard Ching, director of the Ecumenical Scholarship Exchange of Church World Service, NCC. The pastors are Methodist, Presbyterian and Anglican and come from Uganda, Ghana, Cameroon, Nyasaland and Kenya.

HELP WITH CHAPEL

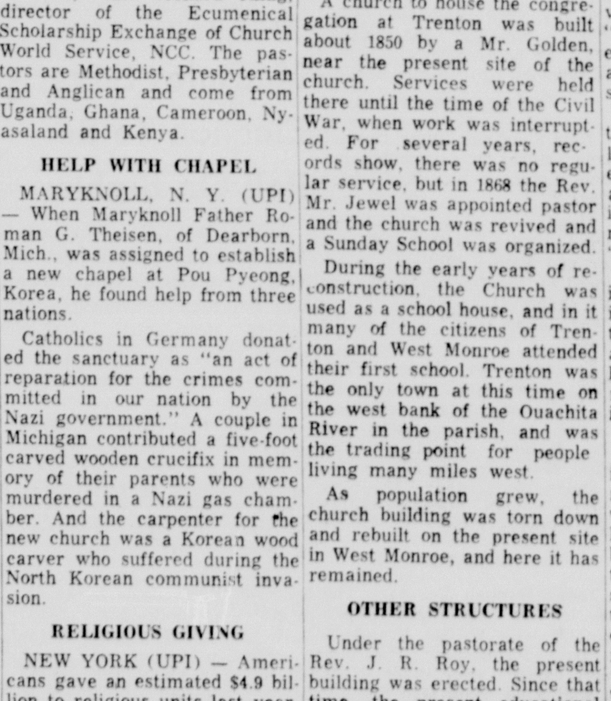

MARYKNOLL, N. Y. (UPI) — When Maryknoll Father Roman G. Theisen, of Dearborn, Mich., was assigned to establish a new chapel at Pou Pyeong, Korea, he found help from three nations.

Catholics in Germany donated the sanctuary as "an act of reparation for the crimes committed in our nation by the Nazi government." A couple in Michigan contributed a five-foot carved wooden crucifix in memory of their parents who were murdered in a Nazi gas chamber. And the carpenter for the new church was a Korean wood carver who suffered during the North Korean communist invasion.

RELIGIOUS GIVING

NEW YORK (UPI) — Americans gave an estimated $4.9 billion to religious units last year, the American Association for Fund Raising Counsel Inc. reports.

That is an increase of $272 million over the previous year's religious giving.

Church Growth Extensive In Membership, Facilities

By LOLA GRAFTON
Staff Writer

The West Monroe First Methodist Church began as part of the "Ouachita Circuit," which consisted of a number of Methodist Churches in this area in the early 1800's. Now, however, the church has grown to a membership of 869, and is housed in a large, spacious building erected in 1919-20, at 101 North 2nd St. Additional facilities have been built since then.

The history of the church begins with the purchase of the Louisiana Territory when the church at Trenton was on the same circuit as Prairie Jefferson, now known as Oak Ridge, and Bayou DeSiard. There was a vast cane swamp from Fort Miro, where Monroe now stands and it was the duty of Methodist ministers of the day to travel the area stopping at various churches to deliver sermons.

But following the days of "circuit riders," and after the area west of the Ouachita became Trenton in 1851, a Rev. William Finn was assigned to the Trenton Methodist Church. He began a long line of ministers to the church, the present being the Rev. Kenneth G. McDowell, who assumed duties here in June.

BUILDING ERECTED

A church to house the congregation at Trenton was built about 1850 by a Mr. Golden, near the present site of the church. Services were held there until the time of the Civil War, when work was interrupted. For several years, records show, there was no regular service, but in 1868 the Rev. Mr. Jewel was appointed pastor and the church was revived and a Sunday School was organized.

During the early years of reconstruction, the Church was used as a school house, and in it many of the citizens of Trenton and West Monroe attended their first school. Trenton was the only town at this time on the west bank of the Ouachita River in the parish, and was the trading point for people living many miles west.

As population grew, the church building was torn down and rebuilt on the present site in West Monroe, and here it has remained.

OTHER STRUCTURES

Under the pastorate of the Rev. J. R. Roy, the present building was erected. Since that time, the present educational building was erected in 1956, and a new parsonage was built at 310 Park Avenue. The additions were made during the service of the Rev. W. D. Milton.

The Rev. Earl B. Emmerich served the church from 1959 to June of this year. He was succeeded by Rev. McDowell. The present pastor is a native of Hugo, Okla., and received the Bachelor of Arts degree from Oklahoma City University. In 1944 he was awarded the Bachelor of Divinity degree from Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

He served as pastor at various churches in Louisiana since 1946, before coming to the West Monroe post.

Other church officials include Homer Cook, music director; Mrs. Tommy Spurlock, organist; Mrs. Jack Willis, pianist; Mrs. Bobbie Jones, church secretary and Mrs. Ross Golson, financial secretary.

Rev. and Mrs. McDowell reside in the First Methodist parsonage. They have four children, Kay 17, Adonna, 14, Phyllis, 13 and Paul, 10.

Kay is attending Northeast Louisiana State College this summer and plans to enroll as a freshman at Louisiana State University in the fall. Adonna is sophomore at West Monroe High School, Phyllis will enter West Monroe Junior High as an eighth-grader in September and Paul is in the fifth grade.

Aside from pastoral duties, Rev. McDowell reports that he enjoys fishing, golf, football and almost any sport. His son is playing little league baseball this summer in West Monroe.

WHO AM I?
What is man, that Thou are mindful of him? And the son of man that Thou visited him? — Psalms 8-4

"Who am I?" is essentially the question which was asked by the psalmist in the fourth verse of the eighth Psalm: "What is man . . .?" The writer must have had time to think about the issues of life. We are sometimes too busy to do so.

But the psalmist, out there in the wilderness where the brilliant firmament overhead seemed so close at hand, looking up at the glittering stars and thinking about how small he was beneath them, asked this question, "What is man?"

A number of interesting but insufficient answers are given in our time to this basic question. One of them is that man is a complicated machine, with a heart working over 600,000 hours making 4,320 strokes and pumping 15 gallons every hour.

ANOTHER ANSWER

Another contemporary answer is that man is a high grade animal. Anthropology connects man with his animal ancestry; sociology describes him in his herd behavior. Popular speech does the same thing. We say a person is lion-hearted or pigeon-toed; sly as a fox, busy as a bee or blind as a bat. Still another inadequate answer is that man is an economic puppet, pushed and pulled by economic forces. Fundamentally this is the answer given by Karl Marx in his materialistic philosophy of history.

INSUFFICIENCY

In all of these popular contemporary answers, there is assuredly truth, but also insufficiency. In every case they explain man in terms of something which is true about him, but less than the whole truth.

Beyond these partial truths, the psalmist answers his own question by saying, "Thou hast made him." He has consciousness and self - consciousness and conscience, because he is a creature of God, with a uniqueness of God's spiritual nature. Furthermore, according to the Bible, man is destined to have control. The psalmist not only asks, "What is man . . .?" and answers, "Thou has made him," but also writes, "Thou has given him dominion."

Man is expected to take a place in cooperation with God in control of things. First he must control himself, and then he must bring into control the rest of the world about him in line with the purpose of God.

Church Building Decline Is Seen

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The church building boom is slowing down.

A Commerce Department report last week forecast that expenditures for religious construction will drop below $1 billion this year for the first time since 1959.

The department anticipates that 1964 church construction will total about $950 million, down 6 per cent from last year.

The downturn can be attributed to several factors. Churches have been on an unprecedented building spree for the past 15 years, and have largely overcome the deficit in construction inherited from the depression 1930's and wartime '40's.

Also, churches aren't gaining new members at anything like the explosive rate that prevailed during the '50's.

Finally, the massive population shift from the cities to the suburbs seems to have slowed down. Some suburbanites are moving back into the city.

A priest-sociologist, Fr. Raymond H. Potvin of Catholic University, Washington, D. C., thinks it's time Catholics stopped "pinning medals on the parents with the most children."

Under a Ford Foundation grant, Fr. Potvin is conducting research to determine whether there is any validity to the charge that Catholic schools tend to foster a "fertility cult" among Catholic girls—persuading them that they have a moral obligation to bear as many children as possible.

Fr. Potvin believes that any such teaching overlooks the Catholic's responsibility to help maintain "a stable social order." With population growth causing pressure on schools and other civic facilities, he says, "maybe we should start applauding the heroism of those who limit their families for the sake of building a better society for all concerned."

Yanks Knock Down Orioles Behind Potent 11-Hit Attack

THE BALL appears to be ahead of the runner, but San Francisco outfielder Harvey Kuenn made it safely to third in this close play in the second inning Saturday in a game against Milwaukee. Third baseman Ed Matthews was off the bag as he took the throw from centerfield after San Francisco's Hal Lanier singled to score Jose Pagan. Umpire is Al Foreman. Kuenn also scored later in the inning.

Snider Hits Giants Past Braves, 8-7

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Duke Snider's pinch-single in the eighth inning brought in the winning run Saturday as San Francisco edged Milwaukee 8-7 after blowing a six-run lead.

The victory kept the Giants four games behind the National League leading Philadelphia Phillies, who defeated the New York Mets 8-1.

Snider's single, a soft liner to center, followed a 410-foot triple by Jim Hart that greeted Bob Sadowski, the fourth Milwaukee pitcher.

The Braves had erased a six-run Giant lead and moved ahead 7-6 on two-run homers by Eddie Matthews and Henry Aaron in a five-run fourth inning.

Both homers came off Jim Duffalo, who relieved starter Ron Herbel in the fourth with two on, none out and the Giants leading 6-2.

A run scored on two long outfield fly outs. Then Mathews hit his 17th homer and Aaron's 21st homer, following a bunt single by Ty Cline, put the Braves in the lead.

Infielder Felix Mantilla Bombs White Sox 5-2

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox turned on Chicago Saturday and rode Felix Mantilla's three-run homer to a 5-2 victory over the pennant-hopeful White Sox.

Despite the loss, only their fourth in 17 games against the Red Sox, the White Sox remained three games back of American League leading Baltimore. The Orioles lost to the New York Yankees 8-1.

The Red Sox, losers of 12 of their last 13 games, landed on rookie Fred Talbot for four runs in the second inning.

Two singles, a walk, a force and Russ Nixon's sacrifice fly preceded Mantilla's smash into the left field screen, his 20th homer and second in as many games off White Sox pitching.

Mantilla, the veteran utilityman of six positions currently operating at second base, also had a double and single and scored twice. He was thrown out at second trying to stretch a hit off the wall in the first inning but responded with the big homer his next trip.

Right-hander Dave Morehead conquered early wildness for his seventh victory, although he needed late relief help from Dick Radatz.

FLORIDA WINS, 4-1

West Monroe 9 Out Of Tourney

KILGORE, Texas (Special) — Florida scored four unearned runs after two were out in the top of the sixth and came from behind to eliminate West Monroe from the second annual Dixie Senior World Series, 4-1, here Saturday.

Ray Alexander, losing West Monroe pitcher, got the first two Florida men out on routine fly balls in the top of the sixth. Then Jerry Schmidt lofted a fly to center that was misjudged, with Schmidt landing on third with a triple.

West Monroe fell apart after that. Kenny Toole hit an easy fly to right that was dropped, scoring the tying run. On the throw to the plate, Toole took second. Jim Wright singled in Toole with what proved to be the winning run. Florida went on to score two more in the inning.

Jerry Allen pitched a fine game for the Florida nine in receiving the win. In seven innings, he allowed only one run, three hits, walked two and fanned four. Alexander gave up six hits, walked none, and whiffed seven.

West Monroe scored first in the bottom of the fifth. Johnny Williams singled to start the inning. He went to third on Larry Pankey's single, and stole home when a pick off play to first was unsuccessful.

In other play, once-beaten Mississippi downed host Kilgore, 7-3, and reached the finals with Florida.

Claude Osteen Throws, Bats Solons To Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pitcher Claude Osteen slammed a homer and double and posted his 12th victory as the Washington Senators defeated the Los Angeles Angels 6-2 Saturday.

Osteen, who needed Ron Kline's relief help in the eighth inning, tied the team's victory high in the four years since American League expansion by bringing his record to 12-8. Bennie Daniels won 12 games for the Senators in 1961.

Osteen doubled and scored the Senators first run in the third inning and hit a homer off loser Ken McBridge leading off the fifth. Ed Brinkman's second home in two days, with a man on, gave the Senators two more runs in the sixth.

Osteen was replaced by Kline in a bases-loaded situation in the eighth inning. One run scored on an infield out, but Kline fanned Joe Adcock to end the inning.

SEEK MORE GLORY

NEW YORK (AP) — The Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia, already having won the Olympic eights berth, and single sculler Don Spero of the New York Athletic Club, who will also represent the U.S. at Tokyo, will try to add more laurels in the 90th National Rowing Championships, which got under way today at Orchard Beach Lagoon.

A record number of 510 oarsmen are entered in the three day title meet, in which 18 events are scheduled. Thirty colleges and clubs have entered 49 crews, including Harvard, which was beaten by Vesper in the Olympic final over the same 2,000-meter course July 11.

Twenty-five heats are scheduled for today.

Myrtle Grove downed Mississippi, 6-1, and won the Dixie Senior World Series here Saturday night.

Butch Kendrick was the winning pitcher with Danny Ray Clifton the losers.

McLain Pitches Tigers To Win

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Rookie right - hander Dennis McLain, backed by a three-run first inning uprising, checked Kansas City on three hits Saturday night in the Detroit Tigers' 5-1 victory over the Athletics.

McLain gave up a lead-off home run to Rocky Colavito in the second inning and then blanked the A's on two singles enroute to his third victory in six decisions.

The Tigers added a pair of unearned runs in the seventh on Don Wert's double, a walk, an error by reliever Ken Sanders, a wild pitch and Kaline's sacrifice fly.

Bob Aspromonte Leads Houston Over Cincinnati

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Aspromonte drove in four runs with four singles and right-hander Don Nottebart posted his third straight victory as the Houston Colts defeated the Cincinnati Reds 7-4 Saturday night.

Nottebart, 6-8, checked the Reds on six hits until Vada Pinson hit his second home run of the game, a two-run wallop in the eighth that cut the Colts' lead to 5-4. Hal Woodeshick relieved Nottebart and stopped the Reds the rest of the way.

Aspromonte's second run-scoring hit broke a 2-2 deadlock in the fifth. The Colts scored two more runs in the seventh against loser John Tsitouris, 7-10, and Ryne Duren, and two more in the eighth. Aspromonte drove in a run in each inning and singles by Bob Lillis and Joe Gaines delivered the other two.

The Colts scored single runs in the second and third innings off starter Joe Nuxhall. Jerry Grote singled home Carroll Hardy in the second and Aspromonte's first hit drove in Al Spangler in the third.

The Reds tied it in the fourth. Pinson led off with his 16th homer. Frank Robinson followed with a single and eventually scored on Johnny Edwards' sacrifice fly.

Amateurs Get Shutout Win Over Seniors

The Amateur League All-Stars exploded for three runs in the fourth inning, added two more in the fifth and got one-hit pitching from three hurlers to defeat the Dixie Seniors All-Stars, 5-0, Saturday night in a rain-shortened game at Legion Stadium.

The Amateurs were threatening again in the top of the sixth when the rains came. Charley Dykes doubled with two men down and Mickey Yerger walked when the game had to be called.

Gerald Griggs, Terry Reeves and Ronnie May pitched superbly for the Amateur Stars with a first inning triple by second baseman Wally Rugg being the only Dixie Senior hit.

Rugg connected against Griggs with one out but the swift right-hander promptly retired the side.

In the Amateur's three-run third, Dykes led off with his first double of the night and scored on a two-base hit by Skeeter Ritter.

After James Cromwell walked, Ritter advanced to third on a passed ball and when Cromwell stole second Ritter came home on the throw to second. Cromwell scored on a fielder's choice by Ike McMullen.

In the fifth, Yerger and Cromwell got back-to-back singles and both scored on Bill Duncan's single.

Dykes was the only player to get two hits. The Amateur club picked up eight safties off Johnny Elmendorf and Kenny Cupples. Elmendorf was the loser.

The three Amateur hurlers got seven strike outs between them in their five innings of duty with Griggs setting down three on strikes and Reeves and May two each.

2nd Tilt Set

Amateur League general manager Saul Adler has announced that another contest between the Dixie Seniors and the Amateur club will be played this Monday night, Aug. 17, because of numerous request.

"Our crowd tonight was not what it would have been had we had good weather," Adler said shortly after Saturday's contest. "Many people came by and asked that we schedule another game as soon as possible so we have done so.

"We appreciate very much the support given this project and are enthused with the results already. We feel that people want to see good baseball and we expect a good turn out Monday night."

The contest will start at 7:30 p.m. and will again be played at Legion Stadium.

Chicago Defeats Redskins, 14-13

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Chicago Bears capitalized on Washington fumbles for two touchdowns Saturday night and downed the Redskins 14-13 in a National Football League exhibition game before 23,611 fans at City Stadium.

Bob Kilcullen's recovery of a fumble by Redskin quarterback George Izo on the Washington 19 set up the Bears for their first touchdown in the second period. Ron Bull's two-yard run was the payoff.

In the third quarter, Washington's Tommy Neck fumbled a punt and Larry Glueck recovered for the NFL champion Bears on the Redskin 27. Chicago needed 10 plays and a pass interference call, which put the ball on the Washington one, before Joe Marconi scored.

A 25-yard field goal by rookie John Seedborg in the second period and a 22-yard field goal by Bob Khayat in the same quarter gave Washington all its first-half points.

The Redskins threatened throughout the last period, and scored their only touchdown on a 72-yard drive. Izo's short screen pass to Dave Francis and his 38-yarder to Joe Fernandez to the Bear 26 set up the TD. Tom Tracy's running brought the ball to the one and then Izo went over.

The Redskins had a chance to win in the final 47 seconds but Seedborg's field goal try from the 41 was wide.

Hornung Leads Win

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay's Paul Hornung enjoyed a triumphant return home after a year's absence as the Packers wore down the New York Giants for a 34-10 National Football League exhibition victory Saturday night.

Hornung, who sat out the 1963 campaign under suspension, flashed his old time scoring form, piling up 10 points, and tossed a 56-yard touchdown pass on the halfack option before a packed crowd of 42,327.

Given a tremendous welcome by Green Bay fans, Hornung booted field goals from 17 and 30 yards out and added four conversions. Although unable to score a touchdown himself he hit Boyd Dowler midway through the final period for a TD.

The Packers, playing without ailing fullback Jimmy Taylor, could manage only a 3-3 standoff with the injury-ridden Giants in the first half.

Chargers Take Win

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Fullback Keith Kinderman rammed three yards for a touchdown with 1:12 left Saturday night to bring San Diego Chargers from behind for a 44-38 victory over Houston in an American Football League exhibition game here.

Houston led 38-37 before Kinderman's run. The touchdown climaxed a 62-yard drive that began when San Diego end Earl Faison recovered a Houston fumble on the Charger 38.

The wild game was highlighted by a 104-yard touchdown run on the second half kickoff by the Oiler's Sid Blanks. The run put Houston back in the game after the Oilers were down 30-17 at the half.

San Diego quarterback John Hadl passed for three touchdowns in the first half and rolled up 192 yards in the air with 12 completions out of 18 passes.

Vikings Down Cards

ATLANTA (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings combined a vicious, blitzing defense with the fine passing of quarterback Fran Tarkenton Saturday night defeating the St. Louis Cardinals 24-10 in a National Football League exhibition.

Tarkenton, who was shaken up badly and sent out of the game midway through the third quarter, came off the bench with just 3½ minutes to go and engineered the Vikings to two quick touchdowns.

When Tarkenton returned to the line-up, the Vikings had the ball on the St. Louis 33. On the second play from scrimmage in that series, Tarkenton outran the charging St. Louis line and hit Phil Brown with a pass on the St. Louis 11.

Three plays later, he connected with end Paul Flatley with what proved to be the winning touchdown.

St. Louis, which had been unable to do anything against the aggressive Minnesota line in the first half, got rolling behind reserve quarterback Buddy Humphrey after intermission.

The Cardinals recovered a fumbled punt on the Viking 19-yard line to set up the tying touchd

Pittsburgh Defeats Chicago, 5-4

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Bailey raced home from third on Donn Clendenon's infield single in the ninth inning, bringing the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Bailey singled to open the ninth, moved to second on a single by Manny Mota and, two outs later, advanced to third on a wild pitch by reliever Lindy McDaniel.

Clendenon then hit a grounder into the shortstop hole. Andre Rodgers grabbed the ball and threw to third in an attempt to get Mota before Bailey crossed the plate. Mota, however, was safe and Bailey scored the clincher.

A battle of homers preceded the decisive rally.

Billy Williams and Billy Cowan each hit two-run homers in a four-run fourth inning that put the Cubs ahead 4-3. But the Pirates tied it in the fifth, chasing Dick Ellsworth when singles by Roberto Clemente and Jerry Lynch and a sacrifice fly by Clendenon produced a run.

The Pirates had pulled ahead 2-0 in the first inning on homers by Bailey and Clemente, then added another run in the third on two walks sandwiched around a double by Mota and a sacrifice fly by Luncy.

GET 2ND TRIPLE PLAY

Phillies Trounce Mets Again, 8-1

NEW YORK (AP) — The National League leading Philadelphia Phillies scored six runs in the first inning after New York made two errors on one play, then pulled off a triple play in the second inning and romped to an 8-1 victory over the Mets Saturday night.

The victory kept the Phillies' lead at four games over the San Francisco Giants.

At the same time, the Mets became the first team eliminated from pennant contention and accomplished that two days earlier than last year. The Mets have lost 82 games and cannot finish at .500 or above.

The Phillies put the game out of reach before New York came to bat. Tony Gonzalez led off with a single and Richie Allen beat out a bunt. One out later, Mets' starter Jack Fisher walked Wes Covington, filling the bases.

Clay Dalrymple then lined to second baseman Ron Hunt, who attempted to double Covington off first for the final out of the inning, but threw wildly. First baseman Ed Kranepool retrieved the errant peg and fired one of his own past catcher Chris Cannizzaro.

Minnesota Raps Indians 9-3 On Stigman's Arm

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Catcher Jerry Zimmerman drove in four runs with a single and double, leading the Minnesota Twins to a 9-3 victory over Cleveland Saturday.

The Twins put it out of reach quickly, bombarding rookie Luis Tiant for five runs in the first two innings, and then held on behind Dick Stigman.

Stigman survived a three-run first and shut out the Indians the rest of the way, bringing his record to 6-11 with his first victory since July 3.

The Indians combined three singles and two errors, one by Stigman, for their three runs in the first.

COMIN' UP AFIELD

Duck Season May Be Fair

With Sam Hanna

Frameworks To Come

Louisiana should get a duck season comparable to last year's with a possibility of a slight improvement. This is the opinion of Richard Yancey, assistant director of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, who just got back from Washington, D.C. where he discussed the upcoming waterfowl season with federal authorities.

Dick was in Washington as chairman of the Mississippi Flyway Council, presenting the council's recommendations for a 40-day season with a 4-duck bag limit.

"We may come out with something pretty close to that," he said on the telephone after returning to New Orleans. "It definitely looks like we won't get anything less than what we got last year."

Last year the season was 35 days with a 4-duck bag limit, or quite an improvement over 1962 when it ran 25 days with a 2-duck limit and 1961 when it was only 19 days with a 2-duck limit.

In privacy the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service had recommendations for the upcoming season, Dick said, but he explained that the contents of the meeting were on an off-the-record basis.

This means that the federal service will take the recommendations of the various flyway councils, match them with those of the service, then hand down the frameworks.

If everything goes according to schedule, the fireworks will be announced this Wednesday, August 19th.

An important recommendation made by the Mississippi Flyway Council — and especially important to this area — was that the closure of the duck season should be set at January 15th.

This doesn't mean that the council wants the season to close in each state on January 15th, but it does mean that each state be given the opportunity to close on January 15th if they so desire.

The council also recommended that the government delete the 10 per cent penalty on the number of days in the duck season if a state elects a split season.

These recommendations could very well be the biggest break Louisiana could get, especially in view of the different wishes expressed by duck hunters of the state.

South Louisiana likes an early season, but North Louisiana is penalized by an early season. We have more ducks here when the season has closed than we do when it is opened.

Northeast Louisiana would be better off if the season closed January 15th.

From the reports that have been complied about the waterfowl production in Canada, Yancey said he expects the flights to be about the same this year in the Mississippi Flyway.

But Dick says the mallard population continues to drop because of the habital in Canada. Other species are up, he explained. Last January, the Mississippi Flyway had 4½-million mallards, or considerably less than during the 1950's.

And this is what will get you. Last January there were 10.8 million ducks i nthe Mississippi Flyway — about 3 million more than in the Pacific Flyway where the season ran for 75 days.

Penalizing the Mississippi Flyway is not the answer to the waterfowl problems. Let's see what the framework will be like this Wednesday.

Gun Clinic Scheduled

With the dove season just around the corner, opening September 5th, and the squirrel season to follow soon thereafter on October 3rd, outdoor interest will be picking up.

This means a world of people will be handling guns. And in the group will be a lot of youngsters — some who have never handled a gun.

With this in mind, the Monroe Optimist Club has scheduled its Third Annual Gun Safety Clinic at the Bancroft Camp outside West Monroe on the weekend prior to the opening of the squirrel season.

The gun safety clinic will be held September 26th with a morning and afternoon session.

For two years now the Optimist Club has sponsored this event, attracting about 350 youngsters to each clinic. If you have never taken your boy or girl to the clinic, you should, because it's well worth seeing.

For instance, besides the instruction on the safe methods of handling firearms (instruction by personnel of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission), the clinic features exhibitions and demonstrations by representatives of Winchester-Western, skeet and trap shooting by the Pine Hills Gun Club and as an added attraction this year Kit Beecher, the Monroe zoo director, will present a talk and demonstration on poisonous and non-poisonous snakes.

There'll be two sessions — 9:30 a.m. until noon, and 2-4:30 p.m., with Sheriff Bailey Grant again serving as clinic master.

If you want your boy or girl to really know the score about guns, be there. It won't cost anything.

Russell Sage Plans

Joe Herring, chief of the fish and game division for Louisiana, was in Monroe a few days ago where he explained to us that the waterfowl program on the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area would take two to three years to complete.

If you'll recall, the commission is building a 400-acre impoundment on Russell Sage to serve as a rest area for waterfowl. This, the commission hopes, will be finished by the duck season.

But it'll take two or three years to complete two other impoundments where hunting will be permitted. Each of the impoundments will include about 900 acres.

And from the impoundments, the commission plans to flood the greentree areas for duck hunting. All in all, the flooding for waterfowl will take almost half the Russell Sage area.

Joe says the greentree areas wil be flooded only during the winter months. He also pointed out that if the greentree areas fail to attrack ducks, the flooding program can be discontinued.

Joe also noted that more than half the area will be left for deer hunters, squirrel hunters and turkey hunters.

It's a flexible program, meaning that the waterfowl areas will not be permanent, except for the impoundments.

While the deer hunters and small game hurter has much more opportunity than the duck hunter, it should not be forgotten that the wooded lands of our area are being cleared up.

Even around Russell Sage, the bulldozers are at work. We fear that in time to come the game hunters will be scratching as hard as the duck hunters for a place to hunt.

Of course, the hunters should not be separated into groups, because many sportsmen go in for it all.

Russell Sage is not big enough to meet all the outdoor demands of this area.

Little Man's Corner

The weather changed and the little men had trouble making news afield.

At Black Bayou, S. E. Truitt of Monroe had a big string of catfish while Robert Greenlee of Monroe landed some nice bass, including four and five pounders.

Out at Cheniere Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lee caught 19 bass while John Henry Clark caught 60 bream. Nick Camp, on two different trips, caught 59 and 61. Miller Christie caught 40.

Joe Hair, the new wildlife director who grew up in Winnsboro, has been elected a vice-president of the North American Conservation Hall of Fame and Museum.

Conceived by Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag of Minnesota, the Hall of Fame will honor those individuals who have made "great and lasting contributions" to conservation in Canada, Mexico and the United States.

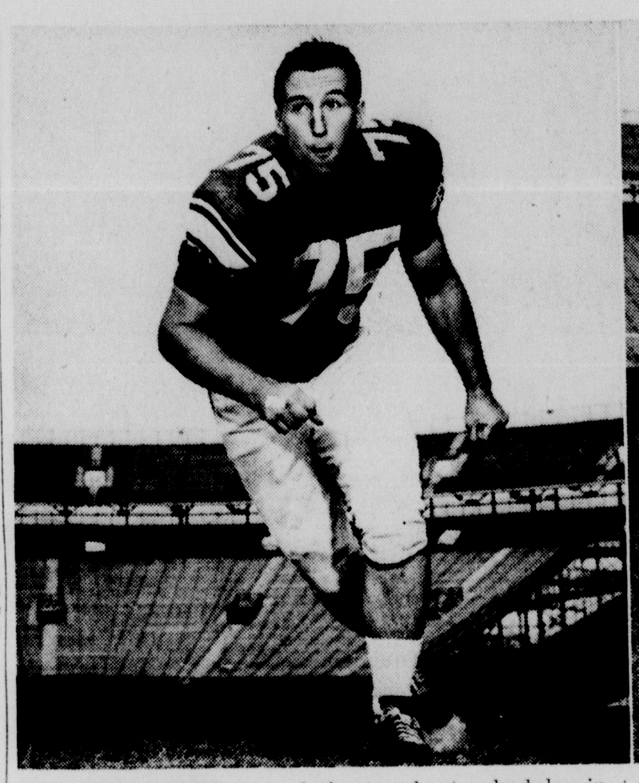

From Jonesboro, W. H. Carter caught the limit of bass in Old River Lake near Ferriday. He was using the purple worm. Charley and Dave Herring of Rosefield got the limit of bass in Lake St. John, also on the purple worm.

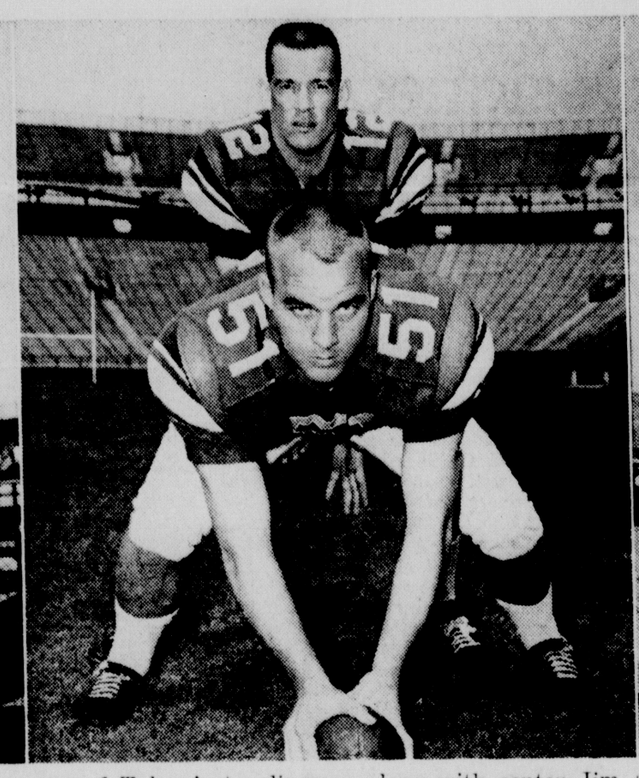

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Irvin of Rayville landed the limit of bream on large red worms in Lake Concordia while Mrs. Gertrude Johnson and Mrs. Clara Reynolds of Swartz got the limit of bream also.

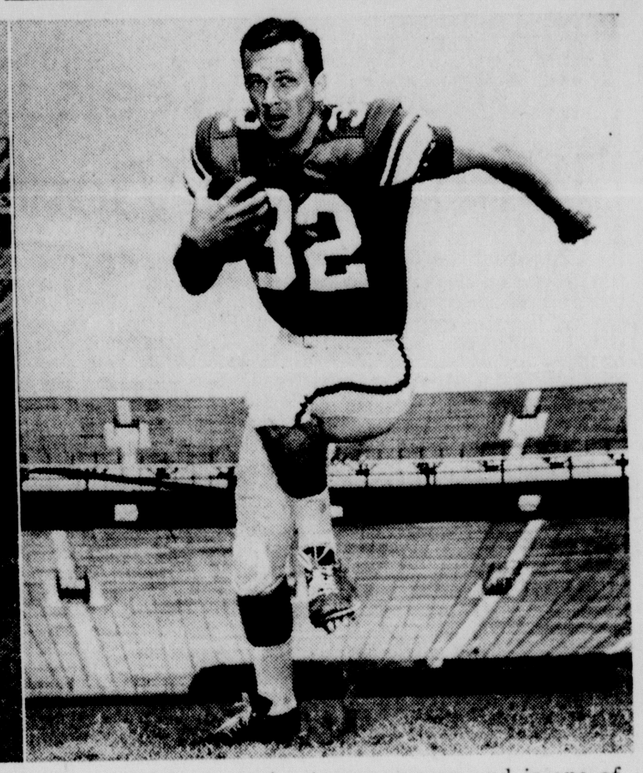

At Deer Park, Percy May of Vidalia caught the limit of bass while Al and Bill Strickland of Vidalia got the limit too. Sam Bianca of Vidalia got the limit of bass in Lake Concordia.

Be glad when the dove season opens.

Finally, the fishing at D'Arbonne Lake continues to be good. Barfish hitting the Bayou Boogie, Sonics and Swimming Minnow. Bass hitting too.

TULANE FACES one of the toughest schedules in the nation this fall and although hopes are not high in the Green Wave camp things are not all bleak. One reason for optimism is the appearance of sophomore tackle Bill Brown (left) on the scene. Brown, a Byrd of Shreveport graduate, is expected to be one of Tulane's top linemen along with center Jim Besselman, shown with junior quarterback David East (center photo). Besselman is a two-year letterman and East, who handled all of Tulane's punting last year, is expected to be the starting quarterback. At right is halfback Jerry Graves of Palestine, Tex. Graves is also a senior two-year man and is one of the Southeast Conference's top punt return men. Tulane mentor Frank O'Broyle said that he is looking forward to the upcoming campaign because "we are going to be an improved football team."

ANOTHER LEAN YEAR

Tulane Green Wave Better, But Schedule Is Too Tough

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

This is another in a series of preview articles on the football prospects of Louisiana college football teams.

"Mommy, can I go out and play with the big boys," the four-year-old tot asked his mother. She quickly replied, "Not yet, son, you must wait until you grow bigger and stronger."

And then there was the case of Tulane University.

To football fans throughout Louisiana the parallel here shows through immediately. Tulane has not had a winning football season since 1956, when it was 6-4, and the outlook for the upcoming campaign does not present the Greenies with much to laugh about either.

One of the principal reasons Tulane has failed to come up with a winning record recently, aside from administrative problems, is the schedule it plays. No team in the South plays a tougher schedule and it's doubted if anybody in the country does.

For example, five of Tulane's 1964 opponents played in bowl games last season. They are Texas in the Cotton, Alabama in the Sugar, Mississippi State in the Liberty, Ole Miss in the Sugar and LSU in the Bluebonnet.

Where and when does this great torture end?

There is at least one man in New Orleans who believes the tide began to turn last fall, and, by reviewing the season, it looks like he may have a point.

Head Coach Tommy O'Boyle was pleased with the progress his club made. He said, "We didn't set the world afire, victory-wise, but we were an improved football team. I was really proud of last year's team. The boys were tough mentally and played some inspired defense. We didn't have the size, speed or depth to stay with the calibre teams we were playing, but things are going to get better."

To get the idea of why O'Boyle was proud of his 1963 team, take a look at a few statements taken out of content in a report on the 1-8-1 season: (1) Eventual national champion Texas led only 6-0 on two field goals after three quarters. (2) Tulane held Miami's George Mira to the lowest offensive output of his college career. (3) Tulane led Georgia Tech 3-0 at halftime.

It's no wonder O'Boyle was proud of this club. And with seven starters and 27 lettermen returning from last year's team there is reason to think "things are going to get better."

When discussing the major problems for 1964 O'Boyle mentioned "inexperience at end, tackle and quarterback."

Naturally when ends are discussed at Tulane the name Clem Dellenger pops up. He was a great one for the Greenies and will be hard to replace but there are two lettermen returning on the left side, Bob Genenz and Tom O'Boyle, Jr. Each logged plenty of playing time last fall and should be capable receivers along with Ron Krajewski and Jim Saxon, lettermen who will hold down the right end posts. Krajewski was a starter in 1963.

Although experience is lacking at tackle, Tulane followers are easy to coax into a conversation about one newcomer, sophomore Bill Brown of Shreveport. He is expected to be Tulane's next great lineman and has muscled his way into a starting berth, beating out returning starter Mike Vise. Conrad Meyer will hold down the left tackle slot.

Converted tackle Jay Crosby was switched to guard during the spring drills and responded well enough to earn a starting position on the right side of the line. He'll be backed up by another letterman, Bill Zimmerman, while Leon Verriere gets the nod at left guard.

Center should be one of the strongest positions on the club with three lettermen available, led by captain Jim Besselman of St. Rose, La. The senior star will be backed up by Dick Steigerwald and Bill Goss.

The loss of veteran quarterback Al Burguieres will be hard to make up in a year's time but junior David East, who does all the Tulane punting, was outstanding during the spring and seems ready to take over. The Carthage, Tex. product was passing well and averaged 60 yards on two punts in the intrasquad game.

A Baton Rouge sophomore Mac Brousseau and another Texan, John Gibbons of Gladewater will relieve East when the occasion arises.

At halfbacks, traditionally a strong position for Tulane, both sides will be anchored by two lettermen. On the left side, Carl Crowder and Ron Chapoton will alternate while Jim Davis and Jerry Graves will take care of things at right half.

Returning starter George Smith of Leesville will receive plenty of help at the fullback slot where George Cortez and Ed Fitzgerald, both lettermen, will be available.

The immediate future still looks dim for Tulane but if the Green Wave can come up with some standout quarterbacking they will definitely surprise some folks.

One thing is for sure, we would like to see ANY team in the country switch schedules with Tulane and finish the season undefeated. That would easily rate a national championship.

TULANE AT A GLANCE

1964 SCHEDULE	LAST YEAR'S RESULTS
Sept. 19 Texas at Austin	Texas 21, Tulane 0
Sept. 26 Alabama at Mobile	Alabama 28, Tulane 0
Oct. 3 Duke at New Orleans	Miami 10, Tulane 0
Oct. 10 Miss. State at Starkville	Miss. State 31, Tulane 10
Oct. 17 Ole Miss at New Orleans	Ole Miss 21, Tulane 0
Oct. 24 Georgia Tech at Atlanta	Georgia Tech 17, Tulane 3
Oct. 31 VMI at New Orleans	Tulane 20, South Carolina 7
Nov. 6 Miami at Miami	Tennessee 26, Tulane 0
Nov. 14 Vanderbilt at Nashville	Tulane 10, Vanderbilt 10
Nov. 21 LSU at New Orleans	LSU 20, Tulane 0

LETTERMEN RETURNING: 27 (5 ends, 3 tackles, 6 guards, 3 centers, 2 quarterbacks, 4 halfbacks, 4 fullbacks)
LETTERMEN LOST: 9 (2 ends, 1 tackle, 1 guard, 3 quarterbacks, 1 halfback, 1 fullback)
ALL-SEC CANDIDATES: center Jim Besselman, tackle Jim Brown, halfback Jerry Graves.
IN A NUTSHELL: Because of a tremendously tough schedule, 1964 looks like another lean year for the Greenies. However, if quarterbacking comes through and sophomores fill some gaps Tulane will surprise some people. Depth seems to be major problem. Center is strong point.

TWO STORIES

House Of Week Designed With Wife's Views In Mind

By ANDY LANG

One of the encouraging housing trends of recent years has been the increasing recognition given by architects and builders to the opinions of women.

Somewhere along the line, it was discovered belatedly that it's the women who spend more time in the home than any one else in the family and that they have a pretty good idea of what's needed there. More and more features suggested by the ladies at homemaker's conferences, national and regional, are being incorporated in houses throughout the country.

Architect Herman York has attended many of these conferences, in some cases in an official capacity. He decided to design a house incorporating a large number of the items the women have said they want in their homes. Design H-44, the latest in the House of the Week series, is the result. It's a four-bedroom, two-story house of traditional design, using an exterior of stone and wood shingle sidewalls. Wide roof overhangs not only add to the overall length of the house but reduce maintenance costs due to the protection of the sidewalls from the weather.

This departure from traditional detail is one of the features which distinguish a traditional house built today from those erected 200 years ago. An immediate appearance of freshness is created without sacrificing the character of Early American domestic architecture.

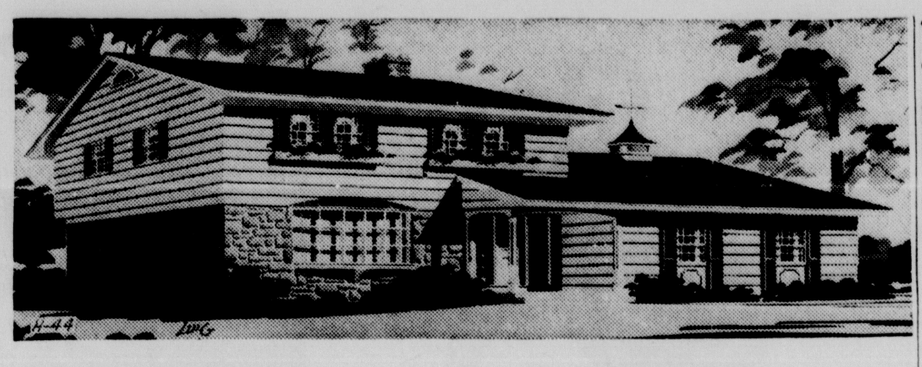

A close examination of the floor plans discloses the many interior features women want in their homes. They include such things as a large pantry near the kitchen, a mud closet near the back door, a lavatory for children near the kitchen and garage, a generous foyer with a large coat closet, a covered front entrance portico, lots of closets and plenty of storage space, a separate dining room and a linen chute from the upper bedroom area. These are in addition to such basics as good traffic circulation, ample wall space, cross ventilation where possible and ready access to the rear patio for family cookouts.

Design H-44 has all of these and many more. There are 1219 square feet of habitable area on the first floor, with the living room and its attractive bay window at the front of the house, directly to the left of the foyer. The dining room adjoins both the kitchen and the living room and has double windows at the rear. There is also plenty of eating space in the kitchen with a bay window overlooking the outside. The large family room has a fireplace and sliding glass doors leading to the terrace. A strategically located door makes it possible to go directly to the family room from the two-car garage. If the plot is large enough to allow a curved driveway, the garage doors can be placed at the side; if not, at the front. Architect York's plans permit either location.

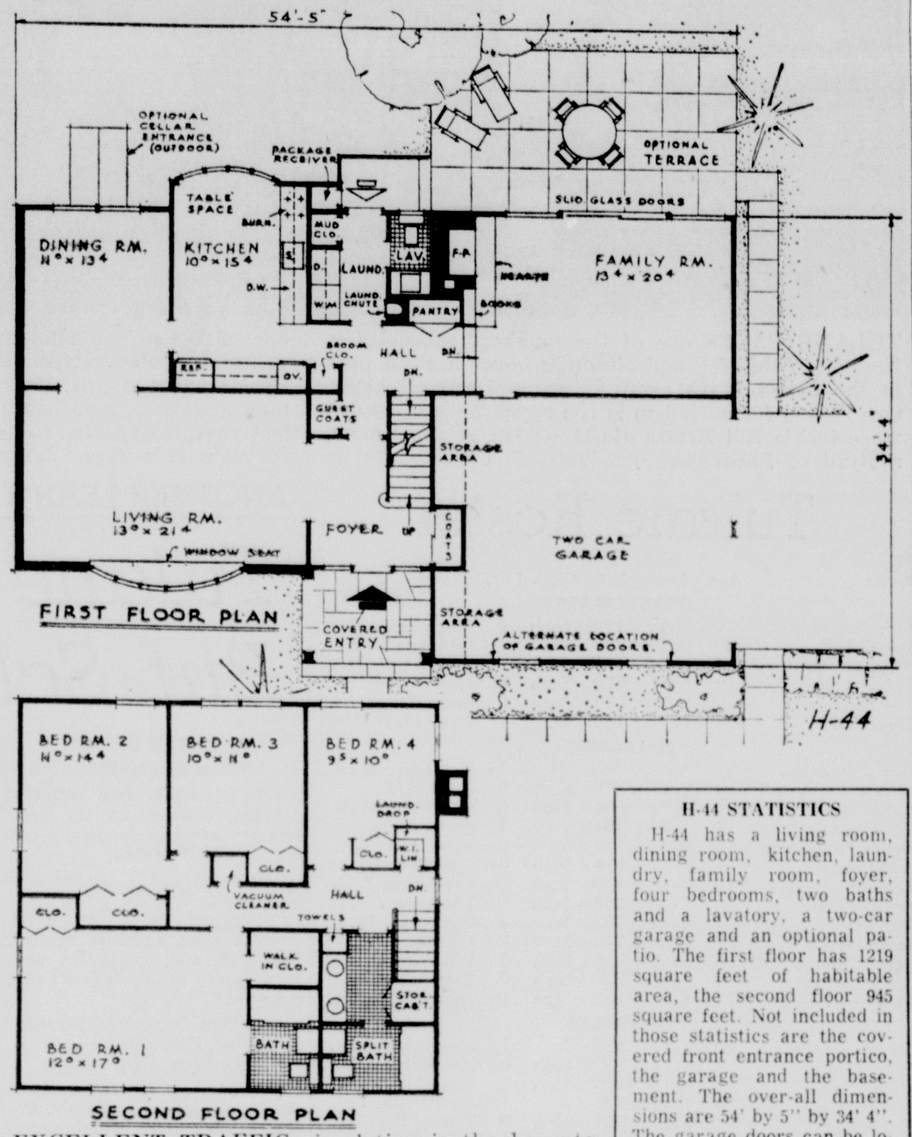

All four bedrooms are on the second floor. There is one bathroom in the main bedroom another outside. This second one is extra special, being 12 feet in length and having a special door arrangement so that more than one person might utilize the room if necessary. The amount of closet space is the answer to a housewife's dream. There are five closets in the bedrooms, another for linens and another for the vacuum cleaner and miscellaneous equipment, in addition to storage cabinet space in the bathrooms.

This is a house with detail beyond the minimum. It includes not only the items women want in a house, but those which reflect the business success of the owner.

A full study of this architect - designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H-44.

BASIC FEATURES of Early American architecture are retained in this four-bedroom, two-story house, which has been given a fresh character by modern design touches and materials.

EXCELLENT TRAFFIC circulation is the keynote of this traditional house, notable also for the large amount of closet and storage space.

H-44 STATISTICS

H-44 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, laundry, family room, foyer, four bedrooms, two baths and a lavatory, a two-car garage and an optional patio. The first floor has 1219 square feet of habitable area, the second floor 945 square feet. Not included in those statistics are the covered front entrance portico, the garage and the basement. The over-all dimensions are 54' by 5" by 34' 4". The garage doors can be located at the side or the front.

Man Is Feared To Have Died In Mississippi

NATCHEZ (Special) — An employe of the Natchez Boat Store is feared to have drowned about 12:15 p.m. Saturday after delivering supplies to a barge in the Mississippi River, according to Natchez police.

Roland Slover supposedly slipped and fell into the River while going from a towboat to a barge. The boat company takes supplies to boats on the river and services them.

Dragging operations have been going on since he reportedly fell. No body has been found. The Emergency Squad of the Natchez Fire Department dragged through the night. However, the section of the river in which Slover allegedly fell into is 60 feet deep and very rocky, hindering dragging.

He is married to the former Mary Gatewood (Gay) Lambert whose father, James Lambert is editor and publisher of the Natchez Democrat. She was Queen of the Natchez Pilgrimage several years ago.

Slover, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vasal Slover of Natchez, is the father of two children.

A life - long resident of Natchez, he was a first lieutenant in the Mississippi National Guard, Howitzer Co., 155th Infantry Division. He was a graduate of Natchez High School.

Homebuilders, Realtors Meet

The Real Estate Board of Monroe-West Monroe and the local Homebuilders Association will meet together at 7 p. m. Wednesday at the Paragon Club to hear a talk by a Federal Housing Administration representative.

"Loan Processing and Credit Reports" will be his topic.

The Society of Real Estate Appraisers is sponsoring a course in residential appraising starting Sept. 21. Classes will be held in room 100, Stubbs Hall at Northeast State College.

Cost of the course is $50.

Deep South Rodeo Ends 3-Day Stand

WINNSBORO (Special) — In the queen's contest, Laverne Fletcher, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fletcher of Winnsboro, was named Rodeo Queen as the Deep South wound up its three-day stand here Saturday night. She represented the Franklin Parish Riding Club.

Billie Jean Eaker of Tallulah placed second in the queen's contest. Other contestants were Bonnie Beavers, 18, of Rayville and Sherry Cartliedge, 16 of Delhi.

Rhonda Jones last year's queen presented flowers to the winner and a trophy was presented by Mrs. Tatsy Moore, contest chairman.

Ronnie Sasser, 11, won the Little Britches Bareback Bronc Riding event.

Winners in the other categories were:

Barrel race, Jo Ann Crosby, first; Carolyn Cordell, second; Sherry Nethercut, third; Pam McCain, fourth.

Bareback riding — Marvin Holmes, first; Gene Heron and Freckles Brown tied for second and third places; and Lewis Daupit, fourth.

Saddle bronc, Clark Holder, first; Marvin Holmes, second; Buck Boyce, third, and Ben Bogan, fourth.

Calf roping, Billy Hutto, first; Earnie Taylor, second; T. D. May, fourth.

Bull dogging, John Rose, first; Tom Nesmith, second; David Courmier, third and John Ackel, fourth.

Airplane Crash Injures Marines Near Laos Line

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Marine Corps officers were seriously injured in the crash of a light L19 observation plane today in central highland mountains about 20 miles from the Laotian border.

A U.S. spokesman said the cause of the crash was not known but it was not believed the plane was hit by Communist Viet Cong ground fire.

August Weddings

Above: Miss Susan Vaughan Montgomery became the bride of John Marion Hoffman of Lacombe in a wedding performed Saturday, August 15, in St. Andrews Episcopal church in Mer Rouge, by the Rev. Archie Andrus. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiley Montgomery of Mer Rouge and Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hoffman of Lacombe are parents of the couple.

At right: A morning wedding in Grace Episcopal church Saturday, August 15, united Miss Bernice Shepard Girault, daughter of Mrs. E. S. Girault and Joseph Creath Montgomery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aylmer E. Montgomery, all of Monroe. The Rev. Bradley Trimble officiated at the eleven o'clock service, which was followed by a wedding brunch for members of the families at Bayou DeSiard country club.

Above: St. Matthews Catholic church was scene of the marriage Thursday evening, August 13, of Miss Margaret Middleton Moore and John Gilbert Lauve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gilbert Lauve of Alexandria. The Rev. Father William Provosty officiated. Mr. and Mrs. James Walter Moore, parents of the bride, entertained at a reception at Bayou DeSiard country club following the wedding.

Below at left: In a ceremony performed Saturday, August 15, Miss Sandra Gail Vigg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hulen Vigg, became the bride of Billy Joe Daniel, son of Mrs. James I. Daniel of Bastrop and the late Mr. Daniel. The Rev. Jerry Lee officiated at the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. in Jackson Street Church of Christ.

Below at center: On Thursday, August 13, Miss Sharon Louise Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Peters and Robert Felton Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Patterson of Downsville were married in Lakeshore Baptist church. The Rev. Glenn Pippens of North Monroe Baptist church was officiating minister.

Below: A seated dinner for members of the two families and intimate friends followed the wedding of Miss Sydney Ray Greenblatt and Jack Joseph Rawitscher of Houston, Texas, Sunday afternoon, August 9. Rabbi Sylvan Wolf officiated at the service in Temple B'Nai Israel. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Sidney Greenblatt of Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Rawitscher of Williston, North Dakota.

Miss Mary Margaret DeMoss And James Patrick Gilfoil Are Wed

His Excellency Bishop Charles P. Greco officiated at the nuptial mass which united in marriage Miss Mary Margaret DeMoss and James Patrick Gilfoil, Monday morning, August 3, in St. Edward's Catholic church in Tallulah. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Claude B. DeMoss and Mr. and Mrs. James M. Gilfoil.

Arrangements of white stock and daisies decorated the altar. Mrs. J. C. Sherwin provided wedding music and Mrs. Sam S. Scurria was the soloist.

MRS. JAMES PATRICK GILFOIL

The bride, escorted by her father who gave her in marriage, wore a floor length gown of boquet taffeta and Alencon lace. The lace bodice, reembroidered with seed pearls and Swiss crystals, featured a scalloped neckline and short cap sleeves. A draped cummerbund was accented with reembroidered lace medallions and the soft belled skirt extended into a wide sweeping train. A fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a crown of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis, lilies of the valley and a white orchid. She wore an heirloom necklace of pearls that had belonged to her great grandmother.

The matron of honor, Mrs. C. L. Keene, sister of the bride; and bridesmaids Mrs. George Deacon, Miss Dorothy Gilfoil, Miss Margaret Gilfoil, Miss Betty DeMoss and Miss Mary Katherine Marron of Lake Providence were identically attired in gowns of white georgette over peau de soie with cummberbunds caught in bows and streamers. On their heads were crowns of fresh daisies and they carried nosegays of daisies tied with white satin streamers.

Bill Gilfoil served his brother as best man and groomsmen-ushers were C. L. Keene, Claude DeMoss, John Gilfoil, Gerald Tonore, John Cadenhead of Haynesville and Ronnie Woods of Arcadia.

Mrs. DeMoss, the bride's mother, chose a pink crepe sheath with lace overblouse, matching accessories and a orchid corsage. Mrs. Gilfoil, the groom's mother was attired in a blue linen sheath with lace insets, blue feathered hat and matching accessories. She too had an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. DeMoss entertained with a reception at the American Legion Home which was beautifully decorated with white stock and daisies. Receiving with the bride and groom were their mothers. Guests registered at a small table covered with white satin and net and centered with daisies. Presiding at the guest book were Miss Alyce DeMoss and Mrs. James Reeves.

The bride's table, overlaid with white tulle and satin floor length cover, was centered with the tiered wedding cake embossed in white and pale yellow roses. The cake was served by Mrs. Helon Hanna and Miss Mary Agnes Gilfoil. The punch table covered with a floor length satin cloth held arrangements of daisies and stock flanked by silver candelabra holding white tapers. Serving from the silver punch bowls were Mrs. O. F. Daigle, of New Orleans, Miss Marie Farlow, Mrs. M. C. Farlow and Mrs. W. M. DeMoss. Tea girls were Miss Georgia Gilfoil, Miss Gail Gilfoil, Miss Kay Provine and Miss Mary Beth DeMoss.

For a trip to the Great Smoky Mountains the bride changed to a light green three piece suit, the sweater embroidered with lavender, green and white flowers. Her accessories were white and her corsage was a white orchid. On their return they will make their home on Omega Plantation north of Tallulah.

The bride graduated from Tallulah High School and attended Louisiana Tech and the University of New Mexico. Her sorority is Kappa Delta. The groom graduated from Tallulah High School and attended Louisiana State University.

Women In Construction Meet Monday

Women in Construction of Monroe held their monthly meeting at the Holiday Inn, Monday, August 10. The meeting was called to order by the president, Elizabeth Shaughnessy, at 7:30 p.m. Guests were introduced: Mrs. Coronne Lutrick, Ronnie Jackson, winner of the WIC Northeast scholarship award, Archie Dowdle, and Cliff Boyd.

After the meal, Mr. Dowdle and Mr. Boyd showed a film "From Mountains to Microns." Mr. Boyd explained the historical development of portland cement, a key ingredient of concrete. "Portland" cement is not a brand name, but so called because of resemblance to stone quarried on the Isle of Portland, England. About 99 per cent of all cement for construction purposes in the United States is portland cement.

Mrs. Jean Elmore, Miss Shaughnessy, Mrs. Louise James, and Miss Joanne Caskey made reservations to attend the national WIC convention to be held September 17 in Memphis, Tennessee. Mrs. Elmore is to be voting delegate for the Monroe group.

Members attending were Mrs. James, Mrs. Frances Case, Mrs. Elmore, Miss Caskey, Miss Shaughnessy, Mrs. Katie White, Mrs. Effie Rynbrand, Mrs. Elizabeth Pickens and Mrs. Margie Campbell.

Miller-Rawls Vows Heard

The wedding of Mrs. Ann Rawls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Warlick, and William S. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Miller, all of Monroe, was solemnized Friday morning, August 7, in Southside Methodist Church. The Rev. Lea Joyner officiated at the double ring ceremony in the presence of members of the family and close friends.

The bride wore a pale blue silk sheath with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. A diamond pendant was her only jewelry.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Miller of New Orleans, brother and sister-in-law of the groom, attended the couple.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Blez. After a brief wedding trip, the couple are at home at 501 K street.

MISS MARTHA FRANCES GUINN

Miss Guinn, Fiance Plan Fall Wedding

The wedding of Miss Martha Frances Guinn to the Rev. Larry Wells Kennedy of Pensacola, Florida, is planned for Saturday, September 5, at 7:30 p.m. in First Baptist church of Jonesville. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. James O. McNair, pastor of the church, and Dr. G. Earl Guinn, uncle of the bride-elect and president of Louisiana College, Pineville.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Clarence Guinn of Jonesville, and Mr. and Mrs. Wells Ernest Kennedy, of Pensacola, Florida.

A graduate of Block High school, Jonesville, Miss Guinn attended Louisiana College, where she was chosen Miss Louisiana College 1964. Her other beauty titles include Miss Catahoula Parish, 1963, and Tri-State Soybean Queen, 1963.

She has chosen Miss Rhetta Sensintaffar, Jonesville, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids are to be Miss Lula Craig, Baton Rouge; Miss Wallen Pullen, cousin of the bride-elect, Ferriday; Mrs. Lewis P. Stahl, DeRidder, and Miss June White, Jonesville.

Mr. Kennedy attended the University of Southwestern Louisiana, Lafayette, and was graduated from Louisiana College, where he was a member of the Athenian Literary society, Student Congress, and vice-president of Pi Kappa Delta debate fraternity.

Herbert Carieker of Pell City, Alabama has been selected as best man, with Ronnie Clayton and Andy Harville of Alexandria; David Evans, Mobile, Alabama; Bert Hartley, Pensacola, Florida; and James Horton, Monroe, groomsmen. Candles will be lighted by Johnn Guinn, brother of the bride-elect and Mike Taylor, both of Jonesville.

Following the wedding the couple will live in New Orleans, where Mr. Kennedy will attend New Orleans Baptist Theological seminary, and the bride-elect, Louisiana State university in New Orleans.

HOLBROOK-PITTS

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Holbrook of Hodge announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nelda Sue to John Rober Pitts of Shreveport. The wedding will be solemnized on September 4 at 7:00 p.m. in Hodge Baptist Church with the Rev. J. D. Wagnon, pastor, officiating.

MRS. LOUIS NOLAND PIPES, JR.

L. N. Pipes, Jr., Claims Bride In Virginia Rites

In a ceremony performed in Bedford, Virginia, Saturday, August 15, Louie Noland Pipes, Jr., of Rayville, claimed as his bride Miss Mary Hoskins Burks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winston Watts Burks of Bedford. Mr. Pipes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Noland Pipes of Rayville. The Rev. John Sivley, assisted by the Rev. G. Donald Black, officiated at the ceremony at 5 p.m. in St. John's Episcopal church.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, was attired in a traditional wedding gown of antique ivory peau de soie fashioned with a sheath floor length skirt with sides of unpressed pleats. The basque bodice featured a deep portrait neckline with bertha of heirloom Rosepoint lace. Matching lace bordered her chapel length veil of illusion which was held by a circlet of ivory orange blossoms. She carried a prayer book showered with step-hanotis and bride's roses entwined with English ivy.

Mrs. William Key Turpin of Richmond, Virginia was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant. Mr. Pipes served his son as best man.

Ushers were Winston Watts Burks Jr., brother of the bride of Holly Grove, Arkansas; and William Pipes, brother of the groom, of Rayville.

Following the service, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home at 721 College street, Bedford.

The bride received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Westhampton college of the university of Richmond and her Master of Science degree from Indiana University. Mr. Pipes is a graduate of Virginia Military Institute and is presently a senior at the seminary of the University of the South in Sewanee, Tennessee, where the couple will live.

MRS. JOHN HUGH ROBERSON, JR.

Roberson-Whitaker Vows Pledged In Newellton

In a ceremony performed in Union Church in Newellton, Saturday evening August 15, Miss Bettie Will Whitaker of Newellton became the bride of John Hugh Roberson Jr., of St. Joseph. The Rev. Wallace Blackwood and the Rev. Paul Snellgrove officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Whitaker of Newellton are parents of the bride, while the groom is the son of John Hugh Roberson of St. Joseph.

Woodwardia fern, smilax, and baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemum daisies decorated the church for the ceremony. Tall white tapers burned in a branched candelabra on the altar. Pre-nuptial music was provided by Miss Janie Bounds at the organ and Mrs. Robert Wilson, aunt of the bride of Camden, Arkansas, soloist.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown of white silk organza was styled on princess lines with a front panel of Alencon lace. It featured a Sabrina neckline, cap sleeves, and full cathedral train. An organza rose touched with pearls held her veil of imported illusion.

Miss Lee Dell Whitaker attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Susan Whitaker, Miss Marjie McElwee, of Delhi; Miss Puala Miller, cousin of the groom of St. Joseph; and Miss Karen Burnside of Newellton. They wore identical dress of imported silk organza over Nile green with square necklines, elbow sleeves, and belled skirts. Headdresses were matching organza bows worn at the back.

Mr. Roberson was his son's best man. Ushers were Hugh Anderson Bateman of Ferriday; David Miller, Fred Miller Jr., Burton L. Wade Jr., cousins of the groom from St. Joseph.

Mrs. Whitaker chose for her daughter's wedding a costume of aqua Italian silk with Chantilly lace jacket and matching accessories. Her corsage was a yellow throated white orchid. Mrs. Roberson chose a pink organza with bodice embroidered in pink braid, and a white orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at home. Baskets from the church decorated the entrance and reception rooms. The bride's bouquet was placed on the coffee table, while the bridesmaid's flowers centered the refreshment table. On the buffet stood a ten branch candelabra holding tapers and tulle puffs with daisies.

When the young couple left on their wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains, Mrs. Roberson was wearing a three piece wool knit in celery green with green alligator shoes and bag, white felt hat, and orchid corsage.

The bride attended Louisiana Tech and Northwestern. The groom graduated from Louisiana Tech, where he was a member of Kappa Sigma. Upon their return, the couple will make their home in Baton Rouge, where Mr. Roberson will do graduate work at Louisiana State University.

Lauve-Moore Wedding Followed By Reception At Country Club

On Thursday evening, August 13, in St. Matthews Catholic church, Miss Margaret Middleton Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Walter Moore, became the bride of John Gilbert Lauve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gilbert Lauve of Alexandria. The Rev. Father William Provosty officiated at the double ring ceremony at 6:30 p.m. Following the wedding, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at Bayou DeSiard Country club.

Main and side altars of the church held matching arrangements of giant white California gladioli and blossoms of auratum lilies in traditional gold vases of the church. As candles were lighted by altar boys David Kelly, son of Dr. and Mrs. Roy Kelly, and Corbin Amman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Amman, a pre-nuptial concert was provided by Mrs. Della Williamson at the organ. She also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Robert Wood.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of white pure silk peau de soie featured a bodice of heirloom Brussels lace with cap sleeves and princess line slim skirt. The detachable Watteau chapel train was peau de soie edged in Brussels lace and embroidered with clusters of seed pearls. A small pearl crown held her veil of imported illusion. She carried a bouquet in traditional style of lily of the valley and stephanotis centered with a white Royal Bouquet orchid.

ATTENDANTS

Attending the bride were Miss Kay Branch, Monroe, maid of honor; Miss Christine Kellogg Moore, sister of the bride, maiden of honor; Miss Betty Marks, Shreveport; Miss Mary Conlin, Monroe; Mrs. John David Dienes, Dallas; and Mrs. Robert Bass, Lafayette; bridesmaids. They wore identical floor-length dresses of pink crystal taffeta accented at the waistline with applique of matching Irish lace. Their headdresses were pink veils of illusion caught at the crown with self covered flowers. They carried crescents of delicate pink Rose Elfe roses.

Pierre Lauve, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were James Walter Moore Jr., brother of the bride; James Downs, Alexandria; James Beard, Monroe; Kenneth Kramer, Welch; and Lansing Kolb, Alexandria.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Moore was wearing floor length dress of pastel blue crepe with bateau neckline and panel draped from left shoulder to hemline. She wore a small circle hat of matching material trimmed with pearls, and a corsage of Japhet orchids. Mrs. Lauve, mother of the groom, chose raw silk in a muted gold tone, the floor length skirt fanning into a semi-train in back. She wore a small feathered hat of variegated gold tones and a white Japhet orchid.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Moore were hosts at a reception at Bayou DeSiard country club. A stately silver urn placed in the club entrance held white stock, bridal roses, and auratum lilies.

Guests were invited to register at the book which was placed on a table overlaid with white organdy and centered with a memory candle. The bride's cake, a tiered design topped with a white orchid, centered a round table covered with white organdy.

Punch was served from a silver bowl which centered a long table covered with organdy. At each end was placed a silver candelabra which held an arrangement of white stock, bridal roses, and auratum lilies, with four white tapers.

Those who assisted at the reception were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. John Middleton, and Mrs. Walter Wood Kellogg, Mrs. Roy Q. Cole Jr., Mrs. Richard D. Kellogg, Mrs. Thomas W. Leigh, Mrs. Burt W. Sperry, Mrs. Pierre Lauve, Mrs. Edward Holmes, Mrs. Kent Breard, Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. Kent Anderson, Mrs. Amos Shelton, Mrs. Jack Taylor, and Mrs. David I. Garrett Jr.

Rice girls were Miss Charlotte Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Holmes, Miss Betty Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Q. Cole Jr., Miss Mary Flo Kelly, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Roy Kelly, Miss Molly McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse McDonald.

When Mr. and Mrs. Lauve left on their wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nevada, the bride was wearing a three piece knit suit of cranberry and white with orchid corsage and accessories of matching cranberry. On their return, they will be at home in New Orleans.

OFF FOR THE AZORES this week to join Sgt. Harry Langston were his family, left to right, Butch, Mrs. Langston, Diane, and Scott. The four have been here for a month visiting the children's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Walling and Mrs. Viola Langston. They left Wednesday to fly to Philadlephia and thence to the Portuguese islands for a two year stay. The Langstons formerly lived in Washington, D. C.

VICTORIAN
For a Victorian but still stylish summer bouquet, arrange zinnias, lilies, tuberoses, asters and stocks in a reproduction of an old ironstone tureen.

On Dit'

by Denise

Summer comings and goings continue at a brisk clip, with our people travelling abroad and visitors coming here from faraway places. Here for a month before their departure Wednesday were PEGGY LANGSTON and her children, DIANE, BUTCH and SCOTTY.

The Langstons, who have been living in Washington, D.C., were here en route to their new home in the Azores, where SGT. HARRY LANGSTON will be stationed for four years. They visited grandparents, the LeROY WALLINGS and VIOLA LANGSTON here.

Honoring her grandchildren, Zell Walling entertained last Saturday night with a patio supper party. Young guests were invited to attend dressed as their favorite characters of fiction, history, or television. Honorees were also in costume: Diane as a Polynesian dance; Butch, TV character Jethro; and Scott as Mr. Muscle Man.

Prizes were awarded to KIM DUKE, dressed as a movie star; and LISA CARTRIGHT, a ballerina. Other outstanding outfits noted were MIKI WALLING as Cinderella; KATHY HOCUTT as a clown; and TISHI WALLING as a Las Vegas show girl.

Entertainment was provided for the children by TONI WALLING, dressed as "Mad Hatter Magician," who performed magic tricks on a portable stage set up on the patio. Others assisting the hostess were PAT WALLING, aunt of the honorees; and cousins DEANNA MANNING and SUSAN HARREL. Hamburger supper, with candy, cookies, and soft drinks, was served to about twenty-five children attending.

Interesting visitors in the home of LYDIA and GEORGE VARINO on Point drive this week have been MR. and MRS. ROGER JULIENNE, whose home is on the island of Mauritius; and MR. AND MRS. JOSE JULIENNE (the former Lydia Varino). The elder Juliennes arrived here by way of London, where they visited a son who is a student there; and College Station, Texas, where Jose is working toward his doctorate at Texas A. and M. They have been here a week, plan to leave today. Hostesses who have entertained in their honor include BLOSSOM BUTLER, MARIE LOUISE SNELLINGS, and VERA TROY.

Leaving today for home in Houston, Texas, is ANN NOEL, who has been here with her parents, the W. S. SHAFTOS. Husband JOHN brought her up last week, left her for a longer visit.

A supper party at home was planned by SOPHIA and EDEL BLANKS for Ann and John Tuesday night. Watermelon crape myrtle decorated the living room and was used to center individual tables. In the dining room, zinnias in vivid summer shades formed the centerpiece. The menu served to twenty included roast beef, stuffed baked potatoes, spinach and cream cheese casserole, congealed asparagus salad, and lemon refrigerator dessert.

On Wednesday, SANCY MADISON was hostess for a luncheon at her home, honoring Ann. A milk glass container of late summer roses was placed on a table in the living room. Ruby zinnias and ivy were used in the milk glass bowl which centered the dining room table, where eight guests were seated. On the menu were tomatoes stuffed with tuna; molded black cherry salad with strawberry-sour cream dressing; Swiss asparagus; tiny hot rolls, and for dessert, almond Hershey pie with whipped cream.

Bayou DeSiard country club was scene of a luncheon honoring Ann when Sara Shafto entertained on Thursday. A yellow cloth covered the table, which was centered with a silver bowl of yellow and white daisies and chrysanthemums. Twelve guests enjoyed a luncheon of avocado stuffed with crabmeat, green asparagus, finger sandwiches, and cree de menthe parfait served in meringue shells.

Late summer travelers continue to be a-stir, some leaving and some coming home. JOYCE and DICK KELLOGG returned Tuesday night from the most exciting trip of all — flying around the world. They were gone about six weeks, making the circle in an easterly direction. Favorite places were Hong Kong and Japan, where they visited Kyoto, the old capital; Myanoshita, a hot springs resort; and Tokyo.

When the Kelloggs arrived in Honolulu, they were met by SCOTTY and MONTE CARBONE. The four travelled together for the final lap of the trip, which included stops in San Francisco and Las Vegas after Hawaii.

Arriving last night was GRETCHEN MASUR, who has spent the summer in Europe with her friends, KAY ANDREWS and MYRA NICOL of Dallas. Gretchen and Kay went over in June to meet Myra, who has been in school in Veinna. The three toured Austria, Germany, Switzerland and Italy on an independent basis, making walking tours and staying in pensions. Highlights were attending the opera in Florence and Rome. They wound up the summer with five days in Paris before flying home this week.

Also fresh back from Europe are GAIL KINNEY AND HELENE CYMBAL, who left last month to fly direct to Paris to visit relatives. Gail went off alone to Madrid, where she joined a tour which covered nearly a thousand miles in Spain. Then she flew on to Rome and fell in love with Italy. Gail, like most travelers home from abroad, reports hereself ready to go again next year.

Due home today are the JACK MABRAYS and their children, MELINDA, MARY MELISSA, PAT, and JOHN. They have been gone nearly three weeks, making a leisurely driving trip up the East coast, climaxed by a week in New York at the World's Fair.

Also due home today are LUCILLE CARROLL, ROY ANSPACH, and MRS. GEORGE TEMPLE, who have been away over two weeks. They divided their time between Philadelphia, New York, and Ocean City, New Jersey.

Members of Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, Children of the American Revolution who attended the Regional Meeting in Charleston, South Carolina this week were JULIE AMMAN, president of Bowman Society; BETSY TAYLOR, first vice-president for Louisiana; and LIL SHAW. Betsy and Julie served as pages for MRS. JOHN W. MAYFIELD of Baton Rouge, senior national vice-president for the southeastern region. The meeting ends today.

Weekend visitor here from Baton Rouge is JOELLE CAMPBELL, LSU student. She has been the guest of MARG PETTYJOHN at 809 Roselawn since Friday, and is to leave today.

HIGHLAND PARK country club's monthly ladies' day luncheon is set for this coming Wednesday at the club at 11:30. A back to school style show is planned for the program, with club members' children modelling clothes from Kelso's. DIXIE WARE will narrate.

Today's poem is by Conrad Aiken:

Music I heard with you was more than music,
And bread I broke with you was more than bread;
Now that I am without you, all is desolate;
All that was once so beautiful is dead.
Your hands once touched this table and this silver,
And I have seen your fingers hold this glass.
These things do not remember you, beloved—
And yet your touch upon them will not pass.
For it was in my heart you moved among them,
And blessed them with your hands and with your eyes;
And in my heart they will remember always—
They knew you once, O beautiful and wise.

MISS RUBY ANN CLARK

Miss Clark, Mr. Johnston To Be Married

An early fall wedding is being planned by Miss Ruby Ann Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Clark of West Monroe, and Billy Dale Johnston of West Monroe, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Johnston of Sikes. The ceremony is planned for 6:30 p.m., Friday, September 11, in Peniel Baptist Church with the Rev. W. R. Dewden officiating.

The bride-elect has chosen Mrs. Mary Jane Hicks as her matron of honor, with Misses Linda Gail Fisher and Jeanette Coastes as bridesmaids. Cheryl Odom will act as flower girl and Doyle Clark, ringbearer.

Mr. Johnston will be attended by Jerry Smith as best man, with Elbert Lawrence and Bo Roberts as ushers.

The couple plan to live in West Monroe.

COMBINATION
Good vegetable combination: cooked diced beets mixed with buttered, chopped spinach.

MISS JANIE WILSON is engaged to be married to Allen V. Waller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen E. Waller of Monroe. The wedding is to be August 22 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilson of West Monroe.

Natchitoches Home Wedding Unites Couple

On Sunday, August 2, at 3 p.m., Miss Alma Jo Gallender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan E. Gallender of Jonesville, became the bride of Byron W. Wilkerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilkerson of Natchitoches. The double ring ceremony was held in the home of the groom's parents. The Rev. Deil Durand officiated, while the groom's brother, Wayne Wilkerson of Alexandria, offered opening prayer.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Nathan E. Gallender Jr., of Natchez, was attired in a gown of white peau de soie with lace jacket. A crown of orange blossoms held her veil and she carried a cascade of white carnations.

Miss Judy Ruth Taylor of Jonesville was the bride's maid of honor. She wore pink peau de soie with a corsage of white carnations. Little Miss Sonya Rene Gallender of Natchez, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore white peau de soie with lace sleeves and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Candles were lighted by Miss Susan Byrne and Miss Jeanie Byrne of Alexandria, cousins of the bride. They wore pink and white brocade dresses with matching pill box hats.

Serving the groom as best man was his brother, Autrey Wilkerson of Natchitoches. Ring bearer was the groom's nephew, Hubert Wilkerson of Alexandria.

Following the ceremony, guests were received in the garden where they were served wedding cake and punch by Mrs. Autry Wilkerson, Mrs. Nathan Gallender Jr., Mrs. Cameron Hudson, and Mrs. James Scott. Presiding at the guest book was Mrs. Wayne.

MR. AND MRS. JERRY WAYNE WARNER

Home Ceremony Unites Couple In West Monroe

Miss Mary Frances Bratton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bratton, became the bride of Jerry Wayne Warner, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Warner, in a ceremony performed Thursday, August 6 by the Rev. Phil Tisdale. The wedding was held in the home of the bride's brother, C. W. Bratton, in West Monroe.

The couple pledged their vows at five in the afternoon before an improvised altar decorated with an arrangement of white gladioli and a white Bible.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a streeth length sheath of ivory brocade styled with maching jacket. Her headdress was a ring of ivory brocade with shoulder length veil of white tulle. Her corsage was white carnations.

Her attendants were Miss Kathy Kelly, maid of honor, and Miss Shirley Bratton, bridesmaid. They wore pink brocade sheaths with ring hats of the brocade and pink tulle.

Richard M. Enmon attended the groom as best man.

Mrs. Bratton wore for her daughter's wedding a printed silk in shades of blue, while Mrs. Warner chose apricot shantung.

A reception was held following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with an ivory lace cloth and centered with pink and yellow roses and chrysanthemums in a branched candelabra-epergne. The wedding cake stood at one end and the punch bowl opposite.

For a honeymoon in Hot Spring, Arkansas, the bride chose a three piece ensemble with black and white checked jacket, white overblouse and black skirt.

Montgomery-Girault Vows Heard in Church

In a morning ceremony Saturday, August 15, in Grace Episcopal church, Miss Bernice Shepard Girault, daughter of Mrs. E. S. Girault, became the bride of Joseph Creath Montgomery, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Montgomery, all of Monroe. The Rev. Bradley Trimble officiated at the wedding, which was followed by a family brunch at Bayou DeSiard country club.

Arrangements of white chrysanthemums, stock, and cathedral tapers decorated the church. A pre-nuptial concert was presented by Mrs. Bradley Trimble at the organ, and Mrs. N. C. Schroeder, soloist.

The bride entered on the arm of her uncle, George M. Simon of Baton Rouge, who gave her in marriage. She was wearing an ankle length wedding gown with white lace bodice and skirt of white silk organza. Her headdress was an open crowned, wide brimmed hat of white organza and lace. She carried white roses on a white Bible.

Miss Arden Limerick of Little Rock, Arkansas, was maid of honor and only attendant. Her dress of pale pink organza was highlighted at the waist with a pink organza rose on a narrow belt, and a single organza rose formed her headdress. She carried a nosegay of pink rosebuds.

Aylmer Montgomery, Jr., attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Markley Huey and George M. Simon, Jr., cousin of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Girault was attired in turquoise silk with matching shoes and bow-veil. Mrs. Montgomery mother of the groom, wore pale blue appliqued with matching lace and a small flower hat.

Following the wedding, a family reception was held at Bayou DeSiard country club, where brunch was served in the main dining room. A silver epergne overflowing with white flowers centered the buffet table, while the bride's table was decorated with a wedding ring bride's cake centered with a pedestal of white roses.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Aspen, Colorado, the bride travelled in a suit of yellow and white check raw silk with white blouse, white straw hat, and a corsage of roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery will be at home at 1511 N. Fifth street, Monroe.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High school, attended Sweet Briar college, and was graduated from Louisiana State university. Her sorority is Chi Omega.

Mr. Montgomery was graduated from the Webb school and attended Tulane before being graduated from Northeast State college. He is a member of Kappa Alpha.

Miss Susan Montgomery Marries J. M. Hoffman

Miss Susan Vaughan Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiley Montgomery of Mer Rouge, became the bride of John Marion Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hoffman of Lacombe in a ceremony performed Saturday, August 15, at St. Andrews Episcopal church in Mer Rouge. The Rev. Archie Andrus officiated at the double ring service at four p.m.

Vases of large white chrysanthemums and tall white tapers stood on the altar. A pre-nuptial concert was presented by Miss Mary Menchew of Castor at the organ. Miss Menchew also accompanied the soloist, Miss Jean Clark of Mer Rouge.

Mr. Montgomery escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her gown of candlelight peau de soie was styled with bodice of Alencon lace, sabrina neckline and short sleeves; and short bellshaped skirt with back panel. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was held by a crown of seed pearls. She wore a diamond drop, a gift of the groom, and carried a white Bible topped with an orchid.

The bride's attendants were Miss Mary Minta Montgomery of Shreveport, sister of the bride maid of honor; and Miss Kitty Vaughan of Monroe, cousin of the bride, bridesmaid. They wore identical dresses of irridescent gold taffeta embroidered in deeper tones with scooped necklines and bll shaped skirts. Their headdresses were of gold illusion caught with gold satin roses. They carried bouquets of yellow roses and white stock.

The groom's father, Mr. Hoffman, was best man and Robert Walker of Bogalusa, groomsmen. Ushers were John Russell Montgomery of Mer Rouge, brother of the bride; and William D. Lee of Monroe.

Mrs. Montgomery, mother of the bride, was wearing a two piece dress of aqua silk with matching accessories. Mrs. Hoffman chose a pink silk sheath with white accessories. Each wore an orchid corsage.

A reception was held in the Parish House following the ceremony. Mrs. Joe Davenport greeted guests and directed them to the bride's book which was presided over by Miss Lita Tugwell of Farmerville.

Yellow roses centered the bride's table, which was covered with white satin overlaid with net caught with small bouquets of yellow roses. Flanking the centerpiece were yellow tapers in antique silver candelabra which had belonged to the bride's great-great-great grandmother.

Mrs. C. D. Hoffman, of Atlanta, Georgia, grandmother of the groom, presided at the silver punch bowl. Mrs. Goddard Jarvis of Texarkana, aunt of the bride, cut the cake. Tea girls were Miss Nancy Garrison, Sherry Hall, and Sara Green. Rice bags were distributed by Rebecca Hodges and Howard Hodges of Cupertino, California, niece and nephew of the bride.

When the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, Mrs. Hoffman was wearing a gold silk dressmaker suit with dark brown accessories. The bride is a graduate of Mer Rouge High school and of Louisiana Tech, where she was a member of Kappa Delta social sorority and Phi Kappa Phi scholastic fraternity.

A graduate of Slidell High school, the groom was also graduated from Louisiana Tech, where he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha, Omicron Delta Kappa, and Phi Kappa Phi. While serving as a lieutenant in the Air Force, Mr. Hoffman will be stationed in Atlanta, Georgia, where he will work toward his master's degree.

AUGUST 29 is date selected for the marriage of Miss Virginia Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sims of Goodwill and Lee Finch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Finch of Bastrop. The Rev. M. W. Kennedy is to officiate at the ceremony at 7:30 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents.

SARDINES AND CHEESE

Quick luncheon sandwiches! Make them from sardines mashed with mayonnaise and spread over slices of toasted bread; top with plenty of grated cheddar cheese and broil just until cheese melts. Be sure to have the sardine mixture and the cheese come over the edges of the bread so there's no scorching.

Sandra Vigg, B. J. Daniel United In Church Rites

In a candlelight service in Jackson Street Church of Christ, Saturday, August 15, Miss Sandra Gail Vigg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hulen Vigg, became the bride of Billy Joe Daniel, son of Mrs. James I. Daniel of Bastrop and the late Mr. Daniel. The Rev. Jerry Lee officiated at the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Tall tapers burned in spiral and branched candelabra wreathed with smilax which stood on the altar and alternated with five bouquets of pink traveler gladioli. Candles in hurricane lights were fixed at the end of family pews. Candles were lighted by the bride's cousins, Thomas Harrison Herrmann and Joseph Alan Herrmann of Baltimore, Maryland.

As guests were being seated by the ushers, John Gerald Moses, brother-in-law of the bride, and Billy Dee, a pre-nuptial concert was provided by Ronnie Brothers at the organ and Mrs. J. Norman Coon Sr., soloist.

Mr. Vigg escorted his daughter to the altar. She was wearing a floor-length bridal gown of ivory silk organza with chapel train resplendent with imported alencon lace. Her veil was a full length mantilla of illusion edged with heirloom lace. She carried a white orchid in a circle of stephanotis.

The bride's sister, Mrs. John Gerald Moses was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. R. Glenn Daniel, Miss Mary Lyda Coon, Miss Brenda Jo Younse, Miss Priscilla Lynn Thompson, ad Mrs. J. Benjamin Hollis, Little Miss Kevin Maria Coon was flower girl. The attendants wore dresses of melon pink chiffon with matching crown shaped hats with nose veils. Their bouquets were crescents of pink Traveler gladioli.

Robert Glenn Daniel attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were L. J. Fontenot, Richard Fontana, and Clifford Worley, Master Jacob Norman Coon III served as ringbearer.

Mrs. Vigg, mother of the bride, was attired in a pale pink crepe sheath with overjacket of re-embroidered Brussels lace and a pill box hat of lace. Mrs. Daniel wore mauve lace with matching shoes and hat. Each wore a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids.

A reception at Paragon Supper club followed the wedding. Five refreshment tables were each covered with floor length cloths of white satin with runners of Northern smilax interspersed with pink roses. The punch table was centered with a cherub compots filled with pink roses. Three branch cherub candelabra held pink tapers at each side.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon Jr., presided at the bride's book. Coffee was served by Miss Carolyn Wroten. Miss Suzanno Mayo and Miss Suzette Lindsey alternated at the punch bowl. Serving the bride's cake was Miss Carolyn Fisher, while Miss Patsy Hughes cut the groom's cake.

Tea girls were Misses Elizabeth Ann Hendrix, Cynthia Chambliss, Judy Howard, Kathy Witherington, Tisa Snively, Sandra Hudson, and Kay Lindsey. Rice bags were distributed by Jenny Patterson, Cindy Williams, Linda Usrey, Charlotte Young, and Rhonda Hancock.

Following the reception, the bride and groom left on a wedding trip to Biloxi, Mississippi. Mrs. Daniel was wearing a Bianchi original two piece suit of white silk linen with melon pink accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return, they will be at home at 5309 Blank St.

The bride, a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school and a member of Delta Beta Sigma, is presently attending Northeast Louisiana State College. Mr. Daniel is a graduate of Oak Grove High school and of Northeast, where he received a bachelor of science degree in health and physical education.

AUGUST 22 is date selected for the wedding of Miss Patricia Ann Godwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Whitman of West Monroe, and Billy Ray Milby, of Monroe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Milby of Winnsboro. The couple plan to make their home in West Monroe.

Patterson-Peters Rites Held In Baptist Church

The Rev. Glenn Pippens of North Monroe Baptist church officiated at the ceremony which united Miss Sharon Louise Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Peters of Downsville. The wedding was held Thursday, August 13, at 7 p.m. in Lakeshore Baptist church.

The church was decorated with four green fern trees, alternating with baskets of yellow pom pon chrysanthemums. Gold candles in gold candelabra were lighted by Miss Janis Pardue, and Miss Phyllis Peters, cousin of the bride. They wore identical dresses of gold peau de soie and carried nosegays of Golden Harvest glamellias.

Music was provided by Mrs. Jack White at the organ and Miss Biddy Dupree at the piano. Soloist was David DeRossett of Augusta, Georgia.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of ivory peau de soie with bodice of Chantilly lace reembroidered in pearls and iridescents. The full skirt, pleated in front, flowed into a chapel train of lace. A tiara of seed pearls held her veil of illusion. The bride's bouquet of fleur d'amour, stephanotis, and satin streamers, was centered with a yellow-throated white orchid.

Miss Ninkie Boyd, maid of honor, and Mrs. William Ragan, matron of honor, were attired in identical dresses of gold peau de soie with scoop necklines and bell skirts. Their headdresses were matching fabric roses with circlets of tulle veiling. They carried bouquets of Golden Harvest glamellias with green satin leaves and streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Billy Cruse, Mrs. Jim Fletcher, Mrs. Joe Ford Jr., Mrs. Pat Juneau Jr., cousin of the bride, Mrs. Bobby Jack Bayles, sister of the groom, and Miss Debby Peters, sister of the bride and junior bridesmaid. They wore dresses of apple green peau de soie styled on similar lines to those of the honor attendants; and carried yellow glamellias with gold satin streamers and leaves.

R. E. Patterson, father of the groom, was best man and groomsmen were William Ragan, Bobby Jack Bayles, Gary Patterson, brother of the groom, Fred Frantom, cousin of the groom, George Leachman, Herbert Farmer, and Joey Coleman Jr., Benny Banks and Skipper Trip, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

The bride's mother chose a costume of mauve lace over taffeta with matching jacket. She wore a hat of mauve lace and velvet bows, soft green gloves and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Patterson was attired in yellow lace over taffeta with matching jacket and a hat of yellow roses. Her corsage was green cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held at Highland Park country club following the wedding service. Mrs. David DeRossett, aunt of the bride invited guests to sign the bride's book, which was placed on a satin covered table decorated with a memory candle and cupid figure holding small yellow pom pons.

The refreshment table held a silver punch bowl at one end, the tiered bride's cake at the other. A cupid compote overflowing with yellow and white chrysanthemums, stock, and leather leaf fern formed the centerpiece.

Tea girls, all of whom were dressed in gold peau de soie, were Miss Carolyn Leachman, Miss Candy Tripp, Miss Julia Wilhite, Miss Marion Ashley, Miss Melba Beasley, and Mrs. Joe Brewer. Rice bags were distributed by Babs Chapman, Pam Tripp, and Terry Boyd, who all wore apple green peau de soie.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Galveston and Houston, Mrs. Patterson was wearing a suit of gold silk linen with shell printed in shades of gold and green. She wore matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and of Northeast Louisiana State college, where she was a member of Jesters and a featured twirler for three years. She will continue study in speech therapy in Houston, where the couple will live. Mr. Patterson, a graduate of Downsville High school, received a degree from Louisiana Tech in 1960 and 1964.

Miss Marsden, Mr. Simbach Are Married

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Sue Marsden and Henry G. Simbach was solemnized at the Caddo Heights Baptist church in Shreveport on Monday, August 3 at 6:30 in the evening. The Rev. D. O. Foster officiated at the double ring ceremony. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Marsden of Tallulah, La., and Mr. and Mrs. K. P. Kuklinski of Lyons, Illinois.

Tall baskets of white gladioli, stock and greenery decorated the altar. Miss Linda Thompson at the organ provided the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white peau de soie street length gown fashioned with soft pleats in front and back and worn with a bolero of white Chantilly lace with capped sleeves and tiny bows down the back. Around her neck was a single strand of pearls. A short circular veil of French illusion fell from a chaplet of velvet flowers encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations on a white satin Bible.

Miss Janet Brown, the maid of honor, was attired in a sky blue peua de soie made on princess lines with crushed cummerbund, pill box hat with short white gloves. Her flowers were a star-shaped nosegay of blue carnations with matching streamers.

Dennis Chantes of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, attended the bridegroom as best man as and Charles Lxuer of Shreveport served as usher.

Mrs. Marsden chose for her daughter's wedding a beige embroidered linen worn with ashes of roses hat and matching accessories. Rose pink carnations were attached to her purse. The groom's mother wore a white linen ensemble accented with green, white accessories with touches of green and a corsage of pale pink carnations.

A recpetion in the church parlors followed the ceremony. Receiving with the couple were their parents and wedding attendants.

The lace covered table, centered with crystal candelabra holding gleaming candles and surrounded with sprays of English ivy, held at opposite ends the wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and the punch service. Mrs. Earl Moore poured punch and Mrs. A. L. Borland served the cake. Miss Lynn Corbel distributed rice bags. At an adjoining table, centered with a memory candle, guests registered in the bride's book.

For a trip to Chicago, Ill. and other points, the bride changed to a pale blue cotton brocade, white accessories and a white carnation corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Shreveport where Airman 1st Class Simbach is stationed at the Barksdale Air Force Base. Mrs. Simbach will continue her studies at Northwestern State College School of Nursing where she is a senior.

MRS. ARDIS PAUL STUCKEY

Ruston Couple Marry Friday

Grace Methodist church in Ruston was scene of the service Friday, August 14 which united Miss Sherry Ann Rainwater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Rainwater, and Ardis Paul Stuckey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Paul Stuckey, all of Ruston. The Rev. Wilson Watson officiated at the ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Magnolia leaves formed the background for lighted candles placed on the altar. White seasonal flowers were used at the base of the cross. Mrs. B. Gray Allison, organist, and Mrs. R. C. Ellis, soloist, presented a pre-nuptial concert.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white peau de soie with floor length bell skirt and train of lace. A seed pearl crown held her veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible with a cascade of white roses and white satin streamers.

Miss Marsha Cloteal Williamson, cousin of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a dress of turquoise silk organza embroidered in a deeper shade around the full skirt. She carried a nosegay of white pompons ringed with turquoise tulle.

Howell Stuckey, brother of the groom, was best man; and Aylmer Rainwater, brother of the bride, usher. Michael Paul Rainwater, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Mrs. Rainwater chose to wear a dress of champagne beige lace with a corsage of mint green carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. Stuckey, was attired in a sheath of dusty rose pure silk with jacket and matching accessories. Her corsage was of rose pink carnations.

A reception was held in the church parlors after the ceremony. The refreshment table, covered with a linen drawn work cloth, was centered with a branched candelabra with the bride's bouquet placed at the base. Mrs. Morris John Williamson and Mrs. John A. Mitchell served punch. Mrs. Tomp E. Raley and Mrs. George Melvin Shows cut the cake.

Miss Judy Mitchell was at the guest book. Tea girls were Miss Mary Ellen Blackwell, Miss Nancy Garrison, Mrs. Willam Robert Cook, and Mrs. Huey Warner.

When the couple left on their wedding trip to Miami and Nassau, the bride was wearing a red silk suit with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. Upon their return, they will be at home in Ruston, where both are seniors at Louisian Tech.

Miss Sydney Greenblatt Weds Jack J. Rawitscher

Miss Sydney Ray Greenblatt became the bride of Jack Joseph Rawitscher of Houston, Texas, in a ceremony performed by Rabbi Sylvan Wolf at four in the afternoon Sunday, August 9, in Temple B'Nai Israel. Parents of the young couple are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Sidney Greenblatt of Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. Alec Rawitscher of Williston, North Dakota.

Two large white pedestal arrangements of white gladioli, chrysanthemums, lilies, stock and greenery decorated the Temple. Music was provided by Leon Hammond at the organ.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a three piece suit of white laskeen, the blouse covered with all over embroidery in pearls and crystals. She chose a small white pill box hat and matching accessories. Her bouquet was of white roses attached to a white Bible.

Matron of honor and only attendant was Mrs. George M. Snellings III, who wore a rose colored suit and matching accessories. She carried a round bouquet of pale pink rose buds.

Dr. Robert E. Rawitscher, of Charlottesville, Virginia, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Stuart Rawitscher, brother of the groom, of Chicago, Illinois; and Marvin Katz of Houston, Texas.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Greenblatt was wearing a costume of blue silk with matching flower pill box. Mrs. Rawitscher, mother of the groom, chose pale green shantung. Each wore a white orchid corsage.

Following the service, the bride's parents were hosts for a seated dinner at the Rendezvous. Standards of white gladioli, chrysanthemums, and stock formed a background for the table. Centerpiece was a cherub candelabra overflowing with white roses and stock.

Mrs. Jim Wroten of Monroe invited guests of sign the guest book, which was placed on a table covered with lace-edged white organdy. Centering the table was a memory candle decorated with white roses, lilies of the valley and chrysanthemums.

The bride's cake, embossed with white roses, centered a table covered with white organdy. Mrs. Ed Greenblatt, aunt of the bride of Houston, Texas, cut the cake. Others who assisted were Misses Linda Lou Robinson, Jean Rawson, Rosalye Wilkerson, and Ann Nachman of Houston; and Mrs. William Coleman of Ferriday.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Acapulco, Mexico, the bride was wearing a black and white silk tweed suit with pale yellow blouse, black velvet hat, and corsage of yellow orchids. Upon their return, they will be at home in Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Rawitscher attended Louisiana State University and Northeast Louisiana State college. The groom was graduated from the University of Wisconsin and the University of Texas Law School. He is a member of Pi Lambda Phi social fraternity and of Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity.

Club Hears Mrs. Pittart

Members of Twin City Hemerocallis club met Monday, August 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Agricultural Building in West Monroe.

A short business session was held before the program chairman introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Clara Mae Pittard, who spoke on daylilies and described her visits to out of state daylily gardens.

Plans were discussed for the regional meeting of hemerocallis clubs to be held here next year, hosted by groups in this area.

Hosts, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Mangham and Mrs. Jewel Earl, served refreshments to Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Pittard, Mrs. Patty Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Turner, Miss Thelma Johns, Miss Jerry Earl, Mrs. Mary White, Mrs. Fred Hayton, Mrs. Oma Slaughter, and Mrs. Suzee Gorman.

ADD LEMON

Next time you make buttered bread crumbs as a topping for a vegetable, try adding a little grated limon rind.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Reader Is 'Bugged' By Overweight Jokes

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to take issue with you and others who write for newspapers and magazines. For years I have been bugged by your snide pokes at those who are a little overweight.

We are called "Blimps," "Waddling Ducks," "Baby Hippos" — and countless other flattering names.

Why is it that no one ever says a word about the 50-year-old dame with a face like a dried prune wearing size eight Bermuda shorts and a halter top in the super-market? Her legs look like a canary's and invariably she is clomping around in a pair of wedgies — usually gold.

Yes, I am one of the slightly overweight ones, as you may have guessed, but my husband says he'd rather have me this way than looking like a freshly-hatched chicken.

Thank you for letting me have my say. — PIECE SPOKEN

Dear Spoken: You are welcome. And now that I have let you have your say I will undoubtedly be in bad with all the dried prune, canary-legged, size eight ladies in gold wedgies.

Dear Ann Landers: I was jarred by your advice to the student who griped because the male teachers chummed up to the pretty girls in the class while the female teachers showed partiality to the handsome football players.

You said, "A little banana oil is an effective lubricant for the machinery of human relations."

Granted, but what can a student do about a clash of personalities? I loathe my English professor and he knows it. He vents his spleen by giving me C's when I deserve A's.

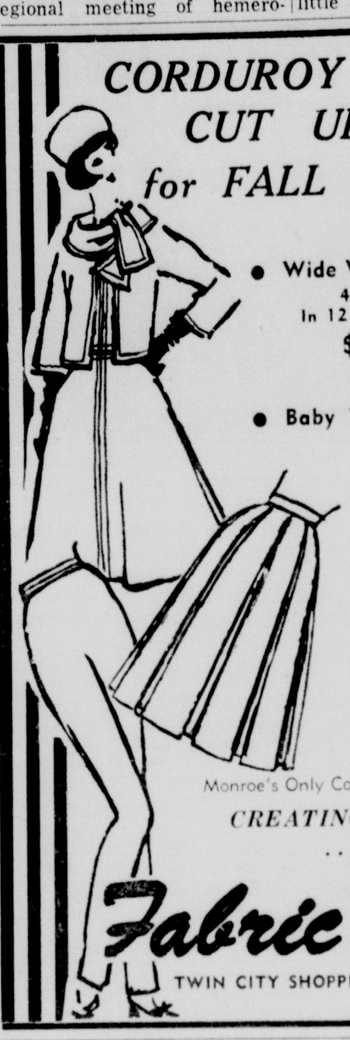

In a math course the answers are either right or wrong, but in English a student can get killed on "interpretation, clumsy syntax, over-writing, lack of originality" — ad nauseum. If the professor decides your writing is "pedestrian and unimaginative" who can argue? Is this fair? — BITTER

Dear Bitter: No it isn't, but where did you get the idea that life is always fair?

You are bound to encounter personality conflicts (unless you decide to go live alone on a desert island). The sooner you learn how to deal with all types of people the better. We all know extremely competent individuals who are surpassed by mediocre ones, simpley because they can't get along with their superiors. Are you going to be one of them? Take inventory, friend.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 29 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Fragrances Preserved

By MRS. LESLIE CLARK
Guest Writer

As I prepared to leave the sheltering walls of our abode to make my program debut, Wednesday, aside from the fact that I had butterflies in my stomach, had drawn a blank mentally and was a nervous wreck generally, my ever-loving husband sent me off with a "way-out" bang. I said, "I hope I don't goof." He said, "Well it won't be the first time."

Oh, well — I still have my roses. The rose, being my favorite flower, and loving herbs and spices equally as well, also all things old, grandmother's rose jar is what I'd like to share with you. There are so many delightful ways to enjoy roses, and one I feel sure you will like is the potpourri.

GATHERING TIME

The best time to gather the roses is early morning, after the dew has evaporated. The sun's rays lessen the fragrance of the blossoms. The petals should be separated from the centers and stems and scattered over paper towels, then left in a dry place out of the sun for several days. A thin layer of table salt sprinkled over the petals helps to preserve the fragrance. As the petals dry, they will shrivel, making room for fresh petals. When dry, store in air-tight container until ready to make your potpourri.

They will keep indefinitely. There are many potpourri recipes. You may like to choose one of mine as your favorite. One of the pleasures of preparing the potpourri or rose jar, is choosing the container. Old fashioned ginger jars, small china crocks, modern glass containers, of all shapes, hand painted porcelain, or some delicate, fine piece of bric-a-brac, if it is to be placed in the living room or bed room. There one can enjoy a sniff of a summer garden in the dead of the long winter months. Just remove the lid for a few minutes. Exquisite fragrance fills the room. The clothes or linen closet is an ideal place for the spicy fragrance.

FRAGRANT PRODUCT

From roses can be made fragrant toilet water, refreshing in summer or winter, sachets, rose scented candles, rose petal conserve, bath oil, rose hip marmalade. Candied rose petals are delicious. Many children enjoy making rose petal beads when shown how. The petals are ground in a food grinder, rolled into round or oval, large shapes to allow for shrinkage while drying. After they are shaped, each bead should be pierced with a wire to provide a hole for stringing. When hard and completely dry the beads vary in color from a light cocoa to a deep chocolate brown. They are pretty when strung alternately with dime store pink pearls or other beads.

Rose Petal Potpourri: 1 quart dried rose petals, 1 tablespoon orris root, 1 tablespoon allspice, 1 tablespoon nutmeg, 1 tablespoon ginger, 1 tablespoon cloves, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, dried lemon verbena leaves (optional), dried rose geranium leaves (optional), dried lavender leaves (optional), dried jasmine blossoms (optional).

Place in tightly covered container and allow to age for six weeks. When ready for use, shake gently; uncover; add few drops of favorite perfume or cologne.

Grandmother's Rose Jar: Rose petals, 5 drops glycerin, Pure grain alcohol, Coarse salt, 1 tablespoon allspice, 1 tablespoon nutmeg, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon orris root, 1 oz. dried lavender flowers, ½ oz. dried heliotrope flowers, few dried rose geranium leaves.

Place glycerin in rose jar, add layer of petals as each lot is dried; pour one teaspoon grain alcohol over each layer as it is added.

When jar (holding about one quart) is more than three-fourths full, sprinkle lightly with coarse salt; cover tightly; shake every day for two weeks. In mixing bowl, blend all spices with lavender, heliotrope and rose geranium; shake well; add to rose petals; shake again, cover tightly; allow to stand another week. When ready for use, shake jar gently; uncover; add few drops grain alcohol. The room will be scented with the sweetness of a breath-taking fragrance. If mixture is placed in small jars, care should be taken that fixative and spices are in each jar.

If you have trouble finding orris root call me at the Garden Center. This week's program features Mrs. Margie Porter and her ceramics.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Crape Myrtle Well Adapted

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The brilliant crape myrtles in our yards and gardens should feel right at home with our gardenias, ligustrums, nandinas, jasmines, buddleias and other plants we grow because they all come from the same parts of China.

Although crape myrtles were introduced to England in 1759, not much was known about them until botanical expeditions began to penetrate China. In 1843, after the news of peace with China had reached England in the autumn of 1842, The Royal Horticultural Society sent Robert Fortune out as a botanical collector.

Fortune reported that the crape myrtles in China always reminded him of the beautiful hawthorns back home in England.

INSPIRED DESCRIPTIONS

It was, however, that poetic writer and plant hunter supreme, "Chinese" Wilson who wrote the most inspired descriptions of our hardy crape myrtles at home in China. Wilson travelled through the wildest and most difficult back country in China and brought back treasure after treasure for our enjoyment.

He was employed by a wealthy nursery, James Veitch and Sons, as well as by the Royal Horticultural Society and by the Arnold Arboretum in Boston. His travel books sold like hot cakes. They were gorgeously illustrated and produced and are becoming collectors' items today.

LAVISH VEGETATION

A thousand miles into the heart of China, where the climate is subtropical to temperate, Wilson wrote about the stunning beauty and lavish vegetation. The crape myrtles around Ichang inspired him to almost poetic descriptions. He wrote that, in one temple garden, he had seen a matched pair of these trees in flower. They were over 200 years old, trained in the shape of a fan 25 feet high and 12 feet thick. In another garden, there was a tree with a trunk 2½ feet in girth and 25 feet tall.

In these same gardens were nandinas, garenias, camellias, the tender azaleas, bamboos and enormous specimens of the Banksian rose. Whole trees were covered with this beautiful rose. In the fields were cultivated, rice, cotton, tobacco, sweet potatoes and sugar. All his descriptions, in fact, sound like descriptions of our own southern United States, so it is not at all surprising that crape myrtles are one of our most successful trees in summer.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: We have an upstairs clothes closet which I would like to turn into a cedar closet. I would like to use the tongue-and-groove type of cedar planks. Can these be installed directly to the old walls and ceiling, which are made of plaster?

Answer: There are two ways to attack cedar planks to plaster walls. You can install them vertically, in which case you will first have to put up horizontal furring strips, nailing them through the plaster into the studs. The planks are attached to the furring strips. Or you can install the planks horizontally. In that event, there is no need for the furring strips. Attach the planks to the studs. The same theory holds for the ceiling. If the planks are to be placed parallel with the joists, you'll first have to put up furring strips. If the planks are to be at right angles to the joists, they can be nailed directly to them. Where it is necessary to make a fit at a juncture, cut the tongue of one of the cedar planks. You can finish the job with molding or trim if a neater result is desired. Above all, remember to leave the cedar just as it is. Putting a finish on it will destroy its effectiveness.

Shades on corner windows.

Window Age Problem In Decorations

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures writer

We are living in an age of windows — all types, sizes and shapes. But how to dress them is the question, particularly when windows form the "L" of a room or go around a corner. Curtains are likely to look too heavy and confining in warm weather. We want all the light we can get, and the chance to shut it out when we want to.

All sorts of blinds are available, and selection depends on the effect one wants to achieve. Decorators achieve dramatic effects with series of shutters. Matchstick blinds are popular.

A handsome solution may be found in window shades that can solve architectural bottlenecks.

EXAMPLE

For example, interior designer Ruth Adams used a series of interesting window shades completely around a corner with the added complication of a door that was off the terrace. The gold window shades were trimmed with white, gold and black braid and black fringe. Two rows of the same wide trimming edged with black fringe became a slim valance above the shades. The braid trimming was used also in a vertical line between each shade, reminiscent of a traditional bellpull. Each had a black tassel.

In the window corner near the door and windows a round table picked up the color of the window treatment in a Javanese paisley tablescloth in tangerine, black and white. This further enhances the picture of the shades as part of the decorative scheme.

Two things to keep in mind about shades are: Plan shades as part of the room color scheme. Don't give the impression that they are there merely to darken the room.

DECORATING

The effective use of decorating with shades is observed in a great many room schemes devised by good interior designers in recent years.

At the Pavilion of American Interiors at the World's Fair, a library-guest room designed by Karl Steinhauser has shades laminated with the same printed, black and white damask fabric as the wallcovering to give the small room an illusion of more space.

In another space, a set of shades is hung from the ceiling to be used as a room-divider when loveseats and sofas turn the area into sleeping quarters. These have interesting hems outlined in a damask design.

FAWN-COLORED

One set of shades in a living room are the bottom-up type laminated with fawn-colored corduroy and trimmed with red fringe used at floor to ceiling windows. Corduroy is used as the wallcovering in two alcoves of the living room and as curtains with a lining print of pink, red and the fawn color to tie the decorative scheme in a pretty package.

In another building at the Fair, Emily Malino used three brilliant orange and pink designs on white shades for a splash of color in a den that would be great even if it were the only color in the room. Miss Malino, a vibrant personality herself, loves to work with gay colors and always pulls off the accents handsomely. With the orange and pink, she uses a bronze-green rug that goes up the side of a banquette in front of the windows. White cushions and bolsters are at seats in front of two of the windows. A black table top is another at the third window.

Black and white or a combination of the two are used by many decorators to temper brilliant color either as accent or as background for the accent.

Crew Of Twelve Taken From Sea By Coast Guard

HONOLULU (AP) — Twelve crewmen from the tug Sea Wolf were rescued Saturday by the Coast Guard cutter Ponchartrain after the tug caught fire and sank 950 miles northeast of Honolulu.

The big seagoing tug, towing a barge loaded with lumber from Portland, Ore., blazed up Friday night and the crew was forced to abandon her. One crewman suffered second degree burns on the arms and feet.

The Ponchartrain radioed tersely "arrived on scene took crewmen aboard."

The cutter, which had been on weather station midway between Hawaii and the Pacific Coast, had just been relieved when the Sea Wolf sent out her distress call.

The Coast Guard in San Francisco said the cutter, whose home base is Long Beach, Calif., probably would bring the rescued seamen into Long Beach.

Groom Plants For Showing

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Now is an excellent time to start grooming your good potted plants for our Ouachita Valley Fair the week of October 12th.

Here are a few basic rules to follow: Place the plant in a pot that is in appropriate proportion to the plant. A large overpowering pot takes away from the plant whereas a small plant does not show up properly. Pots must be clean and if the pot is off colored, or if you are using a container other than a pot for flowers, paint it dark green.

Potted plants at the fair should look vigorous. Do not repot plants just before the fair, because there is a shock at transplanting. Allow approximately two months between transplanting and the fair.

If "plant shine," a commercially prepared material is used there should not be a heavy coating which gives the plant an artificial sheen.

CLEAN FOLIAGE

Be sure to clean the foliage. Dusty foliage cuts down on the sheen of the over all plant specimen. All foreign debris in pot or on foliage should be removed.

Tips for the summer gardeners. Cut back dahlias to induce new fall blooms. Watch for thrips. Cut flower heads out of caladiums and coleus to prolong the production of new foliage.

Dig gladiolus corms after foliage has browned. Store the corms in old nylon stockings in a cool dry place.

Dig and transplant Louisiana Iris and Easter Lily bulbs.

Begin selecting and ordering spring bulbs for fall planting. Specify October as delivery time. Prepare the beds now for the bulbs.

FREEZING

Your home demonstration agent has received numerous calls this season on freezing vegetables in a cake of ice rather than blanching. After checking with our LSU Food Preservation staff and Extension Specialist in nutrition, your agent found that there was no research or recommendations for this procedure and, therefore, I do not recommend this practice.

From Georgia Research Station bulletin quote, "Scalding or blanching for freezing is a critical step in preparing vegetables for freezing and must be done carefully. This is a must for all vegetables to be held frozen for more than four weeks except those used exclusively for their flavor such as green onions, hot peppers and herbs. Blanching or scalding cleanses the surface of dirt and organisms, brightens the color, helps retain vitamins and reduces the action of enzymes which otherwise would destroy the fresh flavor after four weeks. It, also, shrinks the product, making packing easier. Follow the scalding or blanching time given for each vegetable. This is very important because underscalding stimulates the activity of enzymes and is worse than no scalding or blanching."

FARM, HOME WEEK

Sixty homemakers will leave Monroe early tomorrow for the LSU campus to attend the annual Home and Garden Week.

They are: Mrs. Eldon Arnold and Mrs. Robert Tate from Lamkin Club; Mrs. H. O. Eley, Mrs. L. M. Bayne, Mrs. Emma Nenney, Mrs. Lottie Bryan, Mrs. C. E. Glover, Mrs. Walter Graves, Mrs. E. C. This electric service consumes your tax money

This one pays its own way

. . . Yet both charge practically the same rates

The investor-owned electric companies manage to keep their rates low, even though they don't get the subsidies which REA Co-ops get. For example: Investor-owned companies have to pay about 4½% interest for money they borrow; REA co-ops borrow money from the federal government at 2%, for which the government has to pay about 4%. Investor-owned companies contribute their full share of taxes; the REA Co-ops pay no federal income tax and pay only token local and state taxes. The investor-owned companies' rates are regulated by a state commission or municipality; the REA Co-ops' rates are not.

Senators Try To Slow Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Southern Democratic senators sought Saturday to dampen Dixie enthusiasm for Sen. Barry Goldwater because of the Republican presidential nominee's stand against the new civil rights law.

Sen. George Smathers of Florida cautioned against hasty conclusions that Goldwater will carry his state, even though it went Republican in the past two presidential elections. Smathers said any president is going to enforce the law and civil rights isn't the only issue.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said that Goldwater's civil rights record really isn't what southerners would want it to be, anyway.

Smathers said the most important issue in the election was the "maintenance of this nation's prestige and respect as the leader of the free world while at the same time keeping us out of a large scale nuclear war."

Goldwater, Long said, "has not been as much on our side as some people would indicate."

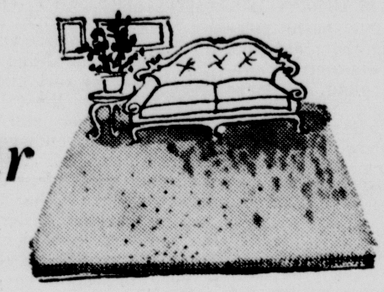

Long noted that Goldwater voted against cloture (ending debate) and against passage of the civil rights bill "which we very much appreciate."

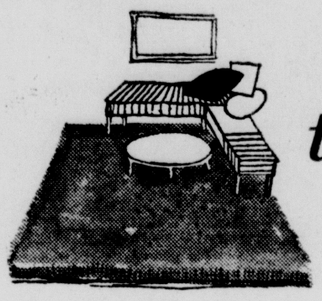

But, he said in a talk for broadcast in Louisiana, "There were nine out of 11 titles in that bill that he was for, and some of them are things he tried to do himself with his own amendments.

"For example, one title would give them the power to take the school lunches away from our little children unless they integrate those schools. Well, Sen. Goldwater had offered amendments to try to do exactly that to us down through the years, to cut off federal aid unless we integrate everything.

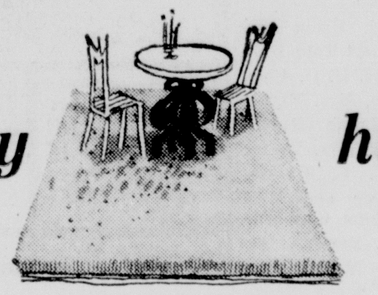

"So while I would say he has been more favorable to us on that score than President Johnson, his own record in that regard is not what a Southerner would like."

A U.S. jet plane roars off the deck of the aircraft carrier Constellation in the Tonkin Gulf where the vessel is on patrol. U.S. Air Strike May Change Some

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Those Asians who may have regarded communism as an inexorable tide have reason now to speculate that it can be held back by a dam reinforced by American power.

Asians fear the spread of war on their continent. But when U.S. bombs punished North Viet Nam's Communists in the Gulf of Tonkin, crisis, the action was tailored to the situation.

More than what the Americans did might have broadened the South Viet Nam conflict into an Asian war. If the Americans did less—or nothing—that also could have led to broadened hostilities by encouraging new Communist probes.

If Asians had believed Americans were too wary of the consequences to assert their power, the crisis of early August may have left them shaken. Regimes which for one reason or another felt constrained to lean toward the Communists are now in a position to reappraise their situations.

Red China had vowed to intervene if North Viet Nam was attacked. But long after the American action, Peking confined itself to verbal abuse and threats.

The Red Chinese are in a dilemma. So far as the Soviet Union is concerned, they stand alone, without the wherewithal to take on U.S. power. Yet, lack of counteraction to save Peking's face and match its words can contribute to a heightened Asian respect for U.S. ability to keep the Communists at bay.

The role of the Moscow-Peking dispute on the changing situation is not lost on Asians. Noting Chinese complaints of a mild Soviet rebuke to the Americans, Asians are likely to have the impression Moscow was not too distressed by Peking's dilemma.

Indeed, the Red Chinese press ever hinted at a Peking suspicion that President Johnson had informed Soviet Premier Khrushchev in advance of the U.S. intention to attack the North Vietnamese bases.

The Peking newspaper People's Daily proclaimed that "final defeat will be the lot of U.S. imperialism and those who prettify it." Red China long has pilloried Khrushchev as such a "prettifier."

The towering presence of China is a big fact of Asian political life. Each nation approaches the future in the light of its own assentation of Peking.

Indonesia, a nation of 100 million in economic chaos, accepts both Soviet and U.S. aid. It has the most powerful and numerous Communist party in the non-Communist world, but its Communists lean to Peking. With the Soviet Union shut out of mainland Southeast Asia by the Chinese, and with the Chinese placed on warning by U.S. power, Indonesian leaders might see some merit in retooling their currently anti-Western brand of neutralism.

Malaysia is threatened from two sides. Indonesia wants to "crush" the new federation as a creature of colonialism. Chinese pressure — half the people in Malaya, heart of the federation, are Chinese — is always present. A firm U.S. stance can give Malaysia time to brace itself.

Burma, governed by Ne Win's dictatorship, has a long border with China. A Burmese leader once told me: "The United States is far away. China is next door. If we must have an enemy, it might better be you." Burma might be persuaded by developments at least not to be neutral on the Chinese side.

Thailand, considered the West's best Asian ally, often needs reassurance. Thais sometimes hint they are considering neutralism as insurance against the eviction of U.S. influence from Southeast Asia. A display of American determination to stay can be interpreted by the Thais as reassurance.

Although India's government expressed alarm at the crisis, many political Indians claim to seek a world leadership they can respect. They experienced Chinese pressure in the 1962 border clash, and get both Soviet and U.S. aid to hold it off. U.S. toughness toward Peking likely aroused many private expressions of satisfaction.

Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk has professed belief that Chinese domination of Southeast Asia eventually is inevitable. The Gulf of Tonkin events can provide him with food for reflection.

In Laos, the developments make it harder for Peking to force the American hand. Eventually — perhaps after the U.S. election — there may be a new Geneva conference on Laos, if the Chinese and Pathet Lao Reds meet U.S. conditions.

One problem may lie in a U.S. need to restrain South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Khanh from pushing his war into North Viet Nam to justify and preserve his own regime. That could change the picture radically and give Moscow little choice except to support both North Viet Nam and Red China.

Life Insurance Course Slated Here In October

Chairmen and instructors for a life underwriters training course have been appointed to conduct the classes starting in October.

James H. Boone will teach the first part of the course and Charley C. Miller will lead the second part.

The Monroe Association of Life Underwriters has sponsored the course locally for the past 16 years. The Life Underwriters Training Council, the national organ, was set up on 1947 through efforts of company and field organizations.

Announcement of the Monroe classes was made by William Inabnet, president of the local association.

Training is designed to help career life underwriters stay abreast with the latest in life insurance. A 25-week course, it is one part of a two-year program. Classes are held weekly with each session lasting two and a half hours.

Boone and Miller will attend a two-day regional conference for instructors before classes start. This meeting will review basic teaching techniques and supply the instructors with necessary class material.

DRILLING PACE FAST

Drying Weather Aid To District

Drilling activity clung to high levels last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District as drying weather continued to improve surface conditions in the south of the 15-parish area.

The Monroe office of District Manager Duncan S. Cook reported, up to today, a total of seven wells completed in three of the parishes during the past week. Four were in Union Parish, two in Rapides, one in LaSalle.

Meantime, 48 rigs were listed as actively drilling or testing, the highest total in recent months. They were scattered in 13 parishes. Twenty new locations were staked in the week in seven parishes.

Leading the list of active rigs was LaSalle Parish with 12, followed by Concordia with nine. Grant Parish had six active rigs, Avoyelles had five, Tensas and Catahoula, three each, Ouachita, Rapides and Richland, two each, and Caldwell, Franklin, Jackson and Union, one each.

The new locations included eight in Catahoula Parish, five in Concordia, two each in Avoyelles and LaSalle, one each in Winn, Caldwell and Morehouse.

One recompletion recorded was in Concordia Parish, the Lake St. John Field — Walter W. Heard's Tennant-Rhodes Unit No. 1, recompleted at 5,929 feet in section 28-9-10E.

Fourteen wells were plugged and abandoned during the week, leaving 61 sites inactive.

Information on the week's completions, active rigs and new locations included the following:

Grain Futures Fairly Steady

CHICAGO (AP)—Net changes were mostly small in the grain futures market last week with gains and losses about equally divided on the Board of Trade.

Prices worked fairly broadly both ways at times but influences were limited mainly to weather, which, as usual, was inconsistent. The government's August crop report seemed a little bearish.

The survey was based on figures compiled as of Aug. 1 but it was not issued until 10 days later. Brokers said that in the interim a severe drought had developed in many limited areas of the major corn and soybean producing states.

Traders said that when the market bulged a little, profit cashers sold quickly and freely in nearly all pits.

At the end of the week, even a forecast of just a chance of showers included liquidation. Spot checks indicated corn in some localities would be useful only for ensilage and that soybean pods were filling poorly or not at all.

'Drumsticks, Selling Well

ATLANTA (AP) — Lester Maddox, who closed his restaurant rather than integrate, says he is doing a better business selling wooden drumsticks than the chicken variety.

Maddox, whose Pickrick Restaurant specialized in fried chicken, calls his ax handle souvenirs "Pickrick drumsticks." Some of the jeering white persons who blocked the entrance of Negroes to the restaurant several days ago were waving these handles.

The 48-year-old restauranteur closed the Pickrick Thursday rather than comply with federal orders to integrate.

"I made more money yesterday selling these drumsticks," he said, "than I did last Friday, with my restaurant open." He said he had sold more than 2,000 handles. They cost $2 each.

Maddox was busily selling other souvenirs Saturday, too, a soft drink labeled 'Gold Water" and the American flag.

A few feet from the cash register, which has been moved outdoors for the souvenir sales, is a black coffin. Inside is a life-size manikin, with a bloody knife sticking from its chest. Propped against the dummy are copies of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. And next to the coffin are huge floral wreaths.

Below the coffin, a sign hangs, "American free enterprise system, private property rights, freedom and liberty."

"I'm just showing what's happened to free enterprise," Maddox said. "I was put to death by my president, my government, the Communists, the left wing news media and cowardly business leaders...."

The slim, bespectacled Maddox said he intends to contest the civil rights law all the way to the Supreme Court. His case is one of the first tests of the new law.

"I haven't let any of my help go yet," Maddox said. "And I hope I don't have to. As long as I have a dime in the bank, we'll keep together. Our day of victory is coming." Maddox had 66 employes at the restaurant, 44 of them Negroes.

Saturday his employees were unloading thousands of ax handles, while Maddox issued orders, autographed ax handles and answered long distance calls.

Stacked on two tables just inside his restaurant doors were at least 1,000 letters from over the United States, unopened.

"Take a look at these," he told the people milling about. "See for yourself, there're more from the North than the South. I get this many every day. I don't even have time to open them."

USL Publicist Named To Post

NORMAN, Okla. (Special) — The College Sports Information Directors of America has elected Bob Henderson, University of Southwestern Louisiana sports publicist, as a College Division representative on CoSIDA's 1964-65 executive committee.

Harold Keith, Oklahoma Univ who was elected president of the versity SID who was elected president of the national organization, stated that Henderson and Ernest Goodman of Howard University, Washington, D. C., will represent the College Division this coming school year.

Festival's Art Show Is Slated For Jonesville

JONESVILLE (Special) — An art show for the Soybean Festival will be held in the American Legion Auxiliary building here on Friday and Saturday, August 28, and 29, it was announced by Mrs. Iola Hendricks, chairman.

"Students and adults are encouraged to enter all types of art for show," Mrs. Hendricks said. Exhibits will be judged and awarded blue, red and white ribbons.

All art exhibits should be registered before 10 a.m. Friday, August 28.

The art exhibits will be on display Friday, August 28, between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. and all day Saturday, August 29, until 6 p.m.

Campaign Form To Be Revealed At GOP Confab

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — The national Goldwater campaign pattern will be revealed in Washington this weekend to a meeting of all Republican state chairmen.

Charlton Lyons, Sr., Republican State Chairman, heads the group of state organization officials departing for the Capitol today to attend the briefing by Goldwater campaign directors. Accompanying him are LeRoy Ellis, state campaign director, and James H. Boyce, state campaign finance chairman.

The objectives of the meeting, attended by representatives from all fifty states, are to coordinate the national campaign with state efforts, to arrange candidates' schedules and to establish liaison with Goldwater's campaign personnel.

Before leaving from Moisant International Airport, Lyons said, "Up to now, it was only possible to organize our campaign partially, because the national headquarters had not set all the policy so that we can take positive action in all areas. This week end, we will get the basic campaign policy clearly understood. This meeting in Washington will mark the real aggressive kick-off of our national campaign. From here on in, the Johnson forces will be met head on by a well coordinated national force."

Registration Is Set At Ouachita Jr. High School

Ouachita Junior High and Elementary School (grades 1-8) will be open for registration from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. starting Monday, school officials announce.

Students entering the first grade must be six years old on or before Dec. 31, 1964, and should bring birth certificates with them.

The school is located on Nutland Road.

Realtors Set State Meeting Here Oct. 1-3

The 46th annual convention of the Louisiana Realtors Association will be held in Monroe Oct. 1-3 at the Virginia Hotel.

The Monroe - West Monroe Board of Realtors will play host for the convention.

Registration begins Thursday morning and Women Council activities are also slated for the first day. Thursday afternoon the director of the State Association will hold a meeting at the hotel.

A golf tournament has been scheduled for Thursday morning with a buffet luncheon following the event. The fee is $5. All interested persons should contact Jerry Carter at 1208 N. 6th St., Monroe.

The official opening of the convention will be kicked off Friday morning with a general session with discussions on new ideas and techniques to prepare realtors for increased volume in 1965.

Some of the noted speakers who will be on hand for the three-day affair are Phil Berg, executive vice president of the Colorado Real Estate Board, who will lead the beginning session. Attorney Pascal Norris of Monroe will follow with a talk. Bob Hardy of Dallas and John Wolfe, NAREB vice president, will be additional headliners present for the informal sessions.

Former Governor Sam Jones will speak at the luncheon on Saturday on "The Future of Louisiana."

Panels and informal discussion sessions will be held Friday on real estate in 1965.

Jack Fluck is convention chairman, Jerry Webster, board president, E. A. Raitee, program chairman and Irene Reid, state publicity chairman.

Goldwater Meet Set Tuesday At Sicily Island

JONESVILLE (Special) — A meeting of Goldwater supporters will be held at the Sicily Island high school on Tuesday beginning at 7:30 p.m. it was announced by Dr. R. U. Fairbanks.

Speakers will be Charlie Chisholm, Mayor W. L. Howard of Monroe, and Senator J. C. Gilbert of Sicily Island.

The meeting is being held so that the citizens may hear the issues involved and better informed on the forthcoming presidental election, it was explained by Dr. Fairbanks.

A parishwide organizational meeting of supporters for Goldwater will be held early in September, it was announced by Ted Husser. The meeting was originally scheduled for next Tuesday, but postponed so that it would not conflict with the meeting at Sicily Island.

LIKE MY HUSBAND SAYS IN HIS LECTURES, ANYBODY WHO WANTS TO MAKE THE EFFORT CAN BE CHARMING.

BUT WHAT HE DIDN'T SAY TO YOUNG KIDS LIKE YOU IS— BEWARE OF THE MAN WHO IS MERELY CHARMING.

A MAN—OR WOMAN—CAN WEAR CHARM LIKE A SUNTAN LOTION. IT CAN BE PATTED ON OR REMOVED IN A SWISH!

DIG DEEP WHEN YOU FEEL YOURSELF FALLING IN LOVE...

TRY TO DECIDE IF IT'S A MAN OR A MANNEQUIN. AND IF YOU FIND OUT HIS CHARM HAS AS MUCH SUBSTANCE AS A CREAM PUFF, TELL YOURSELF THIS—

IT'S A GREAT BALM FOR BUSTED HEARTS—

TELL YOURSELF THAT THE END OF ONE ROMANCE IS REALLY...

...THE BEGINNING OF THE NEXT. AND THE NEXT ONE WILL FIND YOU MORE DISCRIMINATING, HARDER TO BRUISE UNTIL...UNTIL THE REAL RIGHT BOY COMES ALONG. YOU'LL KNOW FOR SURE WHEN IT HAPPENS.

BUT YOU WROTE HERE THAT THE CUSTOMER ASKED FOR "SALT-RISING BREAD" — AND THE WAITER SAID

"ATLANTIC BUILDING — MAIN ENTRANCE AT TEN O'CLOCK"

THAT'S AT THE FAIR — AN' WE'RE DOWN-TOWN! GOT TO MOVE

I'D NEVER GET TO THE ATLANTIC PAVILION IN TIME!

SHAKY BLOPP!

HE'S SKETCHING! AT THE BETTER-LIVING CENTER!

SHAKY! GO TO THE STEPS OF THE ATLANTIC BUILDING AT 10:05 O'CLOCK AND SKETCH THE TWO MEN WHO WILL MEET THERE

IT CLOSES AT TEN, SO NO CROWDS TO WORRY ABOUT...

THEN MEET ME AT THE CLOSED-CIRCUIT STUDIO! — WE'LL PUT THE DRAWING ON THE FAIR NETWORK...

AND TELL THE PEOPLE TO MAKE A CITIZEN'S ARREST...

CAN'T CALL THE POLICE — WHAT WOULD I SAY?

OH! I JUST REMEMBERED... STEVIE B. GAVE ME A NUMBER TO CALL —

AND SAY — "THIS IS POTEET CANYON"

"THE DOUGH IS READY!"

ROGER, MISS CANYON!

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

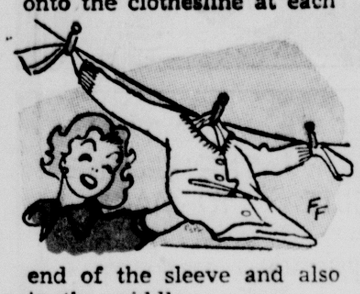

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a simple, quick way for drying sweaters:

Use a piece of an old bed sheet and tear off a long strip one foot wide.

After washing the sweater, button it (if it has buttons) down the front. Roll up the strip of bed sheet lengthwise.

Run this roll through one sleeve and out the other. Clothespin the excess sheet onto the clothesline at each end of the sleeve and also in the middle.

Just before the sweater is completely dry, open the buttons and let the garment dry thoroughly.

This method works wonders for all types and sizes of sweaters, especially if they are those heavy shag sweaters which take so long to dry. I find my sweaters never need blocking when this method is used. However, a slight pressing with a steam iron might be needed on some types of materials.

Two old nylon stockings tied together can be used in place of a strip of bed sheet.

Mrs. Orlo H. Sasman

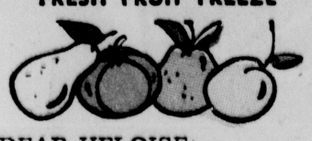

DEAR HELOISE:

I am a little girl 11 years old. I have two younger brothers and a sister, and they are always pulling the plastic ends off their shoestrings.

My father taught me a trick he learned in the Army. All I do is take these frayed shoestring ends, twist them into a point, and dip them in my mother's fingernail polish three or four times. This makes a strong tip that cannot wear out or be pulled off.

Jackie Campbell

FRESH FRUIT FREEZE

DEAR HELOISE:

When packaging fresh fruit to put in my freezer, I always place the plastic freezer bag in a pitcher or deep bowl so that it will not fall over while I am filling it.

I have found this extremely handy. When the bag is filled I twist the top and tie it, and away she goes!

R. V. B.

Now, aren't you clever? I just finished doing a bushel basket of peaches, and your idea was wonderful and saved many spills! Thanks a bushel.

Heloise

[illegible] PLATE SAVER

DEAR HELOISE:

People complain about plastic charge plates sliding out of their billfolds.

They can prevent this by putting the charge plates into a plastic rain-bonnet case. The charge plate just fits and can be slipped into a billfold very nicely.

Louise Blank

TROUBLESOME TILE

DEAR HELOISE:

The next time you are faced with the back-breaking job of cleaning bathroom tile and bathtub, try this little trick:

When you shower, take a soap-filled pad along with you. Turn on the water, step into the tub and start scrubbing . . . the tile first and then yourself! (The soap pad is for the tile—not you).

This dreaded job is actually fun when you do it in a refreshing shower. The shower head can be adjusted to rinse down the walls when you are done.

T. Egan

ICE-PACK TIP

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a hint for using those old bath towels.

I make individual coverings for my hot-water bottle and my ice pack. I use white shoestrings for the ties!

These coverings feel good next to the skin and also keep the water bottle or ice pack from slipping and sliding.

QUICKY RING-MOLD

DEAR HELOISE:

If you ever need a ring-mold and do not have one, try filling a fruit jar with some ice cubes and placing it in the center of any large bowl, pot or pan.

You can then pour the gelatin into the pan and set it in your refrigerator.

Once the dessert has become congealed you can pour a little warm water into the fruit jar and it slips right out.

Doris Ware

STAIRWAY SAFETY

DEAR HELOISE:

To make our cellar stairs safer, I painted every other step a dark gray, and the in-between ones a light gray color. These can be seen much more clearly and they prevent falls and missteps.

Mrs. C. W.

LAUGHING MATTER

DEAR HELOISE:

I'm 14 years old, and I do a lot of baby-sitting with my little brother and sister.

When they get cranky or start to pout, I shout "No laughing allowed!"

This makes them start to laugh, and soon they've forgotten what they were pouting about!

Tex

Tex, your sense of humor will carry you far in this world.

Keep laughing—

Heloise

QUICK BROWN GRAVY

DEAR HELOISE:

Once in a while we are in such a hurry to make gravy that we don't let the flour brown long enough. I always put my leftover coffee in a fruit jar and set it in the refrigerator. This can be used when making gravy.

It not only gives the gravy a brown color but seasons it with a fantabulously different flavor.

Albert Sprague

* * *

Ah . . . just TRY making coffee-gravy. It's lush. Just as Albert says it is!

Heloise

RATTLING DOORS

DEAR HELOISE:

Did you know that if you take one or more heavy rubber bands, put them over a doorknob, stretch them around the edge of the door to the opposite doorknob and attach them, they will buffer the sound of a rattling door?

If you use enough bands they also will eliminate the nerve-shattering noise of slamming doors. Try it.

Mrs. D. Caplan

[illegible] OF THE WEEK

DEAR HELOISE:

I save time when stuffing a turkey or chicken by putting the dressing in a cheesecloth bag and then inserting bag and all into the fowl. When the fowl is done, I just lift the cheesecloth bag out, open it, and there is the perfect dressing.

Mrs. J. S.

WELL, WELL. HERE COMES TH' SHULTZ BOY, BUDDY, FROM DOWN TH' ROAD, WITH HIS CITY COUSIN, EGBERT! HELLO, BOYS!

HI!

'LO, AL! HI, ANNIE! THIS IS MY COUSIN EGBERT!

YOU YOUNGUNS'LL HAVE A LOT T'TALK ABOUT, BUT LOOK OUT FOR EGBERT. HE'S A REAL MATHEMATICS GENIUS, I HEAR!

GEE! I NEVER MET A REAL GENIUS! AND IN MATHEMATICS! WOW!

OH, REALLY, IT'S NOTHING! I JUST HAVE A SPECIAL GIFT, I GUESS!

ASK HIM A PROBLEM! ANYTHING!

HM-M--WELL, NOW, HERE'S AN OLD ONE THAT STUMPS SOME: "AS I WAS GOING TO ST. IVES, I MET A MAN WITH SEVEN WIVES; EACH WIFE HAD SEVEN SACKS; EACH SACK HAD SEVEN CATS;....."

"EACH CAT HAD SEVEN KITS! KITS, CATS, SACKS AND WIVES; HOW MANY WERE GOING TO ST. IVES?"

OH, THAT IS ELEMENTARY! INCLUDING THE HUSBAND THE TOTAL IS--AH--EXACTLY 2801!

SIMPLE, WHEN ONE KNOWS HOW, EH, COUNTRY COUSIN?

ONLY YOU'RE WRONG! PROBLEM WAS, HOW MANY WERE GOING TO ST. IVES? RIGHT! ANSWER IS ONE!

EH? ER--HUMPH! THAT WAS A SNEAKY TRICK QUESTION! I DON'T THINK I LIKE EITHER OF YOU MUCH!

HM-M,--EGBERT SURE IS QUICK AT FIGURES, BUT I WONDER WHO'LL GO FARTHER IN THIS WORLD!

WELL, I'D BET ON BUDDY!
